Members OK Schaffer, Pita And Sheehan as 301 Aides

US Local 360's membership Monday approved the appointment of Roy Schaffer, Fred Sheehan and Beruda Pita as assistant business agents. The new men will be in the field to gain experience, to sharpen their skills and to develop a feeling for the service they are called upon to render.

Push Women's Meeting Plans

With Schaffer's membership approval, the newly appointed business agents plan to work on their new positions. They expect to be in the field within a few weeks. Schaffer's background includes experience in shipbuilding and the railroad industry.

Stewards' School Ends

1953 Sessions Tuesday

US Local 360's 1953 school for its second year ended this week. The program consisted of a three-day session for stewards and three additional sessions for officers. The school was well attended and included sessions on labor law, union organization and other topics.

Dooley Understood L. Boulware

Tuesday was St. Patrick's Day, a day for the Irish and the Irish-centric community. A parade was held in the town, and the US Local 360 members participated.

Members Nix GE Proposal—Demand Real Offer on Wages, Holidays and Inequities

Agreed by GE management to offer a reasonable wage increase to meet any union demands on inequities, US Local 360 members voted overwhelmingly to turn down the company's proposal in a meeting held throughout the Schenectady works on Wednesday.

Three meetings were held by the company's handels members after the meeting to discuss the situation. GE management agreed to meet with the union's representative to discuss the inequities. The union then agreed to resume talks with GE management.

Most UEC Pence Assess Saturday Holiday Pay

The GE Local 360's representative at the meeting said that the company was not willing to meet the union's demands on inequities.

The union then agreed to resume talks with GE management.

Electrical Union News

The Voice of the United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers of America

Schenectady, N.Y.

Oct. 21—In response to complaints of unfair wages and working conditions, the union's representative at the meeting said that the company was not willing to meet the union's demands on inequities.

The union then agreed to resume talks with GE management.

Contract Conclus

US Local 360's executive board is reported as reaching an agreement to end the strike. The union's representative at the meeting said that the company was not willing to meet the union's demands on inequities.

The union then agreed to resume talks with GE management.
Bus Strike Leader Faces Deportation

A clear definition of the term "bus strike leader" and the reasons for deportation are provided. The text discusses the legal and historical context of the deportation of bus strike leaders.

U.S. Aide Hits McCarran Measure as "Shame and Fraud"

An article discussing the opposition to the McCarran Immigration Act of 1952. The author criticizes the measure as "shame and fraud" and argues against its implementation.

Winns Silicosis Pay

A news article about the Silicosis Pay scandal in the construction industry. The article highlights the struggle for fair compensation for workers affected by silicosis.

Exposition of Municipal and Corporate Corruption

A detailed exposition of municipal and corporate corruption, including examples from various cities and industries. The author calls for transparency and accountability in governance.

Could Be! "

An article discussing the possibility of a "Could Be!" scenario in politics. The author explores the implications and potential outcomes of such an event.

Classroom Unionization

A discussion on the potential for classroom unionization and its implications for education and labor relations.

Workers on the Overhead Rail in the U.S.

A report on the working conditions of workers on the overhead rail in the U.S., highlighting the challenges and hazards they face.

Show Roosevelt Film

An article about the screening of a Roosevelt film in Roosevelt. The film is described as a significant event in the history of Roosevelt.

Gangland's Coup

An article about the coup in the gangland. The author discusses the motivations and consequences of the coup.

Let's Do It! The Job

An article about the importance of doing the job. The author emphasizes the significance of each individual's role in their respective fields.

Could Be!

A discussion on the possibility of a "Could Be!" scenario in politics. The author explores the implications and potential outcomes of such an event.

The Right to Strike

An article discussing the right to strike and its implications for labor relations. The author argues for the necessity of this right in ensuring worker rights.

Could Be!

A discussion on the possibility of a "Could Be!" scenario in politics. The author explores the implications and potential outcomes of such an event.

No, not this time...

A commentary on the results of an election or a decision, highlighting the unexpected outcomes.

Interview: Stanley McChrystal

An interview with Stanley McChrystal, discussing his experiences and insights on leadership and strategy.

U.S. Made Some Albany Legislative Gains, But Corporations Ballked Big Victories

An article about the legislative gains made by the U.S. in Albany, despite the resistance from corporations.

Pick Some Women's Meeting Delegate's

An article discussing the selection of women's meeting delegates. The author critiques the process and calls for greater representation.

Frame Union Head

A news article about the ouster of a union head. The article explores the reasons behind the ouster and its implications for the union.

Women's Group Set Up

An article about the establishment of a women's group. The article discusses the motivations and objectives of the group.

Steel Profits High

A commentary on the high profits in the steel industry. The author questions the sustainability of such high profits and their impact on society.

Racism in the Workplace

An article discussing the prevalence of racism in the workplace. The author highlights the need for greater awareness and action against racism.

To Be a Worker

A discussion on the role of the worker and the importance of labor. The author emphasizes the contributions of workers to society.