June 6 is CSEA International Solidarity Day on Long Island

COMMACK — CSEA officers, activists and staff have teamed up with the Long Island Region 1 Human Rights Committee to combine the fourth annual International Day festivities with the first of its kind Solidarity Day in June. The event is open to all CSEA members.

On Sat., June 6, 1998, CSEA will host events from noon until 6 p.m. at the union’s Long Island Region office in Commack. The International Day events include speakers, booths, multi-cultural dancing and foods. The Solidarity Day portion of the events are focused on reintroducing current CSEA members to their union, introducing non-union workers on Long Island to all the advantages CSEA has to offer, and boosting CSEA’s visibility on Long Island.

Congresswoman Carolyn McCarthy will be one of the speakers who will attend.

For directions on how to get to the Commack CSEA Long Island Region office, call (516) 462-0030.

All participating volunteers and activists will receive a shirt with the CSEA Solidarity logo to demonstrate unity.

"If you are a Long Island Region 1 member involved, contact CSEA Communications Associate Sheryl Jenks in the Commack office at (516) 462-0030.

If you are aware of workers interested in learning more about CSEA, call the CSEA Organizing Department at 1-800-342-4146 Ext. 1300 or (518) 257-1300.

“The Human Rights committee has already made a huge success of CSEA International Day. I hope the solidarity aspect will be as successful. I urge all of my officers and activists to get involved in this event,” said CSEA Long Island Region 1 President Nick LaMorte.

Local 801 member PEOPLE recruiter of month for March

Eugene Smith, a member of CSEA Albany County Local 801, has earned Recruiter of the Month honors for March for recruiting 32 new members for the Public Employees Organized to Promote Legislative Equality (PEOPLE) program.

CSEA/AFSCME PEOPLE is the lobbying and political action program conducted at the federal level.

PEOPLE makes a big difference in your life. Say "Yes!" the next time a CSEA member asks you to join the program, or you can simply complete and mail the PEOPLE application form on page 13 of this edition.
ALBANY — Led by AFSCME International President Gerald McEntee, CSEA President Danny Donohue and leaders of the five AFSCME councils in the state, more than 1,100 union activists marched on the state Capitol on AFSCME Lobby Day recently to push for legislation that will promote AFSCME New York’s objective of “secure jobs, secure workplaces and secure futures” for workers in New York state.

Collectively, CSEA and the five AFSCME councils comprise AFSCME New York, representing 430,000 workers in the state.

After marching to the Capitol, activists lobbied their state legislators while AFSCME New York’s top leadership met with Gov. George Pataki, Senate Majority Leader Joseph Bruno and Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver.

In his private meeting with AFSCME leaders, Gov. Pataki went out of his way to praise the dedication and productivity of the workforce and also complimented CSEA’s on-going “Heart of New York” workforce advertising campaign.

At a rally preceding the march, McEntee urged the union activists to remind legislators to address the need for affordable day care and to emphasize that “people need real jobs, real pay and real benefits” if welfare reform is to succeed.

Donohue reminded activists that “We’re all in this together, and we’re speaking on behalf of 430,000 AFSCME members and their families in New York state.”

The lobby day activities should aid the anticipated imminent passage of CSEA-supported legislation to protect our members against worksite violence. The Legislature also recently passed a CSEA bill that prohibits using public funds for union busting activities.

NEW YORK — Acknowledging CSEA’s blistering attacks on waste and mismanagement at Manhattan Psychiatric Center, state Comptroller H. Carl McCall has weighed in by ordering an immediate audit of construction problems at the facility. CSEA President Danny Donohue, who asked the comptroller to investigate the situation, welcomed the audit.

“We applaud the Comptroller’s inquiry in response to our concerns that staffing and client well-being are being sacrificed to cover up mismanagement,” Donohue said.

CSEA is complaining bitterly that a costly uncompleted renovation project at MPC is being used by management as a prime justification for downsizing the facility.

“After 10 years of bungling, what has become of over $100 million in appropriations intended for MPC reconstruction projects that never got finished?” asked CSEA Metropolitan Region 2 President George Boncoraglio.

“Someone is responsible for OMH’s shocking waste of taxpayers’ money, but it’s not Manhattan’s mentally ill,” he added. “Why is OMH now forcing sick people to foot the bill by slashing desperately needed mental health services?”

“We’ve held two demonstrations, reached out to the media and contacted political leaders,” CSEA Local 413 President Sam Koroma said. “Now we expect strong support from patient advocacy groups, community groups and Manhattan’s religious community in our efforts to save the hospital from severe downsizing.”

CSEA defends member wrongly accused in Schoharie County

SCHOHARIE — A battle for the reputation of a CSEA member is raging in Schoharie County, and CSEA is defending her vigorously.

The case is mired in ignorance, inaccuracy and finger-pointing as a CSEA member has been wrongly accused of failing to investigate a child rape case.

The incident began when Schoharie Department of Social Services officials received a report of child sexual abuse that actually occurred in Delaware County.

The referral was made one day after the incident. The State Police reported they had the situation under control.

The then-deputy DSS commissioner sought someone to make a house visit. Rather than go herself, she tried to assign a caseworker who had been trained to deal with child sex abuse cases.

The caseworker, who was on vacation, told the deputy commissioner that she had put in a long day helping her son do house repairs, later had a couple of drinks and rightly believed she was in no condition to answer the call. She also told the manager the incident had not occurred in Schoharie County.

The deputy ignored her and assigned two untrained caseworkers, who later learned the incident was outside their jurisdiction.

Schoharie County officials should have immediately contacted their counterparts in Delaware County. Instead, it appears they decided to look for a scapegoat — the caseworker who said she could not answer the call.

SOUTHAMPTON — CSEA has negotiated a settlement with the Town of Southampton which allows CSEA members who had worked in the Department of Sanitation to retain their seniority.

CSEA filed grievances and improper practice charges last year when the town abolished the department, cut the employees in the Public Works Department, changed their titles and lowered their salaries.

Under the settlement, the 15 employees will be treated as though there has been no break in service, ensuring they receive all entitlements such as longevity, vacation and personal time. Seniority will now be calculated as time served in both departments.

Employees will remain on their current salary step and advance according to the contract. Affected employees will not have to undergo a probationary period.

Construction equipment operators will work a five-day work week schedule. Their annual earnings are guaranteed to be no lower than they were under the prior schedule.

"This settlement was extremely important," said CSEA Labor Relations Specialist Stephanie Bonfante. "I'm happy for these employees that we were able to come to an agreement which protects our members' benefits and years of service."

She helps the homeless find more than a home

POMONA — Homeless people need more than a place to live.

Myrna Lopez-Squillini, who runs the housing unit of the Rockland County Department of Social Services, helps homeless people find not just homes, but anything else they might need.

Take "Alice," for example. Burned out of her home, she escaped with only the night clothes she was wearing. Squillini and her co-workers found her a place to stay, clothing, prescription eyeglasses and orthopedic shoes.

POUGHKEEPSIE — Mike Hauver is back at work at the Arlington School District with back pay.

CSEA won an arbitration after the district failed to move him into a vacancy after eliminating his job. The union won a grievance to force the district to give Hauver his back pay award.

"I had an ongoing battle with my supervisor," he said. "When I ran for CSEA (local) president, it was obvious that he wanted me out."

Hauver is a member of Dutchess County Education Local 876. "The union did a good job," he said. "I tell everyone the union helped me."

District wins job protection

MT. VERNON — The Mt. Vernon School District CSEA Unit has negotiated an agreement that will protect its members from losing their jobs due to workfare.

Unit President Lou Roccuzzo thanked CSEA's Deputy Director of Labor Relations Steve Alviere who provided the material needed to draw up the language for the agreement.

"This union is firmly behind the movement to find true work for honest wages for everyone," Roccuzzo said, "but it is not willing to give up its members' jobs to achieve a step backwards in America's social movement."

Widow wins benefits

BOLTON LANDING — Arbitrator Lisa Ternullo has ruled that the widow of a deceased retired Town of Bolton employee is entitled to continued health insurance coverage.

The language in the CSEA-Town of Bolton contract clearly states that the employer must provide retiree health insurance to individuals, dependents and families. Ternullo said. She ordered the town to provide the widow, Margaret French with fully paid health insurance coverage according to the contract and repay her for any insurance payments she has made.

Member back to work thanks to CSEA

BUFFALO — Karen Rowell is back to work as an intake worker for the Erie County Youth Services Department, thanks to CSEA.

An arbitrator agreed with the union that Rowell had been wrongfully fired.

"The union gave me excellent support," Rowell said. "It's great to have a good union backing you for times like these."

Rowell, a member of Erie County Local 815, will receive about eight months back pay, after CSEA repudiated the county's claim that she hid a criminal background.

"The county went overboard in trying to polish their image following a newspaper story that said many youth services workers had criminal records," Local 815 President Mike Bogulski said. "The county even tried to prevent her from receiving unemployment benefits while her grievance was pending."

CSEA member helps save shooting victim

RAMAPO — Pete Mair is a police dispatcher in Ramapo, part-time police officer in Spring Valley, and emergency medical technician volunteer on the local ambulance squad.

"Now he's a hero, too. Mair, a member of CSEA Rockland County Local 844, answered a radio call about a shooting and found a woman in a pool of blood and her ex-boyfriend dead of a self-inflicted gunshot. The woman's younger sister had called the police."

"She was lying on her stomach and I turned her over and she moaned and said she was pregnant with twins," said Mair, who immediately administered oxygen and applied pressure on the bullet wound on her chest. The woman survived and is now the mother of healthy twins."

"She'll be in a wheelchair for the rest of her life," Mair said, "but she's alive and so are her babies."

Mair also credited EMTs Rich Greer and Bo Tunno, who helped save her.

In addition to working as a dispatcher, Mair also credited EMTs Rich Greer and Bo Tunno, who helped save her.

"I really love helping people," Mair said. "It's my high, my thrill. It's where I get my energy."

Westchester County employees angrily protest contract delays

With her daughter, Teresa, at her side, CSEA Westchester County Unit 9200 President Jane E. Flore uses a bullhorn to fire up a large crowd of Westchester County public employees during the latest in a series of demonstrations protesting lack of contracts with the county. CSEA Westchester County units and other unions have been without a contract since July 1, 1997. The protests are sponsored by the Westchester County Coalition of Unions, comprised of CSEA, the Westchester Community College Federation of Teachers, the Committee of Interns and Residents and the New York State Nurses Association. Union protests are fueled by what union leaders call the anti-union attitude of former County Executive Andy O'Rourke, and the inability of current County Executive Andy Spano to resolve the contract issues.
Fingerlakes DDSO meets members' changing needs

ROCHESTER — CSEA's efforts to be more responsive to the needs of its members and changing work conditions is as the heart of a pilot project underway in Fingerlakes DDSO Local 436.

Far flung locals such as Local 436 pose special challenges in effectively reaching a membership located in numerous small worksites spread out over thousands of square miles. The 2,100 member Fingerlakes DDSO local encompasses about 100 group homes in 10 counties.

The pilot project began with a survey intended to assess the needs of CSEA members and to obtain input from the rank and file on improving the effectiveness of their local.

“We've been taking a look at locals all over the state,” said Steve Alvine, CSEA deputy director for labor relations. “We want to hear from members about how they feel locals should be run. The first step in that direction is polling of activists and rank-and-file members. It not only helps us to know the members' feelings on a range of subjects, it also helps the members feel a sense of ownership in their union.”

“We're reaching out to all of our members, encouraging them to participate in their union and tell us how we can be more responsive to their needs,” Local 436 President Kathy Button said. “We want them to realize that we're about more than just filing grievances, the strength of the union comes from the involvement of the members.”

Safety on the job is a matter that receives continuous attention, according to Edwin Figueroa, a local vice president and chair of the health and safety committee.

“We try to stay on top of safety issues,” Figueroa said. “We have contacts in every home, and when we hear of a problem, we get on it right away so that any problem gets cleared up as soon as possible. We want management know about it, and follow up until it's taken care of. If someone is off the job due to injury, we stay in touch with them at home, to let them know they're not forgotten, and remind them of any benefits they are entitled to. This is part of our accountability to the membership.”

The local's office has the bustling appearance and sounds of a military command center, with computers, maps, phones and charts that go with keeping in touch and following up on matters concerning the membership.

“We have invested in up-to-date technology, like computers and cell phones, that helps us to stay on top of things in such a widespread area of coverage,” Button said.

State gave cold shoulder to Cook Chill facility

ORANGEBURG — The state’s Cook Chill Facility, which opened with much fanfare and promise in 1994, is officially up for sale to the highest bidder. And CSEA doesn't like it one bit.

Employees of the $22 million state-of-the-art facility, located on the grounds of Rockland Psychiatric Center, prepare meals for 24 facilities of the Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities and Office of Mental Health, an Office for the Aging and one New York City hospital.

Facility employees also played a major role in feeding victims and rescue workers in the aftermath of the recent north country ice storm. But their reward for a great job is a sellout by the state.

CSEA Deputy Director of Labor Relations Mary Masterson said the state has never let the facility live up to its full potential. The facility could operate three shifts, she said, but the state is not willing to put in the resources needed to operate the plant at full capacity.

Masterson said 10 outside vendors expressed interest in the facility in 1997. It could be a year before a final decision is made.

Child/elder care stipend applications must be returned by May 15

CSEA Unified Court System members have until May 15, 1998, to apply for the child/elder care stipend provided as part of the 1995-1999 negotiated agreement. Approximately $60,000 will be divided evenly among qualified applicants for expenses incurred from April 1, 1997, thru March 31, 1998, for dependent children under age 15, disabled dependent children or dependent adults for whom ongoing day care expenses are incurred.

Applications were mailed to all UCS members in March. Completed applications along with required documentation must be postmarked by May 15, 1998, and returned to Bob Dillon at CSEA Headquarters, 143 Washington Avenue, Albany, NY 12210.
Brooklyn DC improves security in special unit

BROOKLYN — CSEA President Danny Donohue reviewed special security arrangements for Brooklyn Developmental Center’s new Multiply Disabled Unit (MDU). The CSEA secure care developmental aids now work with clients being treated for sexual deviancy and other violent behaviors.

CSEA Local 447 President Lamont “Dutch” Wade and CSEA Metropolitan Region 2 President George Boncoraglio joined Donohue in touring newly renovated areas now under constant video surveillance and monitored by security guards. Many of the incoming clients are referred by courts and come from correctional or psychiatric facilities.

Sex offenders and others with aggressive behavior will attend programs on managing their anger, conflict resolution, plus health and wellness sessions in the MDU setting, Wade said.

“We look forward to CSEA members being a valuable part of the treatment team that ultimately hopes to make the community a safer place for everyone when these individuals rejoin society,” Donohue said.

Binghamton-area CSEA state locals parade with pride

Banners from all four CSEA state locals in the Binghamton area were proudly displayed on a state Department of Transportation truck, driven by Highway Maintenance Worker Phil DeMarco, during the annual St. Patrick’s Day Parade in Binghamton. The well-dressed vehicle displayed banners from Binghamton State Employees Local 002, Binghamton Psychiatric Center Local 441, Broome Developmental Center Local 449 and SUNY Binghamton Local 648.

Comptroller McCall highly critical of tax contracting-out

State Comptroller H. Carl McCall has faulted the largest contracting-out of state work in history as “mismanaged” and failing to realize anything near promised cost-savings.

The criticism is contained in an audit report of the Department of Tax and Finance concerning the processing of personal state income tax returns.

The state agency awarded a $195 million contract to Fleet Financial Services Corp. in 1994 to process the tax returns. Fleet relocated the operation to former IBM facilities in Kingston, affecting 3,000 mostly-seasonal tax-processing workers in the Albany area.

Tax and Finance projected savings of $76.5 million, an estimate McCall’s audit calls “flawed right from the start.” Instead, the audit says, the savings may actually end up as $13 million, perhaps even less.

McCall blames the former Mario Cuomo administration and the current administration of George Pataki for the situation.

“This entire process has been mismanaged, from the prior administration’s overestimating of the cost savings to the present administration’s attempts to shuffle jobs from Albany to Kingston to Albany to Poughkeepsie and back to Kingston again,” McCall said.

“We had concerns about this from the start, and we’re glad it’s being looked at seriously,” said Capital Region 4 President Carmen Bagnoli, who formerly served as Tax & Finance Local 690 president.

DOT workers capture burglar

HENRY CARATYAS, second from left, is congratulated by DOT Foreman Mike Raguseo. Looking on are Martell Anglin (in truck) and Bill Dwyer, who helped capture a suspected burglar being chased by police on the Saw Mill Parkway. When the burglar’s car went off the road, the DPW crew stopped traffic while Caratyas caught the running suspect and held him until police could handcuff him. Caratyas suffered a stab wound, which fortunately was not serious, although he required stitches.

Parks workers train for future

NYS Governor’s Office of Employee Relations Director Linda Angello, left, and CSEA Parks and Recreation Local 102 President Paul D’Aleo inspect plans for a break room at Jones Beach State Park that was completely renovated by 50 CSEA members in a General Trades Certificate Program conducted by the CSEA/NYS Labor-Management Committee. CSEA President Danny Donohue helped award certificates to course participants.

CSEA backs hospital workers

At left is AFSCME International President Gerald McEntee and at right is Jim Butler, president of AFSCME Local 420 which represents the hospital workers. Queens County state Assemblymember Brian McLaughlin, who is also head of the New York City Central Labor Council, is between McEntee and Donohue.
April 28th was Workers Memorial Day — a day to remember our co-workers who have suffered and died in the workplace — and to renew our commitment to prevent these tragedies from happening again.

This year we mourn the loss of CSEA Town of Queensbury member John Johnson, who was crushed to death March 16 by a piece of machinery used to heat asphalt for pothole repair. He was apparently trying to unhook the machine by himself. His death is a tragic case in point for the urgent need for safety improvements for New York workers.

Safety and health has always been a top priority for CSEA. We fought for and won the public employee occupational safety and health act (PESH) for New York’s workers back in 1980, a law that workers in 27 states still don’t have today. But laws mean nothing unless they’re enforced, and sadly, tragic losses like that of Mr. Johnson, and countless other workplace injuries will continue until the powers that be make the same commitment to safety and health as CSEA.

CSEA is leading the fight for worker safety, and we will not give up the fight until every job site throughout the state becomes a safer place to work. With workplace violence now the second leading cause of death on the job in the United States, one thing we’ve pushed for and continue to demand is a Worksite Security Standard to guide security improvements in public worksites throughout the state.

Back in 1994, after many months of hard work by concerned New Yorkers who recognized the need for a uniform standard to give public employers specific direction on how to implement a security plan to protect their work force, CSEA proposed a Worksite Security Standard to the state Department of Labor. DOL had a chance to lead the country by implementing these proactive, positive guidelines; but instead dismissed the proposal based on a questionable cost basis alone, ignoring the very real security risks in New York worksites and sending a bad message to working people across this state.

CSEA is now pushing this issue in the legislative arena, and we won’t rest until a state Worksite Security Standard becomes a reality. And while DOL drags its feet, we will continue to march forward, taking matters into our own hands, and educating ourselves and our employers how we can all work smarter and safer.

CSEA is committed to fight for the living, and make sure that no working man or woman will have to risk their lives to earn their livelihoods.

On another issue, CSEA believes the NYS Legislature made great strides in opening up the budget process this year. Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver and Senate Majority Leader Joseph Bruno deserve enormous credit.

While CSEA is pleased with increased funding in many needed areas, we remain concerned that projected deficits over the next three years due to spending and tax cut commitments that have already been made could put us back in a crisis. It does no good to spend more now if we’ll be facing cutbacks later.

Photographer chronicles the danger of work

From the coal mines of the American South nearly 30 years ago to a lab technician dissecting a potentially rabid raccoon last year, world-class photographer Earl Dotter has built a career showing the dignity and beauty of the working people who have died, become sick or been injured. His award-winning photographs have been published in The New York Times, the New England Journal of Medicine, on ABC's Nightline and in the book The Quiet Sickness: A Photographic Chronicle of Hazardous Work in America.

"It makes me feel rage when I see other people mistreated, exploited and ignored who don't deserve that treatment. Sometimes my blood boils about the situations I find myself in because so much of it seems so absolutely unnecessary," Dotter said.

"I found that the most victimized individual years for dignity and self-respect, and I look for that aspect in the photographs I make of them ... I think we can admire those of us who try to become the best that we can become, and I look for that aspect in my subjects even as they are facing tremendous adversity from their loss of health and livelihood."

Dotter is a professor who demanded students show a personal point of view in their work. After college, he went to Tennessee as a VISTA volunteer, where he met the coal miners who grace many of his photos. His work with the reform movement of the United Mine Workers of America led him to a job with the reformed union, and his commitment in workers' struggles today, to the praise of experts in occupational safety and health. Howard Franklin, chair of the Department of Environmental and Occupational Health at the Rollins School of Public Health of Emory University, wrote the afterward to The Quiet Sickness: "Dotter's photographs capture the humanity, the nobility and the struggles of working people; the pain of their workplace injuries and illnesses; the grief when their dreams are cut short, and the hope that sustains them."

Hazardous Work in America.

A USDA data entry clerk and AFSCME member massages her hands. Injured over a period of eight years at a computer keyboard. Repetitive stress injury reports have increased tenfold in the past 10 years at a cost of $20 billion to $100 billion a year, depending on how the cost of lost time work is calculated. Below, her hands at work in Virginia.

Twelve hours of work, seven days a week and no overtime pay.
No weekly day of rest.
No access to toilets or hand-washing facilities.
No right to bargain collectively for wages and working conditions.
No coverage under state or federal minimum wage laws.

These are the conditions of workers in many developing nations. They are also the conditions in New York state for an estimated 47,000 migrant workers who come to our state to work each year and thousands more farm workers who live here.

The annual income for migrant workers averages from $4,000 to $8,000 — far below the poverty level.

More than 36,000 farms in New York generate almost $3 billion worth of livestock, dairy products, fruits, vegetables and field crops. But the workers who make possible the relatively cheap and abundant food we enjoy are excluded from the table of social, economic and political life because they are exempted from the state's most basic labor protections.

Their work includes long days of back-breaking labor or working with dangerous equipment. Many are exposed to pesticides and other hazards. In most cases, New York's health and safety laws do not cover farm workers. For example, when other workers are subject to heat stress, they must have shortened work periods and areas for cooling down, but there are no requirements for farm workers.

Migrants and farm workers are among the most powerless in the state. A growing group of individuals and organizations have recognized the injustice these workers face and are pressing the Governor and state Legislature to enact laws to provide basic and fundamental rights for those who toil on our farms.

The Justice for Farm workers Campaign is seeking legislation to:

- Provide a day of rest, without penalty, as other workers have;
- Eliminate farm workers' exclusion from the right to collectively bargain with their employers;
- Require all farms to provide workers with access to toilets and hand-washing facilities in the fields; and
- Include farm workers under the state's minimum wage laws.

These reasonable demands would treat farm workers with dignity and fairness and the same rights enjoyed by other workers. Gov. Pataki has proposed tax cuts for the state's farmers — a proposal we can agree with — but only if it is tied to improving working conditions for migrants and farm workers. Farmers who already treat their workers well should support such measures.

To draw attention to these issues, the New York State Labor-Religion Coalition sponsored a 40-hour fast in March. The American labor movement has a long tradition of supporting all workers whether organized or not. We urge all those who care about economic and social justice to join us in these efforts.

At press time, CSEA was preparing to mark Workers Memorial Day with the state AFL-CIO and in conjunction with an advocacy day for farm workers. See the June edition for coverage of Workers Memorial Day.

CSEA Town of Queensbury member John Johnson died March 16 in an on-the-job accident. Johnson was crushed to death by a piece of machinery used to heat asphalt for pothole repair. He was apparently trying to unhook the machine by himself. An investigation into the accident is continuing.

PEOPLE makes a big difference in your life

CSEA/AFSCME lobbying efforts in Washington under the umbrella of the PEOPLE program and phone calls by CSEA activists to New York representatives combined to help convince the US House of Representatives to defeat a proposed misnamed Paycheck Protection Act that would have severely restricted labor unions from participating in political and legislative activities on behalf of rank-and-file members. Lobbying, communicating with members on legislative issues and voter registration drives are among activities that would have been prohibited without written approval.

PEOPLE (Public Employees Organized to Promote Legislative Equality) is CSEA’s federal political action program. The PEOPLE Committee is responsible for raising the voluntary contributions necessary to promote and protect the interests of the union membership in the federal elective and legislative process. Election law does not allow CSEA to use dues money for this purpose.

The PEOPLE agenda is to work toward fair and progressive legislation for all Americans. Because Congress acts on issues that affect our daily lives it is important for you to have a say. Syracuse school budget blasted

SYRACUSE — CSEA is fighting back with harsh criticism of the Syracuse City School District administration amid threats of possible layoffs of CSEA-represented workers due to budget reductions and talks of consolidation plans with the city.

CSEA Central Region 5 President Jim Moore blasted the district’s superintendent, calling his consolidation plan a public relations gimmick.

“The superintendent’s so-called plan was simply a press release to give him some good publicity and steer attention away from his bad management,” Moore said. “It had no substance, it confused people and did nothing to address the current budget crisis.”

CSEA Blue Collar Unit President Rick Adsit and CSEA White Collar Unit President Donna Gavett said members from both units were lobbying heavily to restore budget funding to avoid any job cuts.

PEOPLE works for you

‘Congress acts on issues that affect our daily lives, on and off the job. The effort to silence the voices of working Americans under the deceptively-named Paycheck Protection Act is a perfect example of why it is so important for every CSEA member to join and contribute generously to the PEOPLE program. PEOPLE contributions enabled the strong, clear voices of CSEA and AFSCME members opposing the “Paycheck Deception” Act to ring loudly through the halls of Congress.’

— Marie Prince, chairperson

CSEA Statewide PEOPLE Committee
It's time to apply to the Labor Education Action Program (LEAP) for tuition benefits.

Life Insurance Q & A

Did you know that about 70% of Americans own some form of life insurance? Yet few people know if they have the right benefit amount, the right beneficiary or even the right insurance. Here are some things you should know.

Q. How do I know if I need life insurance?
A. Life Insurance is designed to financially protect your dependents, who count on you for financial support. A good life insurance plan is necessary if you have people who financially depend on you and your income.

Q. How much life insurance do I need?
A. Insurance experts recommend coverage amounts that equal five to seven times your annual income. However, this amount varies depending on where you are in your life. To make sure you get the right level of coverage, calculate how much you own, how much you owe, and how much money your loved ones would need for the future.

Q. What types of life insurance are out there?
A. There are two basic kinds of life insurance: Term Life and Whole Life. In general Term Life offers the most coverage for the least amount of money while Whole Life offers solid, permanent protection with cash value.

Q. I’m planning for retirement. Can life insurance help?
A. Yes. Life insurance can be an important part of planning for retirement. The right life insurance plan can help create a nest egg and money for your retirement.

Q. I have insurance coverage now, do you have any advice for me?
A. Every five to seven years you should review your insurance. This will give you peace of mind by making sure you have the right amount and type of coverage to meet your changing needs.

Q. Any advice on my beneficiary?
A. Remember that the proceeds of your policy are paid to your most current designated beneficiary. If you took out coverage in 1985 and named your spouse as your beneficiary, but later divorced and remarried, your first spouse would receive the proceeds of your policy, not your current spouse. Make sure you update your beneficiary as changes in your life occur.

CSEA NASSAU COUNTY LOCAL 830

EXPRESS

May 1998 • Vol. 3, No. 5

Message from CSEA Nassau Local 830 President Anthony P. Giustino

Significant Progress in Contract Talks
As Mediator Enters Picture

Many of you know by now that Martin Sheinman has been selected as our contract mediator, and I am delighted that the county negotiators agreed to this appointment. As a result, contract negotiations are moving steadily ahead. Since the beginning of April, your bargaining team has had one meeting alone with Mr. Sheinman and several bargaining sessions with both Mr. Sheinman and county negotiators. As compared to the last negotiations in 1994, this is one year ahead of schedule.

There has been significant progress on some very important issues as determined by you and your negotiations committee. Naturally, nothing is agreed to until the final contract is agreed to.

But I want to make this point very clear: Nothing will be agreed to until your Negotiating Team is satisfied with the terms being offered. As I said here last month, an early resolution of our contract must not come at the expense of contract items which we feel are of primary importance to our members.

You should also be aware that for possibly the first time ever in Nassau County, your CSEA team and I have adopted an open negotiations policy. This means that there is no “blackout” on negotiations. If you have questions, I urge you to ask us. In addition, we have the largest and most representative negotiations team in the history of Local 830. Every unit president is a member of the team.

If you have any questions on contract items or the status of negotiations, I urge you to ask either me personally or your unit president. Meanwhile, I will endeavor to keep you informed on contract progress through flyers, through this newspaper, through our radio show on WGBB and through personal contact at the worksite meetings I hold on a regular basis.

Once again, I implore you stay united in our mutual desire to get the best possible contract. Staying united is our most important weapon. Call me for information any time at 571-2919.

Yours in Solidarity,

Tony Giustino, President
CSEA Nassau Local 830

Nassau County Local 830 1st Vice President and A. Holly Patterson Geriatric Center Unit President Les Eason has been chosen to receive the 1998 CSEA Mission Achievement Award, presented each year by the Local Government Division of CSEA.

“The award honors those special people who best personify the CSEA Mission Statement Spirit,” CSEA President Danny Donohue said. “Congratulations! This honor singles you out from among thousands of activists statewide and is, I might add, well earned,” Donohue told Eason.

“Les Eason is one of the most dedicated and hard working union activists I’ve ever known. If anyone deserves this honor, it is Les,” Nassau Local 830 President Tony Giustino said.

The actual award presentation will be made on Fri. May 8 during the opening night dinner of the Irving Flaumenbaum Memorial Local Government Workshop.

LEGAL UPDATE

Persistence Pays Off — Sometimes

Nancy Hoffman, Esq.
CSEA General Counsel

In 1993, CSEA filed a petition with the Nassau County Mini-PERB, seeking to represent 96 professional and/or supervisory employees who had been left out of all other county bargaining units. The employees wanted us to represent them and to be part of Local 830. For reasons too old to remember, it took the county about a year to file its answer (1994) in which it objected to CSEA representing these employees and claimed that they were managerial or confidential employees. Then, as happens sometimes, events beyond our control made this case drag on further. The Nassau County Mini-PERB had vacancies on its board, making its processing of these cases seem to take forever.

Under the Taylor Law, where there are local Mini-PERBs such as in Nassau County, those local agencies have authority to deal with representation questions. State PERB deals with improper practice charge matters and also can hear appeals from Mini-PERB decisions.

After 12 days of hearings which finally concluded in August 1997, the matter was finally with the hearing officer for a decision. In January 1998, the hearing officer issued his report which found that 50 of the petitioned-for employees were neither managerial nor confidential and should be placed in the CSEA bargaining unit. As for 22 others, the hearing officer determined that these employees are, indeed, managerial or confidential. Two employees were found to be temporarily exercising managerial or confidential responsibilities but their regular duties warrant them being placed in the county bargaining unit. This will happen when they return to their regular duties full time. For the remaining positions, there was agreement beforehand as to whether they should be in the unit, thereby not necessitating their inclusion in the evidentiary hearings.

What is all this to do about, you might be asking? Why is there a need to litigate who is a manager and who is a confidential?

The standards for managerial or confidential designations are set forth in the Taylor Law itself. Managers are defined as persons who (1) formulate policy or (2) may reasonably be required on behalf of the public employer to assist directly in the preparation for and conduct of collective negotiations or to have a major role in the administration of agreements or in personnel administration, provided that their role is not of a routine or clerical nature and that it requires their exercise of independent judgment. Confidants, in turn, are persons who assist and act in a confidential capacity to a managerial employee as described above.

It is the person who is designated, not the position. The person must be doing the tasks as described, regardless of their formal job description, in order to get the designation. This is why it often takes an evidentiary hearing to determine if the designation is warranted. Management may be looking to keep the position out of the unit and label it as a management position but upon closer scrutiny the individual is not actually doing the policy or negotiations/contract administration work required for the formal PERB designation. Similarly, while many support people have jobs that place them in a confidential relationship with a boss or a supervisor, not all of those positions meet the Taylor Law requirements for confidential designation either, as their bosses are not “managerial” under the Taylor Law criteria.

A PERB designation as managerial or confidential bars a person from being in a union. This, we know, is a real negative for most workers, as the union provides not only strength in numbers for bargaining and political action, but it also provides many, many benefits and privileges that non-union employees don't have: The right to vote on the contract affecting terms and conditions of employment, representation for grievances, disciplines, and in court matters, a legal services plan for personal legal matters, insurances, education programs, training for career advancement, and so much more. Being part of the labor movement is being part of history which affects all workers whether in Nassau County or elsewhere in the world.

The positions covered by the recent victory include positions at the Medical Center, in the Department of Recreation and Parks, Department of Probation, Department of Mental Health, Department of Social Services, Department of Health, Department of Public Works, Department of General Services, Comptroller's Office, Senior Citizens Affairs, and Civil Service Commission. For these new brothers and sisters, we hope that the long protracted proceeding has not dimmed their enthusiasm for becoming active members of Local 830 and of CSEA. Maybe next time the county will look more closely at the Taylor Law criteria before keeping so many people at bay for so long in their desires to become union members! Surely we have shown the County that CSEA and Local 830 will not walk away from any workers who want union representation!
Women’s Committee Continues to Break Ground on Women’s Issues

By Jane D’Amico, Executive Vice President Chair, Women’s Committee

Our local has again taken to the forefront in the continuing struggle over Pay Equity/Comparable Worth for women. As follow-up to the January 22 Pay Equity hearings, in which I testified on behalf of CSEA before a New York State Assembly Legislative Hearing Committee, we have advanced a political action initiative in which we have secured Sen. Michael Balboni as sponsor for Pay Equity legislation in the New York State Senate. Four different Pay Equity/Comparable Worth bills, introduced by Assemblyman Tom DiNapoli and other co-sponsors, have already passed in the New York State Assembly. The tougher job for passage will be in the Senate and we are very appreciative of Sen. Balboni’s commitment to carry similar bills.

The Nassau Local 830 Women’s Committee has also taken the first regional initiative to formulate a Long Island Chapter for the Coalition of Labor Union Women (CLUW), a national organization that promotes women’s labor issues. The first organizational meeting for the new chapter was held on April 16. The next meeting will be May 28 at the local at 5 p.m. We invite all members of CSEA, as well as members of other nationally affiliated unions, to join us in this important step forward for unionized Long Island women. If you have a friend, family member or association — male or female — who belongs to any other major union (Communications Workers of America, American Federation of Teachers, United Auto Workers, Teamsters, etc.) please invite them to come with you to our next meeting. We need five unions with national/international affiliates in order to form our own chapter. Please RSVP to Jewel Weinstein at 571-2919 ext. 20 as a light dinner will be served.

CSEA “Healthy Heart” Program

“Healthy Heart” Introduces Walking Trails

With the assistance of a state grant, Nassau County Local 830 is conducting a “Healthy Heart” program in an attempt to exert a positive influence on the daily living habits of members in areas that affect health. The following is another in a series of Healthy Heart articles that are running in The Nassau Express in conjunction with the program.

The CSEA Healthy Heart Program has put together a series of walking trails of varying lengths in and around the Mineola/Garden City office complex to promote an exercise regimen for members who work in the area.

At this time, six trail maps are available. They include:
1. The Courthouse Stroll – 1/2 mile (see map on this page)
2. The Mineola Mile – 1 mile
3. Moving on a Country Road – 1 mile trail
4. The Garden City Tour – 2 miles
5. Tudor Home Trail – 2 miles
6. The Garden City 5K – 3 miles

Members wishing to obtain a copy of the above maps can call 571-0755.

Healthy Heart Snacks In Vending Machines

Thanks to some persistent lobbying with a vending company, the director of CSEA’s Healthy Heart program was able to get the owner to “think healthy” when filling the machines.

Susan Kessler arranged with BCI Inc., the company that holds the contract for county vending machines, to include 10 low-fat snacks in the candy machines at the County Office Building at 240 Old Country Road, and at the Social Services Building at 101 County Seat Drive. In addition, the soda machine at 400 County Seat Drive will now offer water and apple juice.

To encourage employees to try these items, the Healthy Program will subsidize the items for a full month, reducing prices by as much as 30 percent.

Healthy snacks now found in the machines include raisins, NutriGrain bars, fruit snacks, Snackwell cookies and chocolates, baked potato chips, light popcorn and pretzels. Leading up to the new array of healthy snacks, the Healthy Heart Program conducted a Health Fair at the County Office building, introducing employees there to many of the items free of charge.

Summer Bowling League Now Being Formed

BOWLERS may make up their own teams or sign up as individuals and be placed on a team.

The weekly cost of $10 includes three games of bowling, league secretarial service, treasury service, end of season party and trophies. It also includes a VIP card which entitles members to big discounts on bowling during open play.

Rep. King Helps Defeat ‘Employee Deception’ Act
At right is a letter to Nassau Local 830 President from Rep. Peter King regarding two anti-labor bills in the U.S. Congress. Crossing Guards Unit

Hello again, hope everyone had a nice Easter and Passover. Our next scheduled general meeting is on Wednesday June 10 at 7 p.m. and will be held in the assembly hall at police headquarters. At the meeting we will be drawing the winners of the scholarships and it is important for everyone to do their best to sell the raffle tickets that will be handed out by your union representatives.

Nassau Local 830 President Tony Giustino will be at the meeting to discuss the contract, so if you have any questions about your contract you should make it a point to attend to get the answers from the person in the best position to know the facts.

Anyone who has a question about any union or work-related topic should attend the meeting. Anyone who wants to meet with the co-workers and their representatives should attend the meeting. Anyone who wants to be heard on an issue or voice an opinion should attend the meeting. Do you get the idea yet that we want you to attend the meetings?

That’s about all for now. If anyone has anything they want to submit for the next issue, give it to your precinct representative who will forward it to the writers.

Be careful out there on your crossings! Stay safe and look both ways!

Bias Complaints Heard By Unity Committee

All calls will be kept strictly confidential and all complaints will be investigated.

Although the Committee has no enforcement powers, it will attempt to solve discrimination problems either directly or by referral to the proper government agency, according to Ms. Jones.

Greetings CSEA Nassau Local 830 members.

Your Long Island region representatives are busy attending different events and activities this time of year.

Recently, our state division members held a workshop in Buffalo. It was well attended and we continued the theme of transforming our union to a more open and democratic one.

CSEA is working hard to become more member-oriented than ever.

The union leaders are reaching out to involve more members. This is no small task. An organizational task force, “Task Force For The Future,” has been created. It is comprised of CSEA staff, elected officials and members who meet monthly to look at the union structure and the way we currently do business.

Subcommittees have been divided into different categories, each charged with investigating how we can get more membership involvement and participation. Many Long Island activists are serving on the subcommittees and Nassau County Local 830 is particularly well-represented.

The Task Force has been created mainly to encourage the membership to grasp ownership of their union. Now, not everyone in this union wants ownership, and some don't want to get involved at all. WRONG! This is your union and everyone should participate in some aspect of it. It’s your right and what’s more our strength depends on your involvement.

On another issue, I recently had the opportunity to attend a Long Island Federation of Labor Congressional meeting. This was the third time the Fed put on this program, similar to a town hall meeting where our five elected congressional members come before the labor rank and file to answer your questions.

About 500 union members from across Long Island greeted Congressional Reps. Carolyn McCarthy, Peter King, Rick Lazio and Michael Forbes. I spoke first and asked about the continuing problems of sub-contracting and what the future would bring on this issue.

I stated that out-sourcing of public employee jobs does not work and after many failures at this concept it should now be abandoned to concentrate on improving public services through a labor management partnership.

Let me also invite you to participate in CSEA, AFSCME Local 1000 International Solidarity Day to be held at our Long Island office in Commack on Sat. June 6, beginning at noon. The event will celebrate our union and our diverse heritage. Come to learn more about CSEA and bring your family and friends who may also want to learn more. For information call 462-0030.

Until next month, I remain

Fraternally Yours,

Nick LaMorte, President
Long Island Region 1

Task Force For The Future

CSEA is involved in an extensive process of transformation involving all levels of officers, activists, rank-and-file members and staff. Nassau County Local 830 has a number of members actively involved in the process, including Executive Vice President Jane D’Amico, Valerie Durant, Tim Jaccard, Noreen Lingham and Les Eason. Above, the Task Force For The Future’s Negotiations subcommittee meets.
CSEA’s 1998 Legislative Program

While much of the state Legislature’s attention has been on the state budget, CSEA staff and political activists have been busy with a substantial legislative program. CSEA is, as always, promoting laws that will benefit members on and off the job — improved security, protection against contracting out, retirement issues and more. Here’s a brief description of CSEA’s legislative program. If you want to get involved with CSEA’s extensive grassroots legislative efforts, contact CSEA’s political action coordinator in your region office.

Permanent COLA

CSEA’s number one priority in 1998 is passage of a permanent-cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) for retirees. CSEA is pushing for a bill that provides a defined benefit and is constitutionally guaranteed. This will enable retirees to plan ahead and meet the rising costs in standard of living, inflation and health care.

Retiree Health Benefits

S.2569A - Farley (R-Schenectady)
A.4215A - Vitaliano (D-Richmond)

In Assembly Ways and Means/In Senate Civil Service and Pensions

This bill would prohibit all public employers from unilaterally reducing health insurance benefits or increasing health insurance costs for retirees unless a corresponding change is negotiated for current employees.

Worksite Security

S.5945 - Spano (R-Westchester)
A.2666 - Nolan (D-Queens)

Passed Assembly/In Senate Labor Committee

This bill requires all employers with 50 or more employees to assess their worksite for potential areas where violence can occur. The employer would then be required to develop a written plan to address any problem areas, notify employees and take corrective action.

Contracting Out Standards

S.4198 - Spano (R-Westchester)
A.6436 - Vitaliano (D-Richmond)

In Senate Finance/In Assembly Governmental Operations

This bill would require that any governmental employer that wishes to contract out must follow strict standards and meet stringent criteria before they can do so. Among the provisions are a requirement that the government must prove an actual cost savings, all contracts would have to adhere to established labor laws and prevailing wages, and that public employees would have a right to respond and object to the proposed contract.

Permanent Agency Shop

S.391 - Spano (R-Labor)
A.3126 - Vitaliano (D-Richmond)

In Senate Civil Service & Pensions Committee/In Assembly Governmental Employees Committee

This bill makes agency shop fee deduction permanent. Without agency shop, employees who are not union members still receive union benefits and representation at the expense of dues-paying union members.

Union Improper Practice

S.6328A - Spano (R-Westchester)
A.9265 - Nolan (D-Queens)

Passed Senate/Passed Assembly

This bill makes it an improper employer practice for public employers and an unfair labor practice for private and not-for-profit employers to utilize state funds for discouraging employees from joining unions.

Tier 3 and 4 Equalization

A.9599 - McEneny (D-Albany)

No companion bill in the Senate

In Assembly Governmental Employees Committee/No Senate number yet

This bill provides an increased retirement benefit calculation formula for Tier 3 and 4 members after 20 years of service (currently Tiers 3 and 4 must wait until 25 years, while Tiers 1 and 2 have the increase at 20). The bill also reduces penalties for early retirement of Tier 3 and 4 members down to Tier 2 levels.

Cafeteria Contingency

S.4145 - Nozzolio (R-Wayne)
A.3584 - Sanders (D-New York)

In Senate and Assembly Education Committees

This bill would provide that cafeteria services of school districts are ordinary contingent expenses in the event that a school budget is defeated by the voters.

CSEA opposes Charter Schools

S.5433 - Rules Committee
A. 3252B - Faso (R-Albany)

In Senate Education/In Assembly Education

CSEA is expressing strong opposition to the Governor’s proposal to create charter schools within New York state. As it stands, this proposal would allow private corporations and not-for-profit corporations to establish and operate charter schools and draw away funds that currently go to public school districts. These charter schools would not have to abide by established education standards or regulations and would operate without any public oversight. Further, charter schools would not have to abide by provisions of the Civil Service Law which requires school districts to collectively bargain.
Local, unit elections scheduled to be conducted between May 15 - June 15

Elections will be conducted for all local officers, for delegates, and for all unit officers

The term of office for all current local officers, delegates and unit officers expires June 30, 1998. Officers and delegates will be elected or re-elected to three-year terms during local and unit elections to be conducted between May 15 and June 15, 1998.

Each local and unit executive board must select its own Election Committee and committee chairperson. The Local and/or Unit Election Committee is primarily responsible for conducting the election.

Slate petitioning and slate voting will be an option for candidates for local and unit office (see adjacent information).

Members may run as individual candidates if they wish.

Nominating procedure for small CSEA locals and units; special election rules apply

The union's election rules require a minimum of 10 signatures on nominating petitions for office in all locals and units. However, this requirement causes problems for potential candidates for office in locals and units with 10 or fewer members.

Special election rules apply for CSEA locals and units of 10 or fewer members.

The statewide Board of Directors approved an Application for Election to Office for locals and units with 10 or fewer members. In these smaller locals and units, completion of the Application for Election to Office replaces the requirement to obtain signatures on a nominating petition.

In locals or units with 10 or fewer members, any member who submits the application and meets election requirements under the appropriate Local or Unit Constitution will be placed on the ballot.

Important Information about slate petitioning and slate voting

Local Elections

In local elections, a slate must contain a candidate running for the offices of president, one or more vice presidents as set forth in the Local's By-Laws, secretary and treasurer.

The slate may also include candidates for other offices which have been created according to the Local Constitution and By-Laws. In locals which have created the combined position of secretary-treasurer in their By-Laws, the slate must include a candidate for that office.

Unit Elections

In unit elections, a slate must contain a candidate running for the offices of president, one or more vice presidents as set forth in the Unit's By-Laws, secretary and treasurer.

The slate may also include candidates for other offices which have been created according to the Unit Constitution and By-Laws. In units which have created the combined position of secretary-treasurer in their By-Laws, the slate must include a candidate for that office.

Candidates should know the following:

A member cannot be a candidate for officer and for delegate on the same slate. An officer candidate must circulate a separate nominating petition in order to appear on the ballot also as a candidate for delegate. The member will appear on the ballot as a candidate for office as part of the slate and as an individual for the position of delegate.

Candidates who run as a slate must complete a Slate Consent Form and a Slate Petition Request Form. By petitioning as a slate, candidates who appear as part of a slate need to submit only one set of the required number of signatures to qualify as a candidate. Individual petitions are not necessary for slate candidates.

Candidates who withdraw from a slate must complete a Slate Withdrawal Form.

More detailed information about election slates is available from local and unit election committees.

Always protect your membership status

Break in membership affects eligibility for union office, voting privileges

A break in union membership status can have long-term future implications. Your membership status affects your eligibility with respect to:

- seeking or holding union office;
- signing nominating petitions for potential candidates;
- voting in union elections, and;
- voting on collective bargaining contracts.

Only members "in good standing" can participate in these activities. To be in "good standing," your dues cannot be delinquent.

If you go on unpaid leave or for any other reason have a break in your employment status, your dues will not continue to be paid through payroll deductions. You must make arrangements to pay your dues directly to CSEA to continue your membership status. If you are either laid off or placed on leave without pay status due to becoming disabled by accident, illness, maternity or paternity, you may be eligible for dues-free membership status for a period not to exceed one year.

Note, however, you must continue to pay dues to run for office. Dues-free or gratuitous membership allows members to continue their insurance coverage while out of work. It does not protect your right to run for or hold office.

You must notify the CSEA Membership Records Department at 1-800-342-4146, Ext. 1327, of any change in your status and what arrangements you are making to continue your membership in CSEA.

Dear Member:

For the first time in several years we are able to report a positive change to net assets. Although operating activities still show a deficit, this is down from a year ago and after recognizing income from investment activities our net assets increased by $425,000 for the year.

As we reported last year, we continue to review staffing levels and are expanding our efforts in the organizing area. We are also embarking on a complete review of how we function as a union with the goal of transforming to a more responsive and inclusive organization.

PRESIDENT

CSEA also has reporting requirements to fulfill with the US Department of Labor (LM-2) and the Internal Revenue Service (990). Because of the different reporting requirements the Audited Annual Financial Report as printed here may differ in presentation from these other reports.

DELEVALN — When Dave Stimely was fired for a minor accident with his school bus, his fellow workers showed their support by anonymously dropping envelopes with $40 or $50 in his mailbox and giving Dave and his wife Christmas gifts for their grandchildren.

Now Dave is back on the job after a grievance settlement of six days suspension, and the vice president of CSEA Pioneer Schools Local 734 is grateful to his union and co-workers for the support he received during a seven-month ordeal.

"It’s hard to put into words how grateful we are," Stimely said. "This should show the doubts how valuable a union is for workers."

Local President Warren Schneider said the case was one of selective discipline.

"We think this was done to Dave because he had been actively involved in our union organizing campaign last year," Schneider said. "We’re glad he’s back and that we have a good example of the union working for its members."

Civil Service Matters

How are test scores on a written civil service test determined?

First, the raw score is determined which is generally the number of questions the candidate answers correctly. After the results are analyzed, a band score table is constructed for the test. The band score table is then applied to the raw score to determine the final score. Typically, a band score covers a range of scores and bands are reported in five point increments. This method of scoring is called band scoring.

For example, a range of raw scores from 45 to 47 are assigned a band score of 80. If you received a raw score of 45, 46 or 47, your final score would be 80.

Some candidates are entitled to veterans’ credits. In accordance with the New York State Constitution, these credits are added to the final scores of passing candidates. Veterans’ credits cannot be added to failed scores. On open competitive examinations, which are those open to the general public, qualified non-disabled veterans receive 5 points and disabled veterans receive 10 points.

Why are tests band scored?

Band scoring provides a more realistic assessment of a candidate’s performance on written tests than point-by-point scoring. It takes into account that no test can measure a candidate’s abilities with perfect confidence or assess all the abilities relevant to a given job. Also, increasing the use of band scoring on civil service tests considerably opens the field of candidates who can be considered for appointment.
