'Un-American' Group Opens Fire on UE

The Thomas Committee on Un-American Activities was scheduled to start hearing testimony against the UE yesterday as part of its attack on the American labor movement.

UE President A. J. Finkenrath has charged that the committee "is a weapon used to blacken the name of big business interests who want to weaken or destroy any organization that fights capitalism and the growing of living standards."

With great emphasis from the big business press, the committee made big headlines with the announcement that it had voted for the Taft-Hartley bill, which Michael Sabinoff, Republican senator from Massachusetts, and James Cawdrey, New York City, and former UE member, S. M. Munds of Arizona, would be its witnesses.

Widely Discredited

Voting, who has been thoroughly discredited in the eyes of the Committee on Un-American Activities, together with the two leaders of UE, Munds and Sabinoff, have repeatedly expunged without a hearing 24 union members who opposed them. Their support for provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act,玖 approved by the Senate on June 30 and signed by President Roosevelt on July 5, has been widely quoted.

Only recently was the "Un-American Activities Committee" questioned and questioned in Washington before the UE left its offices in support of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The two leaders of the UE, Munds and Sabinoff, have repeatedly expunged 24 union members who opposed them. Their support for provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, adopted by the Senate on June 30 and signed by President Roosevelt on July 5, has been widely quoted.
