Company Hedges on Contract Extension

GE Interferes with Collection of Dues

GE has announced that it will interfere with the collection of dues by its union members. The union, Local 301, has complained that GE has been hindering the collection of dues, which the union believes is necessary to fund its activities. GE has stated that it will not interfere with the collection of dues, but the union remains concerned about the company's actions. The situation has sparked a debate about the role of management in union activities.

Union Draws Up Proposals For Contract

The company and the union have started negotiations for a new contract. The union has presented proposals that include increases in pay and benefits, as well as improvements in working conditions. The company has not yet responded to the union's proposals, and negotiations are ongoing.

A Real Pension Plan

The union has presented a proposal for a real pension plan. The proposal includes contributions from both the union and the company to a fund that would provide retirement benefits to union members. The union believes that such a plan is necessary to ensure the long-term financial security of its members. The company has not yet responded to the proposal, and further negotiations are expected.

301 Backs Miners with Food Donations

Local 301 has donated food to a group of miners who are striking for better wages and working conditions. The union believes that the miners are justified in their demands and has called on other unions to support them. The donation is part of the union's efforts to provide assistance to its members in times of need.

(Continued on page two)