Famous GE Efficiency Baffled by a Blower

Workers at General Electric's A. E. Koch in Building 65 are wondering how many months the company can take to repair or replace a faulty blower.

The fan is in a spray booth. It was noted that it gives the group the air supply to the spray booth. It does not affect the coating process. It is the only such blower in the company. The company is considering replacing it with a new one. The group is using the new blower to replace the old unit. The group is hoping to have the new blower installed soon.
