Hoch Promises Quick Action on White Uniforms

Dr. Paul Hoch, State Commissioner of Mental Hygiene, has advised the Civil Service Employees Association that he is considering a suggestion previously planned. Dr. Hoch said the Department of Mental Hygiene would not wait until 1959 for resolution of the program.

He also said the Department进展情况, to be able to change the caps of nurses who have graduated from State Hospital and, to eliminate possible attrition from other female ward personnel after those persons began wearing white uniforms.

Dr. Hoch said he expects to have the entire matter resolved within a month or two.

Council Named For Improper Practices Act

Governor Rockefeller has announced the appointments of the Advisory Council on the Labor Management Improper Practices Act.

The Labor and Management Improvement Practices Act was passed by the Legislature in a recent session upon the recommendation of the Governor. The Act is designed to safeguard union funds and to eliminate financial abuses in labor-management relations.

In general, it prohibits labor union schemes to obtain financial interests which tend to conflict with their fiduciary obligations, to participate in violating violations by labor officials, and requires the filing of reports by labor unions and management of financial and other information as provided for in the law.

The Labor and Management Improvement Practices Act establishes the advisory council to help inform us to the trends relating to ethics practices of labor and management, to report to the Governor and the Legislature concerning the operation, administration and enforcement of the act, and to make recommendations for revisions of the act.

Named to the Advisory Council are: Orrin G. Judd, of New York, designated by the Governor; Charles J. Hickey, of Detroit, Michigan; Paul M. Hertog, of New York, for a five-year term, and Robert P. Kolodzie, of New York, for a one-year term.

Civil Service Spotlighted In State Fair

ALBANY, Aug. 31 - Young people about to embark on a lifetime career will find real value in the “Opportunity” theme when they follow a goal-directed page to the “Opportunity Center” in the State Exhibits Building.

Three specially trained employment counselors of the State Department of Civil Service will be on hand throughout the Fair to discuss State employment with anyone interested.

Visitors to the exhibit of the State's central personnel agency will be shown how they can apply their training, skills and interests to a well-paying State government position. Qualified people will also be able to apply for current job openings.

Among the many fields of work for which the Civil Service counselors will be anxious to find applicants are accounting, parole and social work, engineering and architecture. They will also be on the lookout for dental hygienists, laboratory workers, tantalizing machine operators and steam fitters.

The New York State Fair will be held at the State Polargrounds, Syracuse, from September 9 to 12. The Fairgrounds are two miles from Thruway Interchange No. 13.

The Variable Annuity Plan
What Is It? How Can It Help?
Benefit Or Lose on Pensions?

By PHILIP KERKER
CSEA Pakistan Desk, Bureau 3

This week The Leader begins a series of columns by Philip Kerker, director of public relations for the Civil Service Employees Association, on various aspects of the variable annuity plan. The series is intended to help members of the State Retirement System. Mr. Kerker has drawn his information from many sources, including the State Retirement System—The Editor.

The concept of the variable annuity and its use as an addition to the New York State Retirement System was first introduced to the New York State public employees in 1958. In the spring of that year, Commissioner Arthur Keynvin in a speech before a Civil Service Employees Association meeting expressed his interest in the concept and his intention to study its application to the Retirement System.

Two years earlier, in a Leader column, the Association had suggested that the idea of the variable annuity be studied for its possible use to increase the dollar values of public pensions and help meet the eroding effects of inflation upon the purchasing power of the dollar.

The variable annuity is a means to overcome the fixed dollar pension problem that prevailed in the initial retirement plans. The variable annuity will permit the plan participants in the retirement fund to invest a part of the retirement fund in common stocks and other equities instead of receiving the retirement funds in fixed dollars. By investing a part of the retirement fund in common stocks, the participant will have a variable retirement fund.

Some economists have held to the theory that the economic system of the United States has been subject to inflationary influences since the end of the Civil War. Sometimes this inflationary trend has been slow or "creeping" and at other times it has been violent. The decade between 1940 and 1950 is an example of the latter as was the decade between 1910 and 1920. Periods of deflation occurred between the years 1929 and 1935 as well as 1950 and 1955. The more recent figures are more pertinent to the variable annuity as employed by employees of the State of New York. A glance at any economic chart showing the trend of the cost of living will show a definite upward surge from 1950 to the present. It is true there was a slight drop between 1910 and 1920 and a big dip between 1930 and 1940 but the slope will show the trend to be definitely upward.

Also, a similar chart showing common stock prices during the same period will show the same trend although the chart will not be parallel in detail. It was the existence of this phenomenon that was one of the factors prompting students of retirement systems to relate the investment in retirement funds to common stocks.

calculated to relate the investment in retirement funds to common stocks.

Among the variables that can be controlled within the variable annuity plan are to the extent that they are within the participant’s control.

Conventional Plans

The conventional retirement plan, with its funds invested in bonds and fixed dollar investments, has largely been a loser for its pensioners in fixed dollars, as the inflation of the past 25 years has shown some weaknesses. Those who retired during this period faced the problem of finding more and more inadequate to maintain their existence. The pensioner of today will find that he feels rapidly during this period. In fact, some economists have figured the reduction of the buying power of the dollar be as much as 30 percent between 1940 and 1960 because of a real problem for many people on retirement and a customary annuity.

For example, a person retiring from the public service in the early 1950’s was placed at a period of a $1,500 fixed dollar retirement income. He would need his $1,500 today buying only about $0.00 of the same goods and services—light, heat, rent, clothing, etc. His pension would never increase because of the purchasing power of the dollar. Thus, the $1,500 retirement income would be reduced to a $1,500 fixed dollar retirement income. He would continue to receive $1,500 every year of his retirement life. Even if the buying power of the dollar fell, he would of necessity have to reduce his income expenses within his income. Obviously, if a fixed dollar pension wos sufficient to overcome the advantage of a pensioner during periods of deflation eroding purchasing power or deflation. However, periods of deflation in the American economy have not been a rarity and none has occurred since 1949.

Dr. Donald Collins was appointed director of the Wisconsin Teachers Retirement System to its membership at a time when the Teachers Retirement System was facing one of its greatest crises. The crisis was the result of the rapid rise in the cost of living. The crisis was met by the retirement system, which took steps to provide for a share of the increased cost of living during retirement.

In order to provide for a share of the increased cost of living during retirement, the Wisconsin Teachers Retirement System introduced the concept of the variable annuity plan. The plan, with its funds invested in common stocks and other equities, is designed to overcome the fixed dollar pension problem.

The Wisconsin Teachers Retirement System is one of the largest retirement systems in the United States. It was established in 1951, the Wisconsin law having been passed by the New York State Legislature to permit the application of the variable annuity principle to their retirement plan. The Teachers Retirement Association, which was created as a conventional life insurance company, was reorganized as an investment corporation on retirement fixed dollar pensions.

The result of the 1963 legislation was the establishment of the College Retirement Equities Fund, as it is currently known, a variable annuity company domiciled in New York State. Today, it is estimated that the Wisconsin Teachers Retirement Association has in force a variable annuity plan for over 100,000 teachers and retired teachers in the state.

What Stalls P.O. Title for Christenberry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 — somebody sitting on the postmas-ter’s mailbag of Robert C. Christenberry? Mr. Christenberry, horticulturist and former candidate for mayor of New York City, has been holding down the job of acting postmaster since July. His name was sent to Congress by President Eisenhower for confirmation as postmaster.

That was more than a month and a half ago. And the 1958 session of Congress is nearly over.

Mr. Christenberry’s nomination isn’t the only one held up. The Republicans say the Democrats are deliberately stalling, and the Democrats say they can’t get a quorum.

The Senate’s Post Office and Civil Service Committee, headed by Sen. Olin Johnston (D., S.C.), has more than 1,400 postmaster appointments before it. A little more than 600 have been confirmed. None has been rejected.

New York State’s Senators, Jacob J. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating (both Republicans) have both appealed personally to Senator Johnston.

Meanwhile, Congress is begin-moving to talk about packing its mailbag and closing up shop for this session.

Federal Workers

Forming Own Credit Unions

Nine groups of Federal employees formed their own credit unions during the first six months of 1959 according to the Credit Unions National Association (CUNA). There are more than 600 credit unions serving Federal employees, CUNA reports.

Largest of the group is the CHOD Credit Union, serving a potential membership of 722 employees of the Chicago Ordinance Division.

Others were formed in West County, West Virginia; Morgantown, West Virginia; Husband Field, Indiana; Kanawha County, West Virginia; Rolls, Missouri; Frankfurt, Ky.; Shiedt, Ala. and Pt. Detries, Maryland.

Credit unions are private, non-profit corporations formed by people with a common bond, or mutual interest. They agree to save their money together, and to make loans to each other out of their joint capital. All credit unions operate under law and are chartered by the government. The members elect officers from among their group who serve without pay, with the possible exception of the treasurer who may be paid. If the volume of the work requires a large amount of his time.

There are more than 20,000 credit unions with 13,000,000 members throughout the world, CUNA re-

New U.S. Employee Code

Sponsored by Rep. Celler

A bill to gather up all Federal personnel legislation into one ordinance, up-to-date bundle for the first time in over 30 years was introduced in Congress last week by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D., N.Y.), chairman of the House Committee on the Judiciary.

The measure provides for re-codification of Title 5 of the United States Code, which includes most of the Federal personnel laws. It will mark the first full codification of personnel laws since enactment of the Civil Service Act in 1883.

The new code is a result of three years of study by a U.S. Civil Service Commission staff group headed by James H. Pale-son, Jr., of the U.S. C.C.S. gen-

from the Committee on the Judi-

The Teamster Policy Shift Is Uncalled For

N A RADICAL change of policy, Teamster Local 237 has announced a campaign to bring State employees into its fold. Within the last few months, James Heff, international vice-president of the Teamsters, told a Teamster delegate meeting in Miami, Florida, that the public employees were the next target of the Teamsters organizing campaign.

Henry Feinstein, president of Teamster Local 237, said he has asked for and received the full support of the International Union in the campaign to win State workers as members of his local, despite the fact that most state workers are already members of the Civil Service Employee Association.

The Association has a long and splendid record of accomplishment for its members and we fail to see the need for raiding by Mr. Feinstein in an area where workers have in no way expressed dissatisfaction with their working conditions.

We feel that Mr. Feinstein’s efforts are unseemly and unnecessary and in all probability will do nothing more than stir up strife without strengthening his own local. We need only to cite the results of his efforts to organize the New York City Police — a campaign whose tactics The Leader opposed.

NEW JERSEY: A probationary exam for police candidates has been recommended by police officials at a recent institute, which asked that the State Civil Service Commission provide police officers with training in emergency work. Wasm has had such a program for some time.

"MAIL WOMEN" may be in the works, as U.S. postal operations get under more mechanized service in the New York area. Westchester and Putnam Counties are making a point to prove how useful women who can apply for clerk jobs in the post office. A new U.S. Assistant to the Postmaster General has been appointed and will be in charge of recruiting women.

CALIFORNIA legislature has called on state agencies to arrange for reasonably priced parking space for state employees. The system of fees tried to meet the state's total financial requirements resulted in running up and running down the parking facilities.

OKLAHOMA saw a fine bit of promotion of civil service for public eyes. Seniors of an Oklahoma City high school worked one day each in the state's Personnel Board's office to create an "ideal secretary" contest. They received the exam for senior stenographer, were interviewed by a private firm, and rated on secretarial work by the Personnel Board.

ST PAUL, MINN., wrote junior civil engineers by inviting candidates to come to the city for examination at the City's expense — and then rated, interviewed and hired the brightest of the candidates who returned home. The City got junior engineer draftsman, and a new one-year training program.

DAYTON, OHI0, settled a contested election with a Civil Service exam of the candidates. A court decision invalidated results of an election for Harrison Township Supervisor. All candidates were required by an impartial test to select the best candidate. Then the City Civil Service Board gave the exam free to the seven candidates and all the losers stated that the result was impartial and valid.

Awards Go to 400 Policemen

Nearly 400 members of the New York City Police Department were awarded citations for meritorious service recently, Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy has announced.

A posthumous Honorable Mention award, the highest award made, was given Patrolman Michael Talkowsky, 23rd Precinct. He was fatally wounded in a gun battle January 31, 1959.

Another honorable mention award went to Patrolman Richard S. Melita, who was with Patrolman Talkowsky in the fatal battle. One of the bandits involved was killed and the other two fled but were picked up later that day.

Patrolman Adam H. Biachur-st, 114th Precinct, received an Exceptional Merit award for his part in another lead-spattered arrest.

The other awards conferred were 29 Commendations, 190 Meritorious Police Duties and 234 Excellent Police Duty awards. All count as extra credits on promotion examinations.

Questions Answered
On Social Security

Is it "too late for my wife to file her claim for her own social security? I have been disabled about 2 years. My husband is 62 years old. We have started to receive our Social Security at the beginning of September. 1958. Has she lost her right to claim social security? I have been drawing disability payments and my wife is over 62 years old last September and she heard about this several months ago. Can she still file a claim before the close of September? If she will file her claim with her money before the close of September, she may still be entitled to receive monthly payments beginning with September 1958.

I worked under social security up until 2 years ago and at the age of 32 I became permanently injured on the job. I haven't filed for disability under social security, as I do not want to interfere with my Mate Workmen's Compensation. However, I am wondering if I am mistaken on this and if I should do something about my social security benefits.

By all means. Because of recent changes in the Social Security law, you may be eligible for the Workmen's Compensation and social security. Get in touch with your local Social Security office before September 1959 to see if you are eligible as of now that she Is in a nursing home.

For several years my husband was supporting a minor child when we were planning to go to New York State. My husband and I followed through with the proceeding and had, the applications legally adopted. Can I be eligible to receive social security benefits for this minor child? Yes, if a child is legally adopted within two years after the death of the parents, all other requirements are met. Monthly benefits may be paid to a person other than you or your employer. The new provisions on adopted children will not permit payment to be made to him.

I have been drawing disability benefits for 5 months past 18 except disabled children who became disabled before 18. Therefore, benefits will cease when your son attains 18. Actually your son's last payment will be for October because benefits end with the month before the month of attaining 18.

My husband and I have been drawing benefits at the minimum rate. Now he has died. Will my widow's benefit be only three-fourths of his $300.00 monthly rate? No. You will receive $360.00 a month, although the widow's benefit is usually three-fourths of her husband's monthly rate: however, a widow alone will not be paid less than $50.00.

My wife and I have been receiving our social security benefits in a combined check. However, now that she is in a nursing home, it is possible for us to get separate checks. I have sent one check to the Social Security office and one sent to my wife at the nursing home.

Several checks can be issued if a couple are separated. Separate checks will be issued upon request in cases where it is burdensome or difficult for the payee to promptly negotiate their checks.

My husband died fully insured last February. When I filed for benefits, I was told that no monthly benefits were payable until I was 62 years old unless I had a minor child of my husband's care. Since...
