Negotiations...

With this economic setup the U.E. will face the General Electric Company and many other large employers to demand an increase in wages for our members. The members should be aware of the opposition that will be against the demand. While G.E. has always been reluctant to grant a raise, they will admit the press, radio, and Government agencies to help them in their refusal to grant a substantial raise. The Union-busting groups like the IUE-CIO will do what they can to oppose us in the hope that negative results will help their program of leading and organizing. Selecting the aid of Government agencies, we can expect the Un-American Activities Committee or another such Committee to be brought in to play. Under the guise of patriotism the job of those government agencies will be to destroy the unity of our Union so that we will be weakened in our wage negotiations.

What To Do...

With the outlook of a hard fight before us, we can win if we unite and fight.

We can secure ourselves of a few simple facts:

The Company can afford a wage increase.

The members, particularly those who work the night shift, need a wage increase with the cost of living rising every day.

There are higher taxes to store for us during 1951.

We are putting more effort in our jobs every day through speed-up and change of methods and all G.E. workers should compensate for this effort.

We are pledged to stand and defend our country and we expect it will require some sacrifice, but we think the sacrifice should be shared equally by industry as well as labor.

U.E.R.W. of A. — LOCAL 301 — EXECUTIVE BOARD

We, the undersigned, pledge to support the U.E.R.W. of A. wage increase demands on March 15, 1951.

Workmen's Compensation Legislation

Two bills introduced in the New York State Legislature are designed to provide benefits for employees of the Turbine Division of the General Electric Company. Both bills would apply only to employees of the Turbine Division. The bills were introduced in response to the demand of the employees for some form of compensation in case of injury or death.

The first bill, introduced by Senator Loeb, Newman, and others, provides for a system of workmen's compensation which would cover all employees of the Turbine Division. The bill would provide for the payment of benefits to employees who are injured or disabled on the job, as well as to the dependents of employees who are killed in the line of duty.

The second bill, introduced by Senator Newman, provides for a more limited system of workmen's compensation which would cover only employees who are injured or disabled as a result of their employment. The bill would provide for the payment of benefits only to employees who are injured or disabled on the job.

Both bills have been referred to the Committee on Labor of the Senate, and hearings have been scheduled for a consideration of the bills.
