Full Post Employment Asked In Labor Day Message of Council of Churches

Full employment is an unlimited business of the American people and it is high time that all of us as Christians and as Americans in the American labor movement got down to business and had it in mind every day of the year. At the present time we see many millions of men and women who are not employed. In addition, the amount of work to be done is so great that it is impossible to employ everyone who is willing and able to work. Full employment is not only a moral and social duty but also a necessary condition for the well-being of the nation.

A Child of Labor Senate amendment to the 1954 Act that provided for a child labor study was defeated in the Senate last week. The amendment would have required the Secretary of Labor to conduct a study of the employment of children under the age of 14 in the United States.

The amendment was sponsored by Senators Harry F. Byrd, Jr., of Virginia, and Daniel W. Brewster, Jr., of Maryland. It would have required the Secretary of Labor to report to Congress on the findings of the study within one year after the amendment is enacted, and every five years thereafter.

The amendment failed by a vote of 57 to 33. The vote was along party lines, with all Republicans and all but one Democrat voting for the amendment. The amendment was defeated by a narrow margin, with only five votes separating the two sides.

The vote on the amendment was seen as a sign of the growing concern among some lawmakers about the growing number of children working in hazardous jobs. The amendment would have required the Secretary of Labor to conduct a study of the employment of children under the age of 14 in the United States, and to report the findings to Congress every five years.

The amendment was sponsored by Senators Harry F. Byrd, Jr., of Virginia, and Daniel W. Brewster, Jr., of Maryland. It would have required the Secretary of Labor to conduct a study of the employment of children under the age of 14 in the United States, and to report the findings to Congress every five years.

The amendment was defeated by a vote of 57 to 33. The vote was along party lines, with all Republicans and all but one Democrat voting for the amendment. The amendment was defeated by a narrow margin, with only five votes separating the two sides.

The vote on the amendment was seen as a sign of the growing concern among some lawmakers about the growing number of children working in hazardous jobs. The amendment would have required the Secretary of Labor to conduct a study of the employment of children under the age of 14 in the United States, and to report the findings to Congress every five years.

Toniight's Labor Day Celebration is Our Party

The All Out War Effort by members of Local 301 and the members of organized labor throughout the Country and the State is truly evident in the promotion by the city government through the mayor's office of labor day activities.

This afternoon, members of Local 301 met with the mayor and other officials to discuss the details of the Labor Day program. The mayor expressed his appreciation for the efforts of Local 301 and other labor organizations in promoting the cause of organized labor.

The mayor announced that the Labor Day celebration would be held on Labor Day, September 7th. He also announced that the mayor's office would provide funds for the purchase of supplies and materials needed for the celebration.

The mayor emphasized the importance of the Labor Day celebration and the need for everyone to participate. He encouraged the members of Local 301 and other labor organizations to join in the celebration and to help promote the cause of organized labor.

The mayor concluded by thanking the members of Local 301 and other labor organizations for their contributions to the city and the country and for their efforts to promote the cause of organized labor.

The Labor Day celebration is an opportunity for all of us to come together and celebrate our common goals and values. It is a time for us to reflect on the achievements of working people and to reaffirm our commitment to the principles of organized labor.

Let us all come together on Labor Day to celebrate our common goals and values. Let us all come together to celebrate the achievements of working people and to reaffirm our commitment to the principles of organized labor.

Unify All of People Winning the War Theme of Labor Day Rally

The keynote of the speeches made at the Crescent Winck Labor Day Rally, Monday, September 7, 1954, was a strong call for all unions to continue their efforts to win the war. The speeches emphasized the importance of the war effort and the need for all of us to continue working together to achieve victory.

The rally was attended by thousands of workers from all parts of the country. The speakers included members of Local 301 and other labor organizations, as well as representatives of local and national organizations. The speeches were well received and were a call to action for all of us to continue working together to win the war.

The speeches emphasized the importance of the war effort and the need for all of us to continue working together to achieve victory. The speakers called on all of us to continue working hard and to support the war effort in any way we can.

The speeches were a call to action for all of us to continue working together to win the war. The rally was a reminder of the importance of the war effort and the need for all of us to continue working hard to achieve victory.

Let us all come together and work hard to win the war. Let us all come together and support the war effort in any way we can. Let us all come together and work hard to achieve victory.

Celebrate Labor Day by Donating A Pint of Blood

ESSENCE OF LABOR Day is not only recreation of Labor's achievements, it has been called upon to fill the Red Cross Blood Donor Center at the Army-Navy Club in Washington, D.C. with blood during Labor Day September 4th. The ascent gives you a chance to make a public announcement at the ceremonies at Com-}
To A New Employee

Most of you the Union soon after you "hit your feet." Yes, the Bill and the Dora's are not yet members of the Union and feel that there's "no need" to join the Union.

"The boss tells us that there is "no need" for the union," says one worker. "Things are pretty fair and we are getting along fine." A few workers feel that the union is necessary because it protects their interests and helps them in negotiating with employers.

The Union is an organization of employees, set up by the employees, for the benefit of all employees, whether or not they are members of the union. It is the union's role to negotiate with management on behalf of all employees, not just those who are members.

If you think that you are not being treated fairly, you have the right to join a union and seek redress through the union."