Bills in Congress Threaten Back Pay

Two bills now in Congress would make it impossible for UE to collect back pay for long-term US employees who were illegally laid off or denied under the company's policy of super-society for all employees.

Three bills would do this:

1. The Supreme Court decided that under the Constitution's fairness to a worker by a person's sincerity is limited to his employment back pay to those in military service who were not eligible for payment because of their service, and his military service, and the military service of his non-union employees.

2. The three firms used their superiority policy to violate union contracts, but were quick to give in at the end of their so-called "coercion." After the Supreme Court decision was handed down, the manufacturers' lobby called on the Senate to pass a competing bill to the Senate's bill was passed in the House but was not submitted to the Senate's floor.

3. It's impossible to estimate how many claims for back pay will be considered. It's possible that many claimants may have their cases dismissed because they filed their claims too late.

Action Needed Now

To Save Wage Bill

The 81 most minimum wage bills is not the question whether the House of Representatives or the Senate will pass a bill to extend the minimum wage. The Senate, however, has passed a bill to raise the minimum wage to $1.00 per hour. The House Committee on Education and Labor has also passed a bill to raise the minimum wage to $1.00 per hour. The Senate bill was passed by a narrow margin, 51 to 49. The bill now goes to the Senate floor for consideration.

CIO Sends Organizer to Beechnut Plant After Unorganized Workers Lose Strike

The United States Steel and Coal Company recently announced that CIO organizers have been sent to the Beechnut Plant in Cleveland to negotiate with the workers. The company said that the workers had not been unionized at the Beechnut Plant for many years. The negotiations are expected to take place in the next few weeks.

What is PAC?

PAC is an acronym for "Political Action Committee." It is a group that raises money to support political candidates and parties. PACs are regulated by Federal law and must register with the Federal Election Commission. They can only contribute to political candidates and parties and cannot coordinate with a political candidate or party in the conduct of campaign activities.
