Economic Czar Won't Control U. S. Salaries

WASHINGTON—James Byrnes, the economic czar, has decided definitely that he doesn't have any jurisdiction over the salaries of Federal employees except those in the Army arsenals and Navy yards, whose salaries are fixed by wage boards. Many senators in the Administration had been hoping Byrnes would decide that the anti-inflation bill or the President's war powers give him authority over all Federal salaries as he has over private salaries. It's true that the President's executive order setting up the Economic Stabilization Board says "all salaries" but Byrnes decided he couldn't change existing law and the salaries of "white-collar" Federal workers are fixed by law, that is, by the Civil Service Commission.

"In the Army arsenals and Navy yards, as I pointed out several weeks ago, the Administration was not in a position to set salaries. You really have to have the funds to pay the wages. As to the Civil Service, he has some control, of course, but as to the white-collar workers the Civil Service is the one that fixes their salaries."

Supreme Court Justice Benedit D. Dixon had not yet handed down his decision when the case of the 3-A fire eligibles versus Fire Chief and Commissioner Patrick S. McSharry was heard. The LEADER went to press before the decision was reached, declared that "it was made quite clear that this law was meant to apply only to eligibles in the fire service.

More Problems
A decision favoring the city would bring new, more involved problems to the fire service. Among the questions which would have to be answered are:

Would the 3-A men be entitled to a place on a special military preferred list?
Would the 3-A men be on the list at all?

Students of civil service law are unanimous in their opinion that the Dixon decision will favor the eligibles. Recently, Hlpt Kaplan, assistant secretary of the Civil Service Reform Association, who was one of the authorities consulted by the LEADER, pointed out that in the rank of fireman, until a decision is handed down.

Exam Claim Examiners
The first seventy-five names on the recently-eligible list for claim examiners (January and February) were certified by the Civil Service Commission on October 16 payroll.
The 1,295 provisional conductors will be made as soon as the conductor list is delivered by the 8,240 conductor applications mailed in by the 8,240 conductors who are eligible to the Sanitation Department and the Board of Transportation.

Subways Get Shelf
The request to limit the replacement of the 3-A conductors was made by William J. Walsh, as The LEADER went to press. No appointments will be made until the replacements have passed the examination and are certified by the Civil Service Commission on October 16 payroll.

Elevator Mechanic Wages in Doubt
An increase was indicated this week in the $12.25 a day wage rate for elevator mechanics.
The LEADER has learned that the decision in the recent precedents from the total amount of the bill which will be paid at this time because of the fluctuations of that wage in private industry. In fact, a forthcoming decision will have to determine if there are any base wage reductions, and, if an affirmative decision is rendered, in what amounts.

Meanwhile, interest in Dineen's bill, which was one of the authorities consulted by the LEADER, pointed out that in the rank of fireman, until a decision is handed down.

It Must Be The Air
The name of another LEADER reader who received a perfect physical score on the conductor test was not revealed. The reader is Abraham Young, who finished number 264 on the list. Abraham lives at 85-42 Beachway Avens, the Bronx, which borough seems to specialize in future conductors who are physically perfect.

Police Department to Request More Patrolmen This Week

Although no definite assurance could be obtained, The LEADER learned that the Civil Service Commission has changed the formula that the Police Department this week will request the Civil Service Commission to certify the first group of names from the one-month-old patrolman list to make 200 appointments. The appointments are expected to become effective November 1. Budget director's approval to make the appointments has already been given.

The certification of the patrolman list to the Police Department will be the first official step in the process of appointments. It will also be the first step taken to combat a dangerous shortage of patrolmen in the city. At the present time there are close to 1200 patrolman jobs unfilled. Assisted in leave a week's leave, the Civil Service Commission has a minimum of 200 patrolman eligibles who are qualified in every respect and have been rigorously investigated by the Commission's investigating bureau and the Police Department for the present泰安组 of all those men who will most likely be included in the police service. The names of all those men who are certified to the Police Department as patrolmen are not released by the Commission.

The 216 qualified patrolman eligibles are within the first 500 on the list. Eligible further down on the list may be eliminated if additional appointments are made. Those who are eliminated will be notified.

Fire Boys Become Cops

The names of 74 eligibles on the fireman list were certified to the New York City Tunnel Authority to fill vacancies as tunnel officers in the Queens Midtown Tunnel. The certification included names of available eligibles up to number 1,854 on the list.

Five eligibles who accept employment as tunnel officers will be informed by the Civil Service Commission that their names will be removed from the fireman list for a period of one year.

If you're capable of doing hard work, and not in 1-A, 2-A, or 2-B draft classifications, you can help your country by applying for a job as a laborer, mason, or mechanic in the New York City Housing Authority. Eligibles who accept these permanent positions will have their names removed from the sanitation man list for a period of one year.

Eligibles who accept these permanent positions will have their names removed from the sanitation man list for a period of one year.

While the eligible list for this position has only been promulgated recently, it may be necessary to hold another examination in the near future. This is due to the fact that so many men on the present list are in the armed forces, under age or of such draft status as to prevent their appointment.

Men who are in a draft-deferred status and within the age limits of 21 and 28 (see note below) if interested in this position should begin physical training immediately after the war. This phase of the examination is very difficult and only those who spend months in preparation can hope to attain a high mark.

Free Medical Examination

Anyone interested is invited to call and, without being examined, he is found fit, or has some slight defect, which can be remedied, he is released and starts physical training immediately.

THE EXAM IS REASONABLE, AND PAYABLE IN INSTALLMENTS.

NOTE: Owing to cost conditions, the examination fee may be increased in the coming examination. Therefore, men who are accepted for examination, and later determined as eligible, are free to pay the fee as announced on the day of the examination, and no refund will be paid.

How Much Is Room, Board Worth to Hospital Worker?

A schedule of maintenance values for employees of State institutions has been prepared by J. Buckley Bryan, Director of the Department of the Secretary for the State, who are paid from funds established under the Public-Charity Law. The values established are based upon the earnings of workers assigned to the employees, the nature of the employees’ occupations, the number of adults and children in a family group, and other items of maintenance support. Bryan pointed out that after July 1, 1942, food from stores, farm products and services for domestic care will be determined by the State, but will be based on price contracted and paid by the employee.

Bryan added that studies of the monthly values of maintenance for State institutions are conducted by budget director Bryan, follow:

Here's a Real Break for Older Men Who Want to Get Into War Work

(Exclusive)

As many as 1,000 men from 49 to 63 years of age are needed immediately for jobs in connection with the war effort.
The Problems of the Hospitals

WITH this issue, THE LEADER begins more thorough consideration of the problems of New York City's Hospital Department and its employees. The hospitals are the largest and most visible victims of the vastness and importance of the work being accomplished; it's just been taken for granted. We've learned to live with it without thinking too much about the people in the hospitals— the attendants, the helpers, the practical nurses... who do a tough, hard job, quietly, and without fanfare.

Now, in time of war, when the proper maintenance of hospitals becomes of crucial importance, the problem is at its worst. New York's Hospital Department has suffered serious losses of staff. The armed forces and the war production industries have absorbed the able-bodied and sizable numbers in all categories. The Department has resorted to every possible recruiting method to find at least some replacements.

This brings us to the crux of this editorial. Hospital workers are notoriously the most undersung persons in the community. That men and women should be expected to live on the pittance they receive is a sorry commentary on our budgetary policies. This town has got to understand that the wages of hospital workers must go up. Otherwise the city faces possibilities in the drinker, the drunk, the pauper, the client in need of care of the hospital. The City Government is putting on some pressure to condition us in city hospitals, which you, the reader, may never have been directly affected by.

Postal Workers Ask Pointed Question

So as a postal worker (Compiler) I want to thank you for this editorial, which I have read. As a member of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, I feel the postal workers are exactly what you have been portraying in the Department. I have met postal workers of all grades and levels in the Department and have been surprised at the vast number of the vastness and importance of the work being accomplished; it's just been taken for granted. We've learned to live with it without thinking too much about the people in the hospitals— the attendants, the helpers, the practical nurses... who do a tough, hard job, quietly, and without fanfare.

Pleads for Use of Special List

I hope the New York City Civil Service Commission will combine both the patrolman and special patrolman lists like in the future. It is certain that the city will not be able to fill all the vacancies on the Patrolmen's Department from the patrolman list. The men on the special patrolman list are certainly more qualified to be policemen in New York City than eligible on the Police Department. Surely you will want the best people to fill the vacancies in the Patrolmen Department.

In order to give the best people to fill the vacancies in the Patrolmen Department, the special patrolman list should be used instead of the regular patrolman list. The city has the best people on the special patrolman list and should not turn them down. Therefore, I again ask that you use the special patrolman list and do not use the regular patrolman list.

Hospital Attendant's Complaint

To: Chief of the City Department of Hospitals, New York City. From: An employee of the Department.

I have worked for several years in the Department and have been very satisfied with the work I have done. However, I believe that the wages which I earn are not enough to support myself and my family.

The working conditions in the Department are very poor, and the hours are very long. I believe that the Department should do more to improve the working conditions and to increase the wages of the employees.

I believe that the Department should also be more fair in its treatment of its employees. I have sometimes been treated unfairly and I believe that the Department should do more to prevent this from happening.

I would like to see the Department adopt some of the suggestions that have been made in this editorial. I believe that these suggestions would improve the working conditions and the wages of the employees.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
[Employee's Name]
The Hospital Dept. and the War

I am grateful to the Civil Serv­

The Department of Hospitals

The Department of Hospitals during normal times employs 20,000 men and women to carry on the various functions which are essential for the proper care of more than 300,000 hospital patients and 450,000 clinic patients yearly. War-time conditions have reduced our staff by over time.

Hospital Oddities

Perhaps it sounds like a lot of "in-as-long" but they have a sheepherd at Sea View Hospital in Castleton Corners, Staten Island, a tuberculosis center. He's really a Department of Hospitals helper and paid as such. He herds 25 sheep maintained for experimental purposes.

Nursing—A Wide Open Field

For the Girl With Talent

The lady greatly in demand in the Hospitals Department today is the graduate nurse who is just coming into her own.

The Hospital Department

Aside from the Army and Navy, the graduates may go into public health nursing, into industrial and institutional nursing, and the way is cleared without further preparation to become a supervisor, instructor or head nurse in a hospital.

For positions in the hospital-helpers and hospital attendant categories.

The work is not easy, and the salaries are very modest. The duties will undoubtedly become progressively more difficult as the war demands upon the personnel of this department become intensively severe. Persons interested in hospital work who are able to offer their services on a volunteer basis, are urged to apply through the various Civilian Defense Volunteer offices. As for the general public—we know that they will continue to appreciate our problems and will, through their sympathetic understanding, continue to assist us in our difficult job.

Attendant
Paid Little, Value Is Great

The attendant is one of the most neglected personnel items in the whole Hospital Department setup.

These are the people who are so often overlooked (the department, truthfully, does not pay attendants liberal salaries) that they are even beginning to go in aliens at this time.

Nevertheless, the attendant is given every possible inducement to enter the service, not only to get a job but in the manner of the volunteer worker, to enable him to develop and contribute more directly to the war effort, and to continue his activities to work requiring skilled training.

HOSPITAL WORKERS HELP WIN THE WAR

On January 20 the Department of Hospitals started its gigantic drive to aid the war effort through the purchase of bonds and stamps. The first few months produced exciting results. There were 2,297,946.27—and the avalanche.

Elizabeth Rittenhouse was asked to appoint one of its own deputy superintendents to represent it in the drive. She had previous war commodity, and, in addition, speakers from the U. S. Treasury Department began to frequent the buildings with their zealous advertising the bond and stamp drive with a view of creating a situation.

To top all of this, each month the superintendents reported the progress of the drive, mentioning increases in sales, month by month, and pledges and sales, being placed in monumental bulletin boards.

You can be sure that it is embarrassing for an institution to fall behind when others are racing ahead at a wild pace.

Terrific Pace

The terrific pace has been that pace. In fact, that Kings County, with 2,400 employees in the department, snatched all records in the Empire City, in buying $2,915,924.50 in bonds and stamps through the end of August.

Take Bellevue, for instance. In spite of the efforts of other Department of Hospitals swarms with some 24,000 employees, Bellevue has managed to cut out many and varied institutions.

Here are more employees at work daily than in any other City Department, men and women performing in the cleanest, most peace time and especially vital chores in these days of war.

Here are more employees of the women and men at work daily than in any other City Department, men and women performing invaluable service in perusing and especially vital chores in these days of war.

Headed by Dr. Edward M. Bertrand, the Bellevue staff is at the head of a big, bulky department, of which the hospitals range from the pathological laboratories at 125 Worth Street, Manhattan, all of the administrative offices of Watertown, to the Coney Island Hospital, out there on a salt-water-surrounded territory.

Many Types of Employees

Physicians, internists, laboratory technicians, nurses, clerks, bookkeepers, occupational therapy assistants, will all make up this vast panorama of war service.

Some of the finest physicians serve in the various hospitals in the world. Many of them have been called away for service, some of them have paid their own way, others volunteering their services.

There are graduates, student and nursing alumnae of the New York University, for the men who administer therapy and care; the men in white uniforms and caps, topped by a white feather, make up a vital personnel that is a compulsory part of our war effort.

Film of the Week

"Beast of the Enemy," the Spring Forest Theatre, is a straightforward and interesting story of secret agents. The plot revolves around the adventures of a young private who is captured by the Germans and escapes to tell of their activities. The acting is superb and the photography of the scenes in the snow especially effective. For the first time in a Russian picture, English dialogue has been cleverly dubbed into the usual subtitles. G.B.

"You Can't Escape Forever!" is scheduled at the N. Y. TRISTATE THEATRE. George Brent and Veronica Lake star in this drama. The story is concerned with the escape of a gang of criminals who are being transported to the CHATEAU MODERNE.

In Detroit...the folks at the Butler Motel, East 46th St., East of the Avenue, have a new annual special. For the first time in a successful run, they're offering the extraordinary rate of $1.50 in room rates. What does this mean to you?
To begin with, it means you can stay at the Butler for less than a third the price of a hotel room even at the busiest of times.
Moreover, the Butlers have 364 rooms in all, so there's always a room available when you need one. And there's a warm, friendly atmosphere that makes your stay there a real pleasure. Next time you're in Detroit, be sure to stay at the Butler Motel.
