How Long Should Employee Wait Before He's Permanent?

Some employees of the State Civil Service have been waiting a long time to be permanently employed. The examination was held so the State Civil Service Commission could accurately judge the employees that had been appointed temporarily. The present rule provides for a three-month trial period. If, during that time, the employee is not given permanent status, the application may be summarily dismissed. After three months, he acquires permanent status.

Some of the employees who have been waiting for three months are those who have been with Dewey's New York campaign. The examination was held so the Civil Service Commission could accurately judge the employees that had been appointed temporarily.

State agencies presented their views to the Commission.

The Association took the position that the present rule is inadequate in almost all cases. "We believe," Holk-Harris added, "that jobs like Forest Ranger or other "special" skills are involved, sometimes require a longer period of time to be spent on the job in order to be accurately judged. There would be some great asset in the extended period were extended in such sensitive cases by order of the Commission. However, we do object to the notion that the present period at some point should be made for some large group of employees. The State workers and local workers individually.

The examination was held so that war-service ineligible employees would have an opportunity to show their qualifications. Hiring officials would have lists of names of those who were eligible and would separate the list and compare it with original applications. An employee could be appointed permanently after three months, but if the department weren't certain, it would be assigned an additional three months to make up its mind about the employee. Some of the departmental representatives indicated that the extended probationary period would be unnecessary.

ALBANY, Nov. 1—Nurses in New York State hospitals are continuing their effort to get the kind of pay they feel they are in line with their jobs. Their case before the Salary Standardization Board is a carefully documented one.

Appearing before the Board in the presence of William P. McDonough, president of the Civil Service Employees Association, the nurses built a case to the immediate facts and from the "social significance" of their problems. The nursing profession, they said, being in the public health field, governed by a state law, was entitled to a position of public responsibility. The nurses were acting in the public interest.

Mr. McDonough asked the Board to approach the matter with a "completely new and unprejudiced disposition." He pointed out that in Albany, ideas, the work and the values of nurses were apt to be highly unreasoning and that the beautiful picture of "distributing," he maintained, "must be seen in the myth."

Present at the hearing were doctors from several major New York hospitals and Hygiene Institutions.

If I were asked what day in all the year is the most significant — the most important in America — my answer would be November 20, 1944. For all the others stand alone differing from all the others in a significant way.

We have our great religious holidays devoted in large part to recalling the significance of historical events, and intended to revitalize and quicken our religious life and faith. We have our great Patriotic Days when we remember the great deeds of our fathers and forefathers and when we are supposed to grow in knowledge and appreciation of what America has and is.

Election Day is similar to those days and to our patriotic days of remembrance in that it should revitalize and quicken essential practices and ideals of democratic living. Election Day is more than other days because it does more than to commemorate the past, it is the supreme testimony and the almighty power on the part of every citizen who votes, to the priceless values of freedom and order in our way of life. It is the test of our right and our duty to play our full part in the community, state and nation.

Free Elections

No democratic government can exist without free elections. No representative government can long function where the people do not feel free to call their own high officials to account.

For a system to be honest non-partisan and non-political civil service absolutely essential. Human nature is weak and the feeling that the spoils belong to the victor is hard to fill or control. No one can devise a spoils system that serves the people efficiently and no one ever will. Free and nonpartisan elections that are fair and free can serve the people without the protection and insulation of the non political merit system.

Duties and Responsibilities

On his part, the public employee must realize that whatever his political affiliations may be, his duty and responsibilities remain the same. He is still the servant of the people. He is still charged with the carrying out of departmental or board of directors orders.

Politicians, in the heat of a campaign, like to expound their programs for the nation and the state. If the people would (and if elected) do everything differently. They promise house cleaning and sometimes purges. But a few months after election, the difference between a Republican and a Democratic soil is not apparent, and the politicians that do not keep their promises.

The voters are apathetic or lazy. No efficient government can work that Charles L. Culyer, former president of the NYC chapter of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said recently.

The code of ethical conduct for all employees regardless of party affiliation, and the mechanisms for enforcing it, should be part of any civil service system.

It is the duty of officers to see that the system is free and fair in every way, and to act on every case it arises. It is the duty of the public servants to report cases of discrimination or partiality.

County Executive Committee, which would be a relatively small committee. For convenience of members and officers of the Associations, the Committees will be held as joint meetings of the member Associations. The joint meetings will be held one day each year.

The joint meeting of the Board of Directors and the member Associations is an important meeting, for two reasons. First, it is the only time that the Associations come together to discuss the problems and policies of the Association. Second, it is the only time that the Associations come together to make decisions about the future direction of the Association.

At the joint meeting, the Board of Directors will discuss the financial reports of the Associations, and the member Associations will have the opportunity to present their concerns and suggestions to the Board of Directors.

The joint meeting is an important opportunity for the Associations to work together to achieve their common goals. It is a chance for the Associations to come together and make decisions that will benefit all of the members.

The joint meeting is also an opportunity for the Associations to learn from each other. By sharing information and ideas, the Associations can work together to improve their services and programs.

New Pay Rise Is Indicated

I f you read the papers last week, you saw that steel producers have raised prices again, this time on alloys of steel and zinc.

Public employees, whatever their salary, are usually in the sad state of finding that their pay purchase less and less with the rising cost of living. It is for this reason that so many of them have asked that their pay be increased.

The importance of this request was pointed up by Otto Gottlieb, President of the New York Local of the National Democratic Club, last week. Mr. Gottlieb states this was the first time in three years that the club press) by popular New York the unreported, after Paul O'Dwyer, Congressional representatives have made a public request for a raise.

To be sure, there are instances where, by careful accounting of living costs, Issued by the Bureau of Labor, President Gottlieb points out that according to these government figures, the cost of living increased 22.6 per cent since 1939. However, in the case of steel workers, the cost of living increased 14.9 per cent over the same period. The steel worker pay raise would cover this increase in the cost of living.

Chairman Berman reported that the $1,250 would not fully restore the last purchasing power because the 1939 salary was tax exempt. The salary increase would be in order to pay for something more than $1.00. It would be in the order of a yearly income tax of $300 or more.

$1,250 Raise Is Asked By Postal Clerks Union

Local 16 of the National Federal and State Employment Corps, the union was directed by the monthly meeting of its membership to press for a raise of $1,250. The action is entirely non-political, according to Otto Gottlieb, state vice-chairman of the club.

The committee studied statistical data issued by the United States Department of Labor. President Gottlieb points out that according to these government figures, the cost of living increased 22.6 per cent since 1939.

Skepticism About the Pay Increase

Bill O'Dwyer is the most highhanded of men. He is the sort of person who, no matter what he does, will be anywhere but at his desk. This is why he is often found on the floor of the Senate when Mr. O'Dwyer decides not to run. Don't be fooled by temporary minor cuts on his straights, and you can be sure that prices on other products will go up, too.

The chairman of the committee pointed out that according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of living increased 21.8 per cent since 1939.

The cost of living increased 14.9 per cent over the same period. The steel worker pay raise would cover this increase in the cost of living.

Female Hospital Workers Seek Simple Uniform

"We want a one-piece white uniform," said a group of nurses at the New York City Hospital, which has adopted a resolution to that effect. The present uniform consists of a dress, detachable collar and cuffs. It has gray and white stripes. The em- ployees said the existing suit-pieces at Manhattan State Hospital, where the nurses are employed, are worn by 12,000 women who work 12-hour shifts. They said the existing uniform was "a nuisance, a health hazard, and a menace to the public health." The new uniform will consist of a white coat, skirt, and hat. The nurses said they would be willing to pay a little extra for the new uniform, but they wanted it to be made in a single piece.

It's the Law

BY H. J. BERNARD

The 410 members of the New York Civil Service Commission, in their large conference board room, are engaged in a debate over a proposed federal law that would affect the entire Civil Service. The discussion, which centers on the question of allowing federal judges to make appointments to the federal civil service, is being conducted by the commission's legal staff. The debate is being held in response to a request from the federal government for advice on how to proceed with the proposed law.

The proposed law would allow federal judges to make appointments to the federal civil service, with the approval of the Civil Service Commission. The commission is divided on the issue, with some members arguing that it would be a good idea, while others believe it would be a bad idea.

The debate is being held in private, so the details of the discussion are not being made public. However, it is expected that the commission will make a decision on the issue in the near future.

O'Dwyer Urges YES Vote On Proposition to Legalize Working Hours in Fire Dept.

The campaign to get an over-whelmingly affirmative vote for Proposition No. 1, to legalize the hours of Firemen, is starting today. The voting hours of five hours for Firemen gained possible advantage in three ways: first, Mayor William O'Dwyer and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued separate statements in support of the Proposition. Mayor O'Dwyer explained why he will vote for it and urged all voters in NYC vote "YES" for the polis on November 2.

The campaign was carried on by the Uniformed Firemen's Association, of which John F. Carlin is president, with the active support of the Uniformed Firemen's Organization, headed by Joseph D. Rooney. The Kermit Benevolent Association, which habitually works closely with the fire department groups, lent its full support, as did various associations. Fred Lee Donoghue, director of Commerce of NYC, was in charge of the entire campaign, the head of the Hotel Clerks, and received numerous reports for the great job that he did.

LEADER Leads a Hand

The LEADER took an active part in the campaign, also. It sent letters to voters urging them to be sure to vote "YES" and to get their co-workers friends and relatives to vote. And also posted notices to their own offices urging all assistants to go to polls to get the Proposition's 100 per cent.

The Mayor's letter follows:

"The New York City Fire Department is the finest fire-fighting force in the world. Efficient Administration, advanced techniques and the provocative adoption of modern equipment have helped maintain this superb record.

"But the splendid record of the Fire Department will have been impossible of achievement if it were not for our fire-fighting mult-power—the officers and men who go into battle against the blaze, against mankind's most dangerous enemy, men who often go down in battle, in death or serious Injury.

"Our firemen are men like the rest of us, prone to the sameills, to the same worries and the same hopes. They are husband and fathers, homeowners, parents. They have the same economic problems all of us have.

"As Mayor of the City of New York, I feel that it is part of my job to help improve conditions under which these men serve out their hazardous and physically-arduous task. When I was Com- missioner (Frank J. Quay) I introduced the two systems of hours now in force in the Department, I gave my approval.

"These hours have worked out well. They were added to the already high morale of the Department personnel and have given firemen a little more time with their families. The average health level of the Department has been improved. Increased efficiency has been the result.

"There are among the reasons I am voting for Proposition No. 1 which will place our firemen's working hours on a permanent and regained basis."

Hillard Wants 6 More Top Jobs in Welfare Dept.

A resolution was approved by the NYC Civil Service Commission, which would create two additional positions for the Department of Welfare. The resolution is in honor of Mayor William O'Dwyer, who recently passed away.

Ground Is Broken for Police - Fire Co-operative Housing

Ground was broken by Mayor William O'Dwyer on a project of the Firemen's Friends and the Uniformed Officers Service. The project, known as White stone Estates, Inc., will occupy a 36-acre site southwest of the Clearview Golf Course, Fillastone, Long Island. There will be 270 units, an apartment-type construction, four-storey, one-story unit.

Firemen Said to Be Careful

"Every Fireman should be careful with property and decorum, for his actions help to sustain the reputation of the Fire Department," the resolution said. "It look forward with pleasure to the happiness of the happy day when new Firemen will be associated with the rank of Lieutenant and Fireman."
Commission to Give Dates When Lists Will Come Out

As the result of the numerous inquiries made about the expected dates of publication or promulgation of eligible lists, the NYC Civil Service Commission will issue a regular monthly bulletin giving the dates and probable dates of change. However, it is expected that in a vast majority of instances the tentative dates mentioned in the bulletin will be carried out.

The Clerk, Grade 2, open-competition eligible list will be published on Thursday, November 4, and will be followed during this month by the lists for Cleaner Men and Women, Attendants and Police Sergeants, if no court stay is issued enjoining the use of the list. The forenamed list is the only provisional one. No dates have been set for any of the Clerk Grade 2 lists.

Most of the dates will be on a Saturday, because the Commission holds its regular meetings on Tuesdays, but large lists, in which there are there is always a vast amount of interest, will be published as soon as ready, on Wednesdays, Thursdays, or Fridays.

The foregoing hint is intended to do, to avoid holding over until the following week lists in which there is widespread interest.
