GE Can Afford to Pay Wage Increase Demanded by Union

At the present time there is considerable talk going around in regards to the Union's demand for a $200 increase as being unreasonable. The papers are citing daily the strikes that are taking place throughout the country, with the intention to create ill feeling among the people against the union, for making, as they term it, "unreasonable demands." In most of the instances where labor troubles are occurring, we find after making an accurate check with those workers involved in labor disputes, that the Company has deliberately provoked strikes by not respecting the questions of an increase in the wage.

The present situation is that in the present strike, the Company is trying to make the workers believe that the increase of $200 is an unreasonable demand. The Company has deliberately provoked the strike by not respecting the questions of an increase in the wage. The workers are not asking for more than what they are entitled to, and it is the responsibility of the Company to respect their demands.
