Feminine Charm on the Picket Line

LINE CAPTAINS WIN PRAISE

A line captain's long, hard work for many years was gone in this week's West End Strike. Many of the picketers, as a result of this, have written letters to the editor expressing appreciation for their efforts. The line captains are praised for their dedication and hard work.

Union Vets Back Bonus and Housing

THESE VETS, according to all and sundry, received a most favorable report at the meeting of the Union Vets. The pickets were enthusiastic about the bonus and housing plan. The meeting was a success, and many more are expected at the next meeting.

PITTSBURGH VISITORS

SCHENECTADY RAILROAD MEN, as a result of their visit to Pittsburgh, have returned home with plans for an improved strategy. They were impressed by the efficiency and organization of the picket line in Pittsburgh. They plan to incorporate these lessons into their own picketing efforts.

FIVE STAR WABASSAGEN, one of the pickets, has been hit by a train. He was taken to the hospital and is doing well. The pickets are concerned for his safety and pray for his quick recovery.

Rotterdam Board Tells GE Offer At Least 18 1/2 Cents

The Rotterdam Board told Friday night that the offer of the American Electric Power Company for the Dutch electric company was too low. The board met in executive session late Friday afternoon and then held an open meeting for approximately two hours. The meeting was attended by a number of Dutch officials and members of the Dutch government.

Resolution

The Rotterdam Board of Directors Friday night decided to seek a higher offer for the Dutch company. They sent a letter to the American Electric Power Company and said they would not accept the offer of 18 1/2 cents per share.

Strikehke Workers Are On the Job

Rudy Deursen, the general secretary of the Rotterdam Board, said the workers were on strike to protest against the offer. The workers have been members of the Rotterdam Board for the past six years and have never been members of any other company.

State-Wide Support For 301's Strikers Helps Strike Fund

One of the most interesting aspects of the strike is the communication by employers of all kinds in the area. The employers say they are wholeheartedly behind the workers and are ready to support the strikers in any way they can. They have set up a strike fund which will be used to help the strikers and their families.

Political Action

The Dutch government has announced that it will not interfere in the strike and has asked the employers to work with the strikers to solve the problem. The Dutch government has also asked the workers to return to their jobs as soon as possible.

George Oldtimers Know They Need A Union

The George Oldtimers, a group of retired workers, have been active in the strike and are now calling for a union. They say they need a union to protect their rights and to ensure that the company treats them fairly.
