We are especially proud of the thousands of members from our union who are in the fighting forces.

We have contributed all available resources to the purchase of war bonds.

We are continuing wholeheartedly to the Blood Donors Drive through thousands of individual blood contributions.

We have contributed all to the cause of peace.

Who Wants Big Business For Boss?

The Gallup-Poll American Institute of Public Opinion is an organization formed to investigate the public opinion on big business. It has been found that public opinion is divided on this issue. However, it is clear that big business is essential for the country's economic growth. It is for this reason that the Gallup-Poll organization has been formed. The organization will conduct surveys to determine public opinion on big business.

The Real Political Test

For, fortunately for our democracy, the big-business press is not all-powerful. We read quite a few editorials (not unsolicited) that press for a change in the Washington regime to which the voters have been definitely revealed all the pretensions of the big-business press. After all, elections are a much better test of American public opinion than all the little selective polls conducted by big-business publishers for their own comfort and advantage.

Danger to Democracy

But suggesting that there are very substantial numbers of Americans who are less than breaded by big business, and who favor the democratic influence of the organized vote, this is indeed a very serious state of affairs. If our democracy means anything, it is the working people and the laboring classes who represent the great majority and who should strive to prevent the influence of big business. On the other hand, the system of government by a few rich businessmen is a complete negation of democracy.
