In Address To Legislature

Gov. Rockefeller Will Seek Some State Agency Reorganization

No Specific Pay Hike Asked Now By Governor

(Special To The Leader)

ALBANY — Governor Rockefeller will officially open the 1968 Legislative session Wednesday with a series of proposals for State workers, including plans for the reorganization of several State agencies and improvements in the State career service.

High government sources, however, said the Governor's annual message, which he will deliver in person to the Legislature, would not contain a specific recommendation on State salaries.

Rockefeller is expected to tell lawmakers that a State pay raise is needed. The Administration-State employee talks over the amount of the salary hikes were still underway as the message was being prepared and were expected to delay settlement on a vital figure.

It was reported that the actual appropriation for a State pay raise is needed. The Administration-State employee talks over the amount of the salary hikes were still underway as the message was being prepared and were expected to delay settlement on a vital figure.

CSEA Blasts Thruway
Bargaining Units And Hits 'Union Sellouts'

ALBANY—The Civil Service Employees Assn., has taken issue with the State Thruway Authority over the bargaining unit set up December 12 for Thruway employees and at the same time charged two rival unions with selling their Thruway members "down the river."

The bargaining unit created by the Authority includes a little over 2,000 of the 2,400 Thruway employees. Included are workers grade 14 and below, except those performing professional, supervisory, technical, or confidential functions and those holding positions in Board and executive offices, and in the bureau of personnel.

The Employees Association, after participating in a recent "joint conference" of employee organizations called by the Public Employment Relations Board, refused to become a party to what it labeled a "deal" between Council 50, AFSCME, Teamsters Local 440 and Painters Union Local 804. The conference resulted in a

3 Rochester Firefighters
Pending Tye-Breaking
Action Of CS Commission

ROCHESTER — Three Rochester firemen have entered into a dispute with the Municipal Civil Service Commission over the commission's system of listing firefighters for promotion on the basis of seniority numbers.

Daniel J. Ovwe, James E. Glanton and Vincent Monteleone contend that the Civil Service "breaks ties that exist among themselves and two other firemen in listing the men with consecutive numbers.

The civil service tests are used by the public safety commissioner in making final recommendations for promotions.

A test for position of fire lieutenant was given in June, 1965, resulting in a list established Aug. 3, 1965, according to a stipulation of facts to be presented to State Supreme Court, which has been filed in the county clerk's office.

The list had come from Glanton, Monteleone, Legler and Murphy as 27 and 28, respectively.

Legler and Murphy were promoted to first lieutenant Oct. 17, 1966, the stipulation stated, simultaneous with Glanton and Monteleone, promoted in February of 1967.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission broke any tie that existed by separately numbering all eligibles and further by placing upon said list in order of preference those individuals whose examination rating was higher than whose final rating was created by virtue of additional points given to "veterans," the stipulation stated.

The commission, however, stated that all firemen were considered to be No. 24. "No tie was ever broken," it said.

The situation was mentioned by Public Safety Commissioner Mark H. Tuyker, Jr., when the promotion of Legler and Murphy were announced.

"In case of ties," he said, "I will consider recommendations of commanding officers, efficiency reports on the men seeking promotion, their character and demeanor and their reputation in their job."

Tuyker's statement was not included in the stipulation.

Hatch Act Revision
Seen Likely in 1968

Among the items due for early consideration when Congress reconvenes will be the Hatch Act which protects Federal workers from political interference but does not limit their own political activities.

The Commission on the Political Activity of Government Personnel was created by the 80th Congress and has submitted preliminary recommendations to Congress and the White House.

Sen. Daniel Brevster (D., Mo.) is vice-chairman of the Commission and is expected to appear before the House on Jan. 17, after the report is completed early this year.

About 2,700,000 Federal employees have occupational health services available to them, according to the Civil Service Commission.

The health service increases are largely due to a 1965 directive by President Johnson which called on

Reclassification Study Asked
For Watertown City Aides

WATERTOWN — The Watertown Civil Service Commission has asked the New York State Commission to send a team here, possibly by Spring, to make a job classification study in the City, including all municipal and school district employees.

Announcement of the Commission decision was made by James E. Robbins, president, Watertown Civil Service Commission.

Robbins said the commission has virtually completed a detailed study of a 1966 State report which showed a large number of civil service law violations in City and school board personnel positions.

The commission has already officially notified City Manager Ronald D. Forbes, and school superintendent, Harold T. Welser, that effective Jan. 1, 1968, there will be more frequent payroll certifications to make certain that commission edicts are put into effect.

New Unit For Nassau Chapter

LYNBROOK—Nassau chapter, Civil Service Employees Asso., recently established a new unit representing non-teaching employees of the Lynbrook School District.

The new unit has a majority of members in each of the custodial, clerical and cafeteria sections. Immediately demanded formal, exclusive recognition, pay-roll deduction of dues and negotiations leading to a contract.

Files Pledge Against Strike

BUFFALO — A Civil Service Employees Asso. unit, seeking to represent City of Buffalo workers, gave a no-strike pledge to the City Public Employment Relations Board.

The pledge was a roll agreement between the Union and the Board to protect the job security of workers involved in the matter.

The Board, formed under the State's new Taylor Law, met for the first time Nov. 30 in City Hall. Charles B. Desmond, former chief judge of the State Court of Appeals, is a member.

The CSERA group is the Buffalo Competitiveness unit, part of the Free chapter.

Desmond indicated, however, that an AFL-CIO union that seeks to represent Buffalo firemen must file a no-strike pledge before the Board will consider an application.

The union group contends that a no-strike clause in its constitution satisfies the no-strike requirement of the Taylor Law.

Two Counsels Named

Better get long odds when you bet against a proven winner. It makes more sense for Civil Service employees to bet on GHI for protection against doctor bills. GHI coverage pays off by taking care of the doctor bills — without a deductible and without coinsurance, regardless of your income. In addition, for most of the physician care you’ll need — including home and office calls — the GHI option can provide payment in full.
