To Win Our Demands

BY AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY, the workers of Schenectady GE have chosen the Union they built, UE Local 301, to continue to represent them in collective bargaining with GE. The vote was:

After three weeks of noise-making, name-calling and disruption, the UE-CIO has pulled out of town. Schenectady GE workers now face their main task—the winning of their demands from the General Electric Co.

UE National Negotiators with GE open Wednesday, on the UE's demands for a substantial general wage increase, for additional increases for the skilled trades, for women, and for improved union and insurance plans.

The company hopes to profit by UE's disruption — to attempt to impose on Schenectady workers the miserable package they handed the company union UE. It is up to all of us here—without regard for past affiliation—to show the company that Schenectady GE workers are united behind their demands.

The first big step toward winning a wage increase, day workers' raises, fair rates on women's jobs, higher rates for the skilled trades and a better pension is to MAKE SCHENECTADY GE 100 PERCENT UE.

The membership of UE Local 301 has no quarrel with those who may have been misled into honest support of UE in the election. We urge all such workers to unite with the majority for better protection and advancement of our interests as GE employees.

All GE workers have reason to resent the foul campaign of mud-slinging conducted here by UE's importunate agents. All of us have reason to resent the unscrupulous meddling of politicians in elections. We can all recognize it for what it is, a cheap political payoff to CIO officials for their subservience to partisan machine politics.

We can expect the meddling politicians and disruptors to continue their sniping from a distance, in an effort to steal from GE workers the fruits of their victory.

By sticking together in UE Local 301 we can win our demands, improve our conditions and win new protection and security for ourselves and our families.

Make GE 100 percent UE
