Dewey's Annual Message Calls for Salary Increase, Heavier Work Burden

ALBANY, Jan. 1 — Governor Thomas E. Dewey was prepared to say, in his formal annual message scheduled for delivery on Wednesday, January 3, to the State Legislature, that some employees were being held back in their work, that the state budget show some increase for salaries, and that the time had arrived for more wage increases.

"Salary increases," the Governor said, "will help the efforts being made to speed up service...Mr. Dewey's Annual Message calls for Salary Increase, Heavier Work Burden...The Governor has previously said...and may reiterate in his message...that the filling of vacant positions in State offices is...That means...to reducing the burden...and for remaining employees..."}

State Salaries Have Failed To Keep Pace With Rise In Private Industry Wages

By MILDRED M. LAUDER
Member of Salary Committee
Civil Service Employees Association

FOR THE PAST ten years State salaries have lagged behind the earnings of workers in private industries. Some evidence on this point is available from a comparison of State salaries with those in the private sector.

One basic problem has been that New York State salaries for equivalent positions are lower than the wages paid to employees in the private sector. The survey of the duties and job classifications of these employees was completed by members of the staff of the Commission for Classification and Compensation division last week.

McFarland Appoints Rogers and Kerker to High Association Positions

ALBANY, Jan. 1—Jesse McFarland, president of the Civil Service Commission, last week announced the appoint- ment of James H. Rogers as industrial relations supervisor and Joseph F. Kerker to the position of field representative of Henry W. Rogers to the State Revises Eligible lists contain the names of all candidates who have qualified for competitive examinations and are eligible for employment in the State Civil Service. About 1,700 lists were involved in the project, said Commissioner James E. Rossell, Director of the Civil Service Commission.

The revised lists will become effective January 9 when the new State Salary Standardization Board, established by Governor Lehman, begins its work. The Board will make recommendations to the Governor on the adjustment of salaries of State employees. The Board was appointed by Governor Lehman to study the salaries of State employees.

The inspection then drew an X on the road. The Inspector again: "Come to a complete stop within 20 feet if driving at 40 miles an hour?" (It was 10 feet off.) The next corner. (It was 10 feet off.) Two New Members Serve With State Grievance Board

ALBANY, Jan. 1 — The educational program of the Personnel Relations Board, designed to improve employee relations in the State service, will start with a training course for the two panels appointed by the Board and the Training Division of the Civil Service Department.

Allen H. Hubbard, Jr., Chairman of the Board, and Dr. John E. Catlin, Director of Training, have chosen four employees to serve on the first panel. The new members from the panel are chosen every two months.

New Board Members

The Board has announced its decision to handle complaints in five additional State services, bringing the total to eight, with a total of approximately 8,709 employees. They are the Workers' Compensation Board, Division of Military and Naval Affairs, Employment Interviewer, DPUI., Compensation Claims Investigator, Tax & Finance, Principal Account Clerk, Director of Training.

Will Courts Review Service Record Ratings?

The START of a new year is from a recent court case involving a junior high school teacher, who failed to qualify for a promotional salary increment granted for "exceptional teaching service" under the 1947 Teachers' Salary Law. This service, by statute, must be in the following areas: (a) Direct teaching service, (b) non-teaching service, (c) non-school activity, and (d) education. The local board of education, to by law, designates the areas of service to be recognized and the board of education, to by law, designates the areas to be recognized and the assignment of the salary increment.

In some jurisdictions, the annual assessment of employee performance is mandatory. In the New York City teacher's case, for example, the law requires that "all administrative services, whatever known as departments, institutions, boards, commissions or otherwise, shall keep and report service records and ratings of employees, for the purpose of recording the performance of service, the quality and quantity of which shall be announced. (Last day to apply for the position is by the end of the year.)

Attitude of the Courts

Although formalized service or efficiency ratings are subject to the criticisms which attend the critical judgment of human activity and personality, assessment, service, or otherwise, shall keep and report service records and ratings of employees, for the purpose of recording the performance of service, the quality and quantity of which shall be announced. (Last day to apply for the position is by the end of the year.)

(Last day to apply for the position is by the end of the year.)

Administrative Control

"Since the enactment of the salary law of 1947 it has been the function of the various agencies to administer the personnel of the educational system, to record the performance of service, the quality and quantity of which shall be announced. (Last day to apply for the position is by the end of the year.)"

News item on New York prices. (NYT Dec. 27, 1959)

The consumer price index of the Labor Bureau reached an all-time high of 175.6 on November 15—a month and a half ago it was 174.6. The increase, the ... person on fixed salary, and every pensioner, knows... A $5,000 salary in 1940 would need a $4,475 salary to equal it in terms of buying power.

These are hard salary facts. They cannot be met with equivocation or half-measures. The public employee cannot be compelled to subscribe to the theory that you are going to get the money? and his plight shifted off that way. The job of the elected official is to find that money, and to find it in a manner that is not going to be carried against the public employee. Difficult? Of course. But a difficulty that the public employee must not be made to bear the severe brunt of inflation.

Some Candidates Tested Before Filing Closes

For the first time in its history the Second Regional Office of the U. S. Civil Service Commission (New York) recently conducted written tests before the period of receipt of applications expired. The test issued by the U. S. Civil Service Commission; Sample Intelligence Test, was a prerequisite to getting off the list.

The central office of the Commission, as well as all of the regional offices throughout the country, are expediting their examination work as an effort to meet the Hoover Commission that some of the operations were too slow.

James B. Russell, Director of the Second Regional Office, estimated that there would be 10,000 candidates. There were 8,800 WOCs, who are housewives, farm workers, mechanics, and others across the nation using weather observing equipment. Working with the Federal Security Agency are 4,500 WOCs, of whom cooperate with the Public Health Services. Writing statistical reports on the incidences of various diseases.

The Department of Agriculture is hoping to have a turnover of some of the candidates who were to remain in the election work, some of whom assist in the church, no 208 and polio disease. Deputy game wardens of 26 and equipment, are served with 2,250 WOCs.

Draft Machinery Preparing To Shift Into High Gear, With Trained Corps Ready

Sporred by Major General Lewis B. Hershey, a concrete effort was made after World War II to prepare the military, industry and the public for a major shift into a peacetime economy. The Personnel of the Selective Service System, D.C., under the direction of Col. William J. Walsh, has provided solutions that were unprecedented. It was reasoned that the country would soon hear a voice calling for the mobilization of the civilian economy to meet the demands of the armed forces. This voice belongs to the Selective Service law, regulations and executives.

A Fielded Group

Chosen for the units were men of experience in Selective Service from the last war as well as men whose civilian training was in related fields and who were fitted to understand the needs of time, of emergency, of industry, agriculture and the armed forces.

Training sessions have been held regularly. Observations of law have been discussed and practical problems have been solved. A number of these officers attended pre-war Selective Service training courses. In the past, it was hoped that military training would be given to the units. But in the last war, that would bring over the use of conscription.

A New Type of Register

In all, there are 500,000 units. In this set-up across the country, the units are sponsored by various boards of the Selective Service System. These registers are in a unit headed by a local chairman.

Transit Sergeant and Lieutenant Tests Open in Feb.

Two Transit Police promotion tests will open next month: one for the position of transit sergeant, and the other for the position of transit lieutenant. The tests will be given in February, and will be open to all employees of the New York City Transit System who meet the eligibility requirements.

The test for transit sergeant will be held on February 5th, and will consist of two parts: a written part, which will be held at the New York Public Library at 5 p.m., and an oral part, which will be held at the Transit Police Headquarters at 8 a.m.

The test for transit lieutenant will be held on February 6th, and will also consist of two parts: a written part, which will be held at the New York Public Library at 5 p.m., and an oral part, which will be held at the Transit Police Headquarters at 8 a.m.

Eligibility requirements for both tests include: completion of the transit police training course, a minimum of two years of service as a transit police officer, and a passing score on the written part of the test.

NOTE TO ALL EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATIONS

The Civil Service Law requires that a list of all public employee organizations be compiled. This newspaper will be grateful for the cooperation of all organizations in the compilation of such a list, which will be used to fill vacancies through civil service examination and will be open to all employees of the New York City Transit System who meet the eligibility requirements.

The list will be compiled in February, and will be open to all employees of the New York City Transit System who meet the eligibility requirements.

Transit Patrolman Test

Of 1,787 Typifies Effect Of New Preference System

The revised Transit Patrolman, NYC Transit System, eligibility list is typified by effect of the new preference system. The list has been released by the Munici-

Washington, D.C., April 17, 1967. The new preference system has been in effect for six months. The eligibility list is composed of 1,787 names who have met the qualifications for appointment as Transit Patrolman.

The new preference system is designed to give preference to veterans over non-veterans. The preference is given on the basis of service in the armed forces.

The eligibility list includes names of veterans who served in the armed forces during World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. The list also includes names of veterans who served in the armed forces during other periods.

The new preference system has resulted in a significant increase in the number of veterans who have been appointed to the position of Transit Patrolman.

The LEADER will continue to provide study material for the Housing Assistant, NYC Housing Authority. It will continue until the 600 top scorers. Those who are interested in studying but have not had the time should consider this plan if they want to find out more about the examination. More Discipline and Formality

Monaghan's Fire Dept. Policy

Fire Commissioner George N. Monaghan had been in office only a little over a month when a promotion of 49 Firemen to Lieutenant rank, effective on Saturday, was the announcement made. Of the 49 promotions, six were to fill budget vacancies; 43 were new hires into a Fire Department specifically created so that disabled veterans could be made eligible to enter prior to the clarification of their status.

Of those designated on Saturday, as was the announcement of several others, a chief is addressed as "old buddy still a Fireman." Monaghan had been the mayor's way was paved from the office of Fire Commissioner to that of Mayor, and formality. Commissioner would be resumed. Commissioner of other departments with the need for examination. The Mayor, like his new commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electric, was a former pay was $14,000. Former Fire Commissioner of Marine and Aviation was Anthony E. Maglio, City Magistrate; Charles Solomon, City Magistrate; Louis Pagnucco, City Magistrate; Sydney S. Baildow as Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electric; Charles Solomon, City Magistrate; Anthony E. Maglio, City Magistrate.

The recent promotions. They'd rather have had the generosity of the law than some disabled veterans. They'd be deferred until January 31. In another three days, with such higher qualifications, promotions will become eligible under this new preference law that stops primary preference. The days of fixed points and percentages are over. There is to be a commission to decide there, in all likelihood, the change in the veteran preference law that stops primary preference. The days of fixed points and percentages are over.
