Wallace Warns Wage Boost Needed to Stop Collapse

WASHINGTON (P) — Unless a "substantial increase" in wages now is granted, Sen. Conant Henry A. Wallance said Nov. 8, the increase of wages alone will continue to pull down the value of goods that previously might be sold.

Wallace spoke before the installment meeting of the national union members of the AFL at the Hotel Adelphi. He called the national movement "increasing" and "expanding" at a rate unprecedented in the labor movement of America.

"The American people are demanding that we do not allow the strike of 1937 to be followed by another," he declared. "We must not make the same mistake again."

Unorganized GE Office Workers Miss UE Gains

Unorganized workers at the General Electric Co. plant in Schenectady, New York, have missed out on some of the benefits that organized workers have enjoyed. The United Electrical Workers (UE) union has been organizing the plant since 1935, and has won several significant victories, including a 25% increase in wages and the right to collective bargaining. The unorganized workers, on the other hand, have had to fend for themselves, and have not received the same level of protection.
