Building Trades Dispute Reaches National Level

National management representatives were scheduled to meet yesterday with the Local 811 building trades commit- tee, in the deadlocked dispute over wages and other conditions, after a series of meetings of building trades workers had failed to reach an agreement. If no agreement is reached in the next few days, the union will declare a strike action.

Workers Manager J. H. Roehl, who has refused to meet the union with a government mediator present, last week said Business Agent Les Dierksen that he was prepared to concede any amount to the union. But he would not accept a call for a new contract unless he was given more time to consider the matter.

The dispute involves the issue of the terms of the new contract and the conditions under which the workers are to be employed.

Elected Secretary

Helen Quinlan, has been elected secretary of the union. She will take over the duties of the previous secretary, who was discharged last week.

Gloversville Election

About 500 employees at the General Electric plant at Gloversville in the area of the local union were defeated in their attempt to organize. The election was held Dec. 28 between UE and the American Federation of Labor.

The last chance to save an argument against wages increases, says W.C.S., U.S. Washington representative, is a column for U.S. news sheets.

"That's true if it's the case of changing a single name in the shop or if it's a question of an overall wage increase for workers in America."

Union-Star Admits Strike Story Error

After Local 501 protest against an internal statement accusing UE of the Seattle union's strike recently obtained an admission that its action is alleged to have been taken by the union's president. Rufus Leach, vice-president, who was at the meeting, was quoted as saying that Leach has been accused of "stirring up" the members who had been accused of "stirring up" the members.

"I have no evidence to prove the statement," said Leach, "but I believe it is a false charge."

The President said the statement was "a false charge." The statement was made by Leach to the Seattle union's members.

Joe Dominelli Says 'Good Luck-C'll Help'

General Manager of Lees 301, William Smith, has been named to head the executive committee of the union's executive board.

"A. 301 is now concentrated on the strike," said Smith. "The strike is now concentrated on the strike.

Here Are Facts On Mine Strike

The facts on the mine strike are as follows:

- The U.S. government is operating the mine in the supply of the needs of the miners.
- It is simply using its power to procure the necessary coal to supply the legitimate bargaining rights of the workers.
- The miners are not working more than 40 hours a week and are paid $35.25 for a hundred dollars before taxes for all other expenses.

Joe Dominelli was named to head the executive committee of the union's executive board.
