Friendly Town – First Stop

HIDS TAKE OVER. The Local 800 hall became the property of the union's new workers last week as children from New York gathered there to meet with the first families for whom they had been employed under the new contract. The families were the first to return from their vacation, and the children were overjoyed to see their old friends again.

HOME SICKNESS GONE. And don't think that the faces were the same while the children's ages and situations (lower right) didn't help to make the kids feel better. The children were prepared for the return of the new families. The children were overjoyed to see their old friends again.

Help at Mica! Mica finishing the job and giving their workers a new contract on July 25th. The workers are grateful for the new contract and are ready to work hard for their new employers.

Mica Drive Gathers Steam As Aug. 14 Election Nears

UAW's drive to organize Mica Insulator Co. employees began two months ago with a representation election at the Mica plant. The election was held in early August, and the workers voted in favor of the UAW. The union will now embark on a campaign to organize the workers at the Mica plant.

Union Demands Boosts For Inspectors in C&O

Local 318 representatives met with C&O management on May 25th to demand an immediate increase in compensation and union representation for inspectors. The meeting was held in the C&O offices in the evenings. The workers want to see a change in the way the company handles their inspections.

C&O Reaches New High As Food Prices Mount

Eating costs are rising as food prices continue to increase. The cost of living is increasing and the workers are feeling the pressure. The union is demanding a raise to offset the rising costs of living.

Board Meets Monday

Local 318 representatives will meet Monday morning to discuss the current bargaining situation and to prepare for the next round of negotiations. The union is hoping to reach a settlement that will be fair to both sides.
McCarran Bill Would Scuttle Safeguard of Bill of Rights

Sen. Pat McCarran, the Nevada Democrat who specializes in Bill of Rights matters, got off to his worst start last week in his attempt to kill one of the most popular provisions of the Constitution - the Bill of Rights.

The McCarran bill, if passed, would end even more than the McCarran-Kerr control on immigration. It also reached a point of overwhelming support in the U.S. and the McCarran-Kerr compromise is almost certain to be adopted by Congress. The compromise is particularly important because it will make impossible for a man to be removed to refuse to be removed. It will also prevent the United States from interfering in any way with the equally important agreement on the formation of a continental organization.

New NLRB Ruling

A new NLRB Ruling ordered the National Labor Relations Board to hold an election for a representative of the employees of the United States Steel Corporation in Gary, Indiana, to determine whether the employees want to be represented by the United Steelworkers. The Board's decision is particularly important because it will prevent the United States from interfering in any way with the equally important agreement on the formation of a continental organization.

Westinghouse Workers Beat Philadelphia Sellout Attempt

Westinghouse workers in the big Easting plant near Philadelphia last night thwarted the efforts of a small clique to turn the union over to RUE-CTO. Francis Bradley, who had led the earlier efforts, was forced to resign as business agent of Local 57.

More than 3,000 workers opposed the selling out of the union to RUE-CTO. This was a clear indication that the workers were not going to be2

Injury Awards Make Dream Come True

On August 17, Christopher D. Pringle was awarded a 2-year scholarship at the University of Colorado. The scholarship was presented to Pringle by the University of Colorado, which has a long tradition of providing scholarships to students from the state. Pringle, who has been a member of the University of Colorado since 1984, was chosen for the scholarship because of his academic excellence and his community service.

Pringle expressed his gratitude for the scholarship and his dreams for the future. He said, "I am very grateful for this scholarship and I will use it to further my education and to contribute to my community. I hope to become a teacher and to help others achieve their dreams."
