Barbieri Answers Alco's Anti-Labor Blast; Local 2054 Will Ask for National Contract

dates made by an American Labor Union Co. official in the Senate Labor Committee and scheduled for presentation at the American Labor Union Co., in Pittsburg, Pa.

The Senate official, a labor representative from the corporation, asked Congress to study the problem of power by making a joint investigation. The Senate has scheduled a bill to do just that.

Barbieri complained that Alco was at "a great disadvantage in dealing with a corporation of $900,000,000 in assets." He stated that the strike would never have taken place if the local union had been permitted to proceed by collective bargaining as distinguished from the exercise of central control by the international.

Barbieri pointed out that workers at the Schenectady plant voted 6,000 to 2,000 in favor of the strike to end the "injustice." He said the union's agreement had been reached to cut the wage rates of 500 members.

The "wage rates of 500 members" that Barbieri referred to in his testimony, Schenectady, N. Y., had been reduced from 50 cents to 40 cents an hour.

Barbieri said "this very serious wage in the bargaining position of the four American Labor Unions of the International Union, as prescribed by the Wage Stabilization Board and the National War Labor Board." He added that the rate agreed to in the new contract was higher than the rate paid by the manufacturers in the same industry.

Schendley Company, a labor representative from the corporation, stated that the "wage rates of 500 members" had been agreed to in order to meet the rising cost of living and to provide for the protection of the employees. He also said that the "wage rates of 500 members" had been agreed to in order to meet the rising cost of living and to provide for the protection of the employees.

Book on Monopolies

Gives Facts on GE

Employees of GE will find a lot to interest them in a new book, "Out of Your Pocket," a study of nucleate written by the chairman of the Department of Commerce. The book, which is supposed to dispel the myths of the company's activities, is a picture of the electric light and power industry in this country. The book points out that there are two major sources of electric power, the electric company and the coal company. The coal company is the larger of the two.
