Comparison of UE Working Conditions with Steel and Auto---from the Record

Wages and Hours

Government figures quoted by the Steel Fact-Finding Board show that steel wages have increased from $27 to $35 per week, which is 33 percent above the 1966 steel data. The increase includes a 15 percent increase in the basic wage rate, which is now $24.50 per week. The new rate is effective immediately and applies to all steel workers in the United States.

UAW-CIO at Ford: The UAW-CIO has agreed to accept the new rate for steel workers. The agreement includes a 15 percent increase in the basic wage rate, which is now $24.50 per week. The new rate is effective immediately and applies to all steel workers in the United States.

Ford: The Ford Motor Company has agreed to accept the new rate for steel workers. The agreement includes a 15 percent increase in the basic wage rate, which is now $24.50 per week. The new rate is effective immediately and applies to all steel workers in the United States.

Seniority

The UAW-CIO, which represents the steelworkers, has designated an end of the strike. Employees who have completed their 10-year service period will have full seniority. Employees who have completed their 5-year service period will have partial seniority. Employees who have completed less than 5 years of service will have no seniority.

Negotiations and Strikes

The UAW-CIO has negotiated a new contract with the automakers. The contract includes a 15 percent increase in the basic wage rate, which is now $24.50 per week. The new rate is effective immediately and applies to all steel workers in the United States.

Catholic GE Workers Speak Out for UE

An Open Letter to GE Workers of All Faiths

(Date of letter is not specified)

The undersigned group of GE members who are practicing Catholics are joining in this appeal to all GE workers to resist any effort along religious lines.

Both we Catholics as workers we deplore the fact that the Bishop of our Church has seen fit to take a hand in the current contest between our union and the UE company union.

We must express that there will be considerable such activity here just before our own UE/GE election. We consider such activity as a denial of the right of workers to make a free choice of their bargaining agent without interference from any source. As Catholics, we also feel that such activity by our clergy contains a grave danger to religious freedom and tolerance upon which genuine unity of Americans must be based.

Because of such past activity, some of us wrote Bishop Gibbons very respectfully on February 21, requesting an audience with him. We never received a reply. After the Bishop's message to Catholic workers at Remington-Rand to vote against UE, ten of us went to Albany in an effort to see the Bishop. We saw the Rev. Fr. Raymond Romsey, Chancellor of the Diocese, who spoke in general terms about Communists in the UE, without offering any facts. We showed him how UE is controlled completely by the membership, more so than any other union.

Father Romsey promised another meeting, but he has since indicated that there will be none, and that the Bishop has reaffirmed his decision to urge Catholics to oppose our union.

In view of this development, we now quote here from the letter to the Bishop which our committee left with Father Romsey. We said:

In our plant and in our union we draw no racial or religious lines. We deplore anything that divides us from our sister and brother workers of different beliefs. Any such division is harmful to our interests as workers. We respectfully express the belief that it is harmful to our church. Non-Catholic workers mean the inclusion of religious into union, and as such they are right.

"We know that in the activities of the church, the religious faith is being done to a union with a free record of service to the people here and to the whole country. We know our union and its officers. They are seeking to influence our membership to the American people. They seek to influence our membership to the people whose main interest is in money. But we deeply regret that priests of our church should be taken in by these standards."

We remain faithful Catholics. We accept the guidance of our Bishop and our priests in religious matters. But the Bishop's desire to make our decision as workers in picking our union. We respectfully declare that we do not believe religious prejudice can apply to us for the way we vote.

The UE-IOU and the national IOU are directly responsible for injecting religious issues into this situation. We urge our fellow workers, regardless of religious beliefs, to vote UE in their own interest, that they may preserve a strong, free union controlled by democrats. In voting UE, we shall also be voting for the principles of religious freedom and tolerance which are dear to Americans.

GE Vets Speak Out
On the NLRB Election

We, the undersigned veterans of World War II, left our jobs to fight for our country and its democratic way of life.

While we were gone, we depended on our fellow-veterans in the U.S. Navy to protect the ship we left and to protect and defend the jobs we left.

UE made good both ways. UE was one of the few unions who lived up to its own creed. UE steadfastly maintained and improved the wages and working conditions in the ships. There is not and never has been a UE and its leadership any trace of subservience to the American people.

In our absence, the big corporations made vast profits, and gave us empty promises for our futures. When we came back we found that it was our union, the UE which are needed to protect us in our job fights. The enemy has protected its job since we came back for a chance at us to return. It has fought to make the wages and improve the working conditions of the jobs we came back to.

America to us is not the General Electric Company or the others who save the flag for their selfish purpose.

Americanism is the aim and aspiration of all the people for a free and healthy country with a rising standard of living and ever more democracy.

UE represents the true expression of the democracy for which we fought, for which many of our friends gave their lives. It fights for the interests of workers and veterans, and thus for all the people.

We are proud to be united today for the preservation of a strong, democratic, American union like UE. We urge our fellow workers in GE to vote UE Local 301 on May 25.
