L. M. Generator Management Condemns U. S. Post Office Inefficiency!

Last week in Motor Generator Division, many workers could be heard to ask the question, "Why are they asking themselves, "Can't we do it better than the Federal Government in America?" It has been reported that this question is being asked by many workers in the U. S. Post Office.

The problem is not to find faults or to blame the Government, but to find ways to improve the service. The "Mailman" dated 14-11-34, over the name of A. L. Burrus, Five hundred questions were listed, questions including positive statements of opinion.

"Such money-laying examples as the Post Office and TVA are given in attempt to influence your position on the "Federal Government in more business or bad!")

In Mr. Burrus' report, he asks the question, "If the Federal Government cannot provide service in a timely manner, why should the Union workers not try to improve the service?"

Mr. Burrus' report is a call for action. He asks the question, "We are not asking for a raise, we are asking for a better service."

The workers are demanding more efficient service, not more pay. They are demanding better working conditions, not more pay. They are demanding better management, not more pay.

Finally, the workers don't have a voice. Mr. Burrus' report is a call for action. He asks the question, "We are not asking for a raise, we are asking for a better service."

Employees Removed From Payroll

Because of failure on the part of the Co. to notify employees of their removal, as well as to give proper notice of the removal of the employees, numerous employees have been listed part of the Unemployment Program.

An employee received his payroll checks because of "work of sufficient nature" for benefit. These employees are called on to report for work. If they are unable to report, they are considered ineligible for benefits. However, the Union can do nothing to help these employees. The only way to help these employees is to report for work. If they are unable to report, they are considered ineligible for benefits.
