State Sets Up Employee Counselling Service

ALBANY, Oct. 15 — The establishment of a State-wide employee counselling service has been announced by the Public Employees Personnel Relations Board. The service, unique in the United States, will allow State workers to discuss their work problems, their grievances and even their personal home problems, in confidence. In charge of the new program is Miss Jane McPurlane, an official of the Personnel Relations Board.

Allen B. Hubbard, Board chairman, stated that any employee with a problem is now free to apply directly to Miss McPurlane, at the office of the Personnel Relations Board, Civil Service Commission, State Office Building, Albany.

"Better Workers"

"We are not solving the problems," Mr. Hubbard said. "We feel that this service will make better workers of the State's employees. For example, suppose an employee is unhappy in his present job and doesn't know how to go about getting a Transfer. We may be able to help him find a solution."

He gave another example:

"It sometimes happens that an employee's work-quality falls off, he is unhappy, and doesn't know what to do about it. Miss McPurlane will try to help him help himself."

"We feel that this program will pay off in more contented employees and in better work performance."

The Personal Touch

Miss McPurlane, who is known over the entire State as "one of the best liked employees," said that the program was intended to help employees have grievances at their source, to iron out personal conflicts between employees and employer, improve human relations, and to eliminate difficulties which make for discontent.

William F. McDonough, executive assistant to the president of the Civil Service Employees Association, heartily praised the plan, saying that it could be of invaluable aid to troubled employees. He urged employees with problems of personal grievances to make use of it.

Employees may come in person to see Miss McPurlane or may write her.

Jesse B. McPurlane, Association president, stated that he has received assurances from John A. Caffrey, Superintendent of State Police, that the matter is receiving consideration.

A Must—Vote for Amendment 3

For minimum pensions, to aid the old retired civil servants who need it most, remember—

Vote YES on Amendment 3 election day. Make sure all your friends and acquaintances vote YES on Amendment 3.

The Fire Officers And the Dynamite

It must be sadly recorded that the leghargy of NYC public officials sometimes reaches an incredible stupor.

A case in point:

The most conservative group of City employees, the Fire officers—from lieutenant through chief—have publicly announced that they've reached "the end of the line," and that they will not take "unified, direct action" to obtain wage adjustments whose validity no one has ever disputed. These men, traditionally loathe to take strong measures, are going to put on a "dignified gathering and parade" in City Hall Park.

Do members of the Board of Estimate grasp the full significance of such a measure by the Fire officers?

Probably not, or they would never have permitted the raw feeling of injustice to attain such a pitch. The simple fact is that the Fire officers have been shabbily treated, as indeed have nearly all groups of City employees.

The City simply cannot forever ask its employees to continue to subsidize it by taking home less pay than they should. Such an attitude would never be tolerated in private industry; neither is it acceptable, by any legislature, in a democracy. A demonstration of the Fire officers is a symptom, a surface eruption of the seething discontent prevailing throughout the City service.

The Board is sitting on a piece of dynamite which has been smoldering a long time. If it ever explodes, there will be hell to pay. And among the heads likely to be blown off are many which have long been reposing in the sand.

Dongan Guild Of State Employees

The Dongan Guild of New York State Employees—will hold its Thirteenth Corporate Communion Mass and breakfast on the Feast of Christ the King, Sunday, October 28. After 9 o'clock Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral, the breakfast will be served in the Century Room of the Hotel Commodore, NYC State Department representatives will attend the event to hear the address of the Guild's president.

U.S. to Train For Jobs as Personnel Clerk

The U.S. Civil Service Commission will conduct a personnel clerk training course, in response to many requests from Federal offices throughout the State, and continue its course for clerks in an enlarged scope.

James R. Boissel, director, Federal and Regional Office of the Commission (New York and New Jersey), will start the personnel clerk training course on October 28. The course will take place in NYC if they can make their own arrangements for being in the City. In addition, courses will be held later at key centers in the state, including Albany, Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester. Classes will be limited to 20 students inside the State.

The personnel clerk course will be open only to employees of postal offices throughout the State, for minimum pensions, to aid the old retired civil servants who need it most, remember—

New Plan for Civil Servants: Learn to Paint, Relax From Tension in Art Lessons

Art interest among civil service employees is at an all-time high. At the Albany Art Institute, the monthly membership is up 85% over last April. From now on, the Institute expects to sell more than 30 tickets at its various exhibits each month.

Busier workers than ever before are turning to painting, drawing, sculpture, and other art activities. The Albany Art Institute, in common with many other art associations, has its own art show in Albany for the first time. It was a huge success, and many other exhibits are scheduled to follow.

Now comes along a new idea for adults, including civil servants, who are interested in becoming amateur artists. It's a combination of learning art and an emotional restorative. The plan is being started by Doris Meltzer, the new director of the National Art Institute.

How It Works: Idea is that in a one-hour lesson, the amateur will be permitted to develop, in small classes or alone, at his own rate of speed, what is commonly known as an untalented "masterpiece." Miss Meltzer gives her students full attention during the entire period of each hour's instruction. "The students don't need much help from me," she says. "I just help them keep their brains in their heads."

Prominent celebrities are handled in a similar manner. "It's a pleasure to teach them," Miss Meltzer says.

The studio is full equipped. A large art-library is available for students to use during the entire period of instruction. There is no emphasis on creating "masterpieces." Miss Meltzer gives her students full attention during the entire period of each hour's instruction.

The studio is located on the top floor of the Institute, which is on the corner of 11th Avenue and 16th Street.
