Dewey’s Plan Robs Servicemen

The Servicemen’s Ballot Bill passed by the New York State Legislature and widely rejected by Gov. Dewey as being the best in the country is depriving the servicemen from this state of their right to vote. The June 21st issue of PM reveals that the percentage of servicemen from the Empire State who have received applications for ballots so far is only 35. New Jersey and Pennsylvania using a plan passed on the Federal Ballot procedure are well above the 80% mark.

New Jersey’s military vote bill was passed at about the same time as the New York bill, but it now seems that the percentages of servicemen from the two states will be quite different. The New York bill was passed in June 1944, while New Jersey’s was passed in July 1944. New York has a much larger population than New Jersey, and the servicemen in New York are more likely to be concentrated in urban areas where they are more likely to receive ballots.

Last March Dewey told the Legislature that his plan was simple and practical, but time has shown that it is not the best plan for New York. Despite the efforts of Democratic leaders, partisan and progressive groups, Dewey has shown no sign of wanting to work on the present law to make it workable for the benefit of servicemen and women. It is now evident that he is using this ballot law to keep the servicemen from voting as he believes the law will enable him to win against his opponents in his re-election campaign.

The New York bill makes it possible for servicemen to vote in this state by mail, but it is not as simple or practical as Dewey claims. The bill requires servicemen to fill out an application for a ballot and submit it to the state, which is then forwarded to the county where they are registered.

Sailor Praises Local 301 Record in Letter

The following letter was recently received by the Local 301 newspaper, the Union News, from a sailor stationed in the Pacific.

JUNE 23, 1944

Dear Local 301:

I am writing to express my appreciation for the excellent service rendered by the members of Local 301. Your union has been a source of comfort and support to me during my time in the service.

Your efforts in helping to secure better wages and working conditions for us sailors have not gone unnoticed. I am sure that many others feel the same way as I do, and I hope that the union will continue to work towards our best interests.

Thank you for all you have done for us.

Sincerely,

(signed)

FDR Needed For Unity-Leadership

As we approach the November elections, the need for unity and leadership becomes even more critical. The President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, has shown throughout the war his ability to lead and unite the nation.

Because of the war, the need for unity is greater than ever. Our millions of men and women are working together to win the war, and we must continue to work together to build a better country afterward.

The President has been praised for his leadership during the war, and it is clear that he will continue to lead the nation post-war. His vision of a better world for all is one that we can all support.

FDR's Record

Throughout his presidency, FDR has worked tirelessly to improve the lives of all Americans. He has implemented policies to help the poor, create jobs, and improve the economy. His efforts have led to a more prosperous and just society.

Conclusion

In conclusion, FDR is the right choice for leadership in these trying times. His record speaks for itself, and his vision for the future is one that we can all support. Let us work together to re-elect FDR and continue his legacy of unity and progress.

D Day In Schenectady

Once a main Shipyard Center, W.F. is now a busy industrial city. The New York Times reports that the shipyard has been quiet for a long time. The only sound is the occasional crack of a gun in the distance.

Today, Schenectady is a bustling center of industrial activity. The shipyard is now a factory, producing airplanes and other necessary equipment for the war effort.

The city is filled with workers and soldiers, all working towards the same goal. The atmosphere is one of determination and sacrifice.

Despite the war, the city remains a strong and vibrant community. The residents are proud of their city and its history, and they are determined to see it through to the end.

In conclusion, Schenectady is a city that has come full circle. From a bustling shipyard to a busy industrial center, it has demonstrated its resilience and determination in the face of adversity.

Are You A Good Representative?

To be a good representative, you must be able to listen to the needs of your constituents and work towards finding solutions. You must also be able to communicate effectively and represent your community in the best possible way.

TROY SPIES

We have all seen the posters and advertisements encouraging us to vote. But have you ever stopped to think about what it means to be a representative in your community?

I believe that being a good representative means being accessible to your constituents. It means being willing to listen and work towards finding solutions to the problems they face.

In conclusion, being a good representative means being committed to serving your community and working towards a better future for all.
