Gen. Bradley Answers Questions on Army Allotments

I have received so many letters asking for an explanation of the new dependency allotments that I wish to take this column for an explanation of it. The new allotments are, of course, especially important now that fathers are entering the services in greater numbers.

Perhaps the best way to explain the changes which have been made in the allotments is by answering some of the questions which I have received.

Q. I understand that Class B-1 dependents under the new law are those who depend upon the enlisted man for their "chief" support. What is meant by "chief" support?

ANS. "Chief" support has been construed to mean over 50 percent of the dependent's income.

Q. Is the soldier's contribution to the dependency payments increased under the new law?

ANS. No, his contributions remain unchanged. He pays $22 a month if he has class A or B or B-1 dependents; $27 a month if he has class A and class B or B-1 dependents.

Class A dependents include wife, child, or former wife, divorced. Class B includes parents, brothers, and sisters who are dependent upon the soldier for their chief support. Class B-1 includes parents, brothers, and sisters who are dependent upon the soldier for only partial share of their support (construed to mean less than 50 percent.)

Q. I am a girl, 22, crippled, and dependent upon my brother in the Army for support. Will I continue to get allotments?

ANS. Yes. Brothers, sisters and children must be unmarried and under 18 years of age to come under the provisions of the law. But they may be of any age if physically incapable of self-support.

U.S. Employees Get Paid, Help the War

Mr. Rosfell answered that the post of OPA chief here. However, the Civil Service Commission had decided to close down on applications. The figures:

More over, it's the kind of idea every woman will be able to use in her own home and in the homes of her friends. It is cheap, too.

What You Learn

What you'll learn, if you apply

What to Do

New York City government officials are using the Service's new plan to try to increase the number of women employed in federal, as well as in private industry positions.

A small, simple, portable shelf has been invented by Mr. Rosfell to help women keep their work in order and to save them time and cost. It is made of wood and can be used as a table or a cabinet. The shelf is attached to the wall by means of a wire loop which goes through the wall and is fastened to the shelf. This way, the shelf can be moved from one place to another without being removed from the wall.

How to Use

The shelf is easy to use. To storage, it is simply placed against the wall and its position is fixed by means of a wire loop which is passed through a hole drilled in the wall. The shelf is then pulled down into place and the loop is tightened. To remove the shelf, it is merely pulled up and released, and the wire loop is pulled out through the hole in the wall.

Learn This Trade, Girls; Get Paid, Help the War

Mr. Rosfell is the head of the controversial OPA, which has been accused of misusing its power to manipulate prices and wages. He has been a vocal supporter of the war effort and has been outspoken about the need for women to participate in the workforce.

There's Help Now for City Employees

B Y F R E D C K L L Y

Mr. E, a New York City employee, had been borrowing money from time to time in order to help tide him over until his next pay check. One day, Mr. E found himself desperately short of $6, and he went to see his bank about it. He told the teller that he was short of money and, agreed to pay back $6, with a $1 interest charge. But when the week's end came round, he found that the $6, plus the $1 interest, had been debited to his account. The lender agreed to take it, and only gave Mr. E back his $7, and if another week passed without him paying his debt, the bank would begin a legal process to recover the amount. The whole story made Mr. E realize that he was in deep trouble, and he began to live frugally. He still had to pay the interest on his debt, but he was able to keep his job.

The Debt Grows

Mr. E had finally reached $56, with $10 interest paid against it, and only gave him $46 back when he was paid. He had to pay the interest on his debt, but he was able to keep his job.

SUBWAYS
Seniority Straightened
Sixteen street car operators in the field of Transportation have their seniority records straightened since the Civil Service Commission last week. They were originally on the eligible list for auto-engineer, then worked up to engineering job for street car operators. They have served on the July 1, 1942, list, but for some reason were left off the list by the Certification Bureau of the Commission that year. Meanwhile, some of the men who came in to the Commission and complained that they were being overlooked while others, below them on the list, were getting promotions. The last of this group were up on January 15, 1943. The Commission decided that if those men claimed his property, they would have been appointed on January 15, 1943, and have them all seniority back to that date. Seventeen street car operators were involved: Jacob Ostrowski, Louis Conrad, Louis Basom, Clemens Kropp, Merrit Winick, William Reischke, James McQueen, Harry Kushner, Theodore Ziem, John McKee, Robert J. Dixon, John R. Carlson, Edward F. German, Ernest R. King, Richard W. Astbury, and George A. Bass.

Promotion Lists
Four promotions for a new street car operator are in the Board of Transportation. The first three are due to the names of the eligible in the order of their seniority. They are:

Promotion to Train Dispatcher

Promotion to Station Supervisor

Promotion to 6th St. Station
Richard E. Lutern.

Foremen Kick
Two weeks ago the Board of Transportation issued a new military order and schedule for its foremen. They now have a thing called "foremen's kicks" which slip in behind their headbands at 8:00 in the morning, but the dues of peace took a quick flight around the premises and then back in again.

Some of the foremen, it seems, were not too happy about the new pay listings. The Civil Service Commission of the State, County and Municipal Department, which represents them, has asked Deputy Commissioner J. C. Meehan for an appointment to talk things over and make a recommendation as to the relation of the examination, based on the work of the department.

A Break on All-Saints Day
Some Welfare employees are taking off this week. They "actually got a break," they say.

What happened was this: On Tuesday, November 1, the Allerton Hotel in New York City had its dedica- tion ceremony. The Allerton Hotel is ideally located for all the City Department activities, and the State Department, of course, was invited to be there. The State Department's representatives were there and were given the grand tour of the hotel.

STATE OF NEW YORK, DEPARTMENT OF MUNICIPAL SERVICE, ITA, had the honor of receiving a proclamation from the Mayor of New York City, containing the following:

"Be it known that the Allerton Hotel is being dedicated October 31st, 1943. The President of the New York City Council has appointed a committee of five, including the Speaker, to conduct the dedication.

The State Department of Municipal Service, being one of the departments of the New York City government, is invited to attend the dedication of the Allerton Hotel and to participate in the ceremonies. OVERTIME

Pay for overtime work has long been a bone of contention between public employees, especially Federal and Municipal Employees, AFL. Holding meetings, expressions of the desire to try and work out a method of fixing some money for the extra hours and better benefits.

At present, the city policy is to get the job done, but the city is not going to pay the employees for the extra hours. The situation is that they get the overtime work, but the time-off-out can't be arranged.

And as an argument for their side, the city says, "the city is doing the same thing as other cities. Here's this old rule, the city should be able to afford it."

ARMISTICE

Armistice Day means another short working day at San Francisco, Ohio, double time. Thanksgiving Day today has been cut to 5 hours.

The following cities pay time and a half for holiday overtime:

Marine City

Police

Sanitation

The city is now to do the sanitation men feel, "the city should be able to afford it."

ADEQUATE STRIKES

The City of New York City is headed by the list of speakers on important questions facing civil service workers who spoke at the Teachers Union meeting Friday evening, November 12th at the University Club in New York City. The strike was called at 8:15 p.m. on Monday, November 12th. The teachers said that the teachers were doing what they thought was right. The teachers were doing what they thought was right. MEN and WOMEN

The abnormally heavy traffic now being handled by American railroads has created an urgent need for men and women in nearly every department.

There are over 200 occupations used in the operation of a railroad, in its shops, roundhouses, terminals, and its lighters, fugs, barges and marine repair yards. Many of the occupations now open require no experience. Facilities are available for proper instruction and in most cases those hired are paid while learning.

 Helpers are in great demand in nearly every ordinary technical occupation, for example, machinist helper, boilermaker helper, electrician helper, and many others.

 Freight handlers, men and women for many kinds of maintenance work, brakemen, switchtenders, car department employees, are other types of jobs for which no experience is necessary. There are many, many more.

 Men between the ages of 16 and 55 and women between 21 and 45 who are in good health are now being employed.

 Railroad jobs are protected by seniority thereby affording excellent prospects for continued employment after the war. Promotion is generally based on ability and seniority standing.

 Employees are eligible for retirement benefits under a federal law enacted exclusively for such employees.

 Essential workers need release statements.

Decision by Intuition

THE time of year is approaching when budgets must be made up. This is the time it works.

The department heads submit their itemized statements explaining how much they need, and for what.

Then the Budget Director prunes these statements down.

Then the Mayor goes to town.

Rather, the Mayor goes off into an ivory tower, with his hands in his pockets.

Now begins the period of decision by intuition, two clerks lopped off here, a group of per annum men turned into per diem.

Every penny is a white elephant.

Decision by intuition is, and hardly fitting this City. There are people in it who have the know how to handle those budgets, because they have to live with them. These people are the small fry—men who seem to think of nothing but the representatives of the major employee organizations—and get their ideas, too. We’ll guarantee, Mr. Mayor, you’ll find that they will learn things about the jobs that you’ve never—with all your omniscience—known.

You might even find that some employees have ideas on more efficient operation, and can suggest ways to save money.

The men and women who are in the City’s civil service, do have something to improve. If they can think things through on a long-term basis, the very least you can do is listen to them—before the budget is prepared. It will help you to see things a new way.

What if it takes budget-making out of the realm of intuition? Decision by intuition isn’t in vogue these days.

Federal Employee

Tries the Post Office

Sirs: I, like thousands of other Federal employees, work the regular office hours. Every evening I have a few hours that I’d like to invest in helping the war effort, but I’m faced with the problem of getting the needed time off.

I heard that the Post Office was looking for part-time workers. I jumped at the opportunity. It was just what I wanted, something that didn’t interfere with my political career, help me, didn’t require any special training. The type of work I could handle with no trouble.

But, when I went to the Post Office, I found that the job was an old story of Red Tape. It was for the U.S. Gov’t. for the employees of the various Post Offices. So I went to one of the City Colleagues to apply for the job. When I got there I was told that I didn’t have a college diploma. They paid all of $125 a year.

That evening I met a girl I used to work with in high school. She has a job with the Federal Government. When I saw her last week, she was telling me about all the jobs that were open with the Post Office.

So I went to one of the City Colleagues to apply for the job. When I got there I was told that I didn’t have a college diploma. They paid all of $125 a year.

Why She Won’t

Work for the City

Sirs: I wanted a job with the Civil Service. When I went to work for the Post Office, I had found a job that was easy, and that paid well. So I went to one of the City Colleagues to apply for the job. When I got there I was told that I didn’t have a college diploma. They paid all of $125 a year.

Fire Eligible

for Retired

Sirs: I was on the N.Y.C. list of firemen for 34 years. My name came up for appointment in September 1942, but I was refused the job. The reason given was that I had never finished high school, but that I earned $500 a year as a scorekeeper.

I joined the Fire Department to work for New York City anymore, and I think I have shown that there are other people don’t want to work for the City either.

Now and then I get a call from a fellow at Veto who says, "Do you have any doubts about Jack’s latest orchid?"

I have seen them before, so I have a good idea of what to expect. Just as I was going to drop the subject, I was taken by surprise when I took two and a half days from the paper and requested a copy of the day’s issue with the individual announcements. I was very pleased to see that he had included them.

The Pension Forum consists of a group of young patrons who are interested in the benefits of their own organization for some time. We have received many letters from both of the representatives who are speaking of the need for the organization’s front agents who could do more effective work. In the future, the organization will use some of the methods used by the American Legion in the past.

How many boys from Civil Service won't come back?

Nobody knows the exact number. Nobody. But—
The number who do come back—on their own two feet instead of in a flag-draped box—will be in exact proportion to the job we do here at home.

For every minute that we can help shorten the war will mean more lives saved. (213 Americans were killed in the final day of the last war, and 1,114 were wounded before the 11:00 o'clock Armistice took effect.)

Now one way all of us can help shorten the war is to tighten our belts and buy more War Bonds. Yes, still more. And . . .

If you think you're buying all the War Bonds you are able to, imagine—for a minute—that it's after the war . . .

. . . you're standing at the station . . . a bunch of home-town boys, still in uniform, climb off the train
. . . one of them kisses his wife and grabs his kid in his arms . . .

. . . and then he turns to a young woman beside them,
a girl who looks like his wife's sister, and you overhear him say . . .

"Catherine, I don't know how to tell you how sorry I am . . . it's such a shame about Joe . . . it makes me sick all over when I think how he'd be here today
if the war had only ended a week sooner."

Think it over. Can't you buy a few more War Bonds to help end the war that week or month sooner? Sure, it may mean giving up something, but what's that compared to what they're giving up? And remember, always—The money you "can't spare" may spare a soldier's life!

"I Do It," starring Red Skelton and Eleanor Powell. It has been booked by the New York Pari- ly. The action is the historic movement and the subsequent effects on the business of the nation. POSTAL
No Logic in Overtime
Postal employees in New York City feel that the system whereby they are forced to work without pay during the overtime period makes no sense. The present setup is a "chaos and confusion" system.

Local 10, Federal Post Office Departmental Council, has submitted proposals to the Department to effect a system which would be fair to both the employees and the taxpayers. The local suggests that the system is based on the principle of acquainted personnel of the Post Office and a reasonable compensation that would equalize the overtime.

Proposals include allowing postal employees to work overtime at home or elsewhere than where they work regularly.

Recognition of a 10-hour day, similar to the one in use for efficient handling of the mail.

Day Off for Sunday
According to the law governing the New York Post Office Department, any employee who works on Sunday is entitled to a day off on the following Monday.

New York Post Office employees allege that even if this right is accepted, they would still be forced to work on the Sabbath because the law does not state that this right is acceptable. They ask the New York Federation of Labor for its opinion on the matter.

As of December 1, 1944, Postmaster Alberti Goldman, signed by officers of Local 10 of the New York Federation of Labor, requested the following:

"We wish to have the position clarified that the employees have a right to a day off every Sunday, if they are to be forced to work on the Sabbath, the following Monday is not of any benefit to them. Further, we wish to have a day off of the employees on a regular basis. We have made the best efforts to reach our objective. Our request is approved by all parties.

The present average six-day work week is 58 hours. Until the men get off one day in 7, the pay is still the same. It will suffer.

We consider this work as a current emergency which must be handled in a serious manner. Following a serious consideration of the matter, we set the following:

Pay or Time Off?

WASHINGTON—The question of whether the federal em¬ployees or compensatory time off in lieu of overtime earning the employees shall be paid is now before the Commission.

In view of these conditions, the employees felt that the system whereby they are forced to work without pay during the overtime period is not only a violation of the law, but also a violation of the public service.

There are many proposals for a system whereby the employees would be paid for the overtime period, such as:

- Payment of the overtime period
- Payment of a percentage of the overtime period
- Payment of a percentage of the overtime period

The employees feel that these proposals should be considered by the Commission and that the system is unfair and should be discontinued.

This proposal was supported by their president, Mr. Brown, who pointed out that the employees should be paid for the overtime period.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTER
Mr. Linfoot is quoted as saying that no charge is made for the responsibility as the compensation with the New York State of any employee, and that the responsibility will be met by the Postmaster General.

"We're not going to stand for this," Mr. Brown declared.

If the Commission denounces the system as illegal, the employees will be paid for the overtime period, and the work will continue as before.

The employee's description of the system is as follows:

"We are paid for the work we do, but not for the work we do overtime. This is unfair and we demand that the system be discontinued.

We have been working for the better part of the year and the work is not being done properly. The employees are not being paid for the overtime period, and we demand that the system be discontinued.

The Commission is being asked to investigate this matter and to make a report to the Congress.

The employees are demanding that the system be discontinued and that they be paid for the overtime period.

HOLD MEMORIAL MASS

The Third Annual Memorial Mass of The Catholic Guild of the United States was held at St. John the Baptist, 12th Ave., New York. The Mass was held in the presence of the New York Post Office Department and the Guild was represented by its president, Mr. Molloy, and his committee.

The Mass was attended by a large number of clergy and laity, and was conducted by the Rev. Father Molloy. The Mass was a success and was well attended.

How Can Civil Service Be Improved

The article which follows below is considered by the editors of this newspaper to be an excellent article on the subject of the civil service system.

The Civil Service LEADER. Written by an outstanding civil service expert, it goes deeply into the various aspects of civil service and government personnel problems, and attempts to give the reader a clear understanding of the New York State civil service system, the principles and conclusions cited may well be applied to municipal civil service in any community, and has bearing on the Federal civil service system.

The author; H. Eliot Kaplan, Executive, Civil Service Reform Association.

 Twenty years ago Winston Churchill, commenting on the civil service in Great Britain, paid it this high compliment: "At the head of the Government is a body of men who work without personal ambition." Unfortunately, the analogy is no longer applicable. Today the group of men who work at the Post Office is a body of men who work without personal ambition, and this is not only an indication of the failure of the system, but an indication of the failure of the civil service system as a whole.

The system has become so complex and expensive that it is no longer possible to maintain it. The cost of the civil service system is now so high that it is no longer possible to maintain it. The cost of the civil service system is now so high that it is no longer possible to maintain it. The cost of the civil service system is now so high that it is no longer possible to maintain it.

A look at the system shows that it is no longer possible to maintain it. The cost of the civil service system is now so high that it is no longer possible to maintain it. The cost of the civil service system is now so high that it is no longer possible to maintain it.

The real crux of the system is that the civil service system is not capable of being made efficient and adequately financing the framework of the New York State civil service system.

Half Political, Half Civil

To begin with, the civil service system in New York is half political, half civil. The political aspect is evident from the fact that the system is controlled by the political party in power. The civil service aspect is evident from the fact that the system is controlled by the civil service commission. The civil service commission has the power to appoint and fire employees, and the political party in power has the power to appoint and fire employees.

Our present set-up is, therefore, half political, half civil. The civil service commission is hard pressed to maintain a balance between the two parties, and this balance is constantly threatened.

The civil service commission is responsible for the hiring and firing of employees, but the political party in power has the power to appoint and fire employees. This situation is not fair to either party, as both are involved in the hiring and firing of employees.

Next week, Mr. Kaplan describes his concept of a new system of government employees.
