WE, THE class of '42, being of sound mind and body, do hereby bequeath our most cherished possessions to our fellow Milnites.

1. To Jean Chauncey we leave Bob Weiss’ ability to charm the teachers. Did we say “charm”? We meant “knock ‘em dead.”

2. To those interested we leave our several mimeographed copies of Marion Horton’s recent leaflet, How to “Get Your Man, But Quick!”

3. To Peter Hunting, we leave Joe’s charm and dimples which have been tested and approved by most of Milne’s feminine half. Not that we think Pete needs them, of course.

4. And just for the sake of variety, we leave Lois Katuský’s walk to the Conga line at the club. Long may it wave, Lo.

5. To Melba and Nat, our new co-editors, we leave “Chiefie” Kohn’s know-it-all air, because, believe us, kids, he doesn’t get that air from nothin’.

6. Now that Butch Wilson is graduating, we restore Janet Taylor to the Junior boys, God bless ‘em.

7. To the cafeteria we leave all the rest of those pupils who bring their lunches from home.

8. To Ruth La Vine, we gladly leave Clarkie’s car. We believe in always lending a helping hand.

9. To Dorothy Hoopes, we leave Joyce’s executive ability; and of course, everyone “hoopes” she will carry on the family tradition.

10. We leave the doughnuts and chicken salad sandwiches of the popular ‘Mayflower’ to the Juniors.

11. Also, we leave scores of two cent pieces to the Annex sandwich eaters, Heaven help ‘em.

12. We leave to the Juniors the as yet incomplete Senior room. We’re only sorry we didn’t have a year earlier.

13. To next year’s card party, (may it be as sensational as ours), we leave the Bridge Club’s worn and weed-scarred card table.

14. To Dr. Frederick and Mr. Bulger we leave a candy-eater-outside-of-the-annex-catcher.

15. To Secretary of Agriculture, Claude Wickard, we leave Kirk Leaning’s “formula” of success.

16. We leave Marcia Bissikummer’s booming bass voice to George Edick. This, we know, will be no end of improvement.

17. We feel that the fountain of the first floor has been done right by at last, and we lovingly hand it down to Milne’s future generations.

18. We leave to Ted de Moss, Fred Detweiers’s perfected genius for mathematics. Then there “won’t be any o’ de Moss” growin’ under his feet.

19. We leave Marcia Schifferdecker’s demureness to Meg Hunting. On second thought, we won’t; Schiff needs all she has.

20. We leave John Jansing’s dramatic ability to Eleanor Yaguda. Yes, Johnny certainly has ability, but did we mean dramatic?

21. Now that Bob George has gotten six long years of good use out of his Veronica Lake hair-do, we return it to the famous Mr. Hyde.

22. A lot of athletes are levaing Milne this year, and so our school won’t miss it, we leave their combined talents to Morty Swartz.

23. We return to Marion Mulvey and Dick Lawyer the back of the auditorium late in the afternoons, soon to be evacuated by Jeanne French and George Perkins.

24. We leave to Jim, our favorite janitor, all the screws from all the desks which we have been collecting all of six years.

25. We leave to our fellow classmates a pint of gas and a cup of sugar.

26. And so we leave.

Witnesses: Blanche Packer Alice Van Gaasbeek
We gather together to sing the song
Of the Class of '42;
We'll always remember the days at Milne,
And the things we use to do;
We'll miss our friends and the carefree years,
So close to everyone's heart;
Our memories will linger all through life,
Though we drift so far apart.

When we take off on Life's journey,
From the Class of '42,
May we stay above the clouds,
And to Milne's ideals be true;
Give us courage to face our trials;
Make us brave with a will to fight,
For Democracy, Freedom, and Truth,
And the things that we know are right.
Lois Ambler is now running a school for cheerleaders. June Black is her able assistant. To keep up on all the latest cheers, the girls eagerly attend all the "ball" "games". The players shout "hal" a lu yah when they see June. Lois is very "bob" ulah too.

Ethel Baldwin is at the head of a dancing academy. Mickey says that dancing helps everyone forget his troubles. Her motto is "Banish Burdens at Baldwin's." Mickey always did like to "tr(ed)" the light fantastic as Milnites will recall.

Marcia Bissikummer, now known as Madame de Bissie, gives lessons on doughnut dunking; her seventh lesson is now ready. Says Madame de B. "When 'duncan' a doughnut I just 'crook' my little finger, and then it works out just right."

Miriam Boice, rising young authoress, has just had her latest book published. The title is "Governing Giggling Girls" or "Sigma Dear Sigma." Miss Boice states that this book will surprise the world. We doubt if it will, Mimi.

Jane Davis is now teaching tap-dancing in—of all places— the F. B. I. (In plain English—G-Men.) When the "boys" are in a tough spot, they just tap out S. O. S. signals and get help quickly. The enrollment in Jane's classes is tremendous. Even the criminals want to join.

Corrinne Edwards is now running for Senator of New York State. Miss Edwards recently won fame for establishing a branch of the Red Cross at the North Pole. We wonder if the Eskimos appreciate her efforts. Corrinne is also known from coast to coast for her newspaper column, "My Way", which explains her formula for doing twenty things at once. When she is not busy, Corrinne spends her leisure time on yacht. It seems the Joe still likes to live on the water.

Allan Ely is the maestro of an all-girl band, called "Ely's Eyefulls." The girls, ten blondes and two redheads, are all French. Mr. Ely states, "The girls never have a chance to get homesick. I take care of them better than their own fathers would." Lucky girls!

Rita Figarsky is now out in Hollywood designing jewelry for the film colony's most famous stars. Miss Figarsky's most famous design was a dog collar for Asta the Fourth, great-grandson of Asta the Pooch. This creation was of white leather studded with miniature gold dog biscuits. Asta the Fourth is now the envy of all the Park Avenue Pooches.

Janet Fletcher is one of the head teachers at Baldwin's. When interviewed for the newspapers Miss Fletcher was asked what type of dancing she preferred. "Why, I like all types," she replied. Come, come, Janet, we know that "waltz" zing was your favorite back in Milne.

The two Patricias of the class, the Misses Clyne and Forward, are the proprietors of the Party Bureau. When you want to give a party, just call them up and they'll attend to everything from weather to worries. Their motto is "Parties by Pattys Are Perfect."

Jane Foster, who just recently won the Mabel Prize for Poetry, has presented a plan to the Board of Regents whereby school would be taught in rhyme. She suggests that the teacher greet her pupils with:

"28"
“Good morning to you
Now, what shall we do?
If we do all our work,
Why, then we’ll be through.”

We wonder how this will work out.

Ethelee Gould is happily married and is living in Boston. In Milne we used to think she was paid by Boston’s Chamber of Commerce the way she kept talking about that city. She is the mother of several stunning sons. When asked how many lads she had, Ethelee replied, “I’ve named each one for each of the beaux I had while in Milne. Figure it out for yourself.” We can’t, can you?

In the recent elections in Menands, Jimmy Haskins was elected mayor of that ever-expanding metropolis. Jimmy is sponsoring a bill advocating an air line between Menands and Albany, so that Milne students will surely arrive on time for school.

Marion Horton, the first bride of our class, is now the mother of three fine little boys. Marion says that, when the children cry she soothes them by quoting from Macbeth or reciting the provisions of the Compromise of 1850. “After all,” she protests, “I don’t want my education to go entirely to waste!”

Lois Katusky is also in Hollywood, as successor to that beauteous dancing super-glamour girl, Rita Hayworth. Miss Katusky is doing a remake of “My Gal Sal”, in which she dances her special version of the “Boogie”. This dance is sweeping the country, but none can do it quite the way Lois does. Milne girls will never forget those demonstrations in the locker room.

Bob Ostrander has fulfilled his ambitions by becoming Walt Disney’s partner. Bob’s specialty is making cartoon versions of famous motion pictures. His latest animated, full-length hit in technicolor is the once popular “Ecstacy.” They say he offered Hedy Lamarr a large fortune to pose for him, but she refused.

Jeanne French and George Perkins are happily married and are the proud parents of twins. When George discovered that no one of his former classmates was surprised at his marriage, George exclaimed, “I don’t see how anyone ever got the idea, Jeanne and I would marry!” We just guessed at it, George.

Margaret Hoedecker and Ellen Willbach have finally graduated from Nursing School, after ten years. But neither of the girls are the least bit discouraged about their slow progress. It seems every year a handsome group of internes would enter the hospital and the girls just flatly refused to graduate until the internes left too. Finally the internes became doctors, and now the girls spend all of their time in doctor’s offices—silly isn’t it?

Alice Van Gaasbeek, one of Albany’s most famous sculptoresses spends most of her time up to her neck in clay (literally, of course). Alice’s latest accomplishment is a statue of Dr. Frederick which she hopes will be placed in his office. Alice says she spent so much time in Dr. Frederick’s office while she was in Milne that she thought she should make some use of her observations.

Alton Wilson is now a retired millionaire and sends his time sleeping, eating, and taking it easy in general. Alton owes his fortune to his latest invention, a device that helps a basketball player to chew gum, brush his hair back, and shoot for a basket (and make it, of course) all at one time. Butch calls his invention "Wilson's Way of Winning Wisely." Alton hopes to use it next season at one of those win-by-one-point games that Milne is famous for.

Dotothy Signer has just completed another famous novel. Dot calls her latest book, "How Long Is A Rainbow?" or "Where The Heck Is That Pot of Gold!"
Miss Signer did so much research on her subject that now her favorite color is black.

John Wilson is the owner of a chain of gas stations throughout the country.
John's slogan is "If your car won't, Wilson will!!" He says he first began to appreciate those things on wheels, way back in 1942 when we had gas rationing, and everybody had to walk. Gee, that must have been terrible!

Bob Clarke is Milne's latest physical instructor. Bob is trying to persuade the faculty that he can teach girls as well as boys, but the faculty seems to have different ideas on the subject. Clarkie says, "I guess they're afraid I'll combine business with pleasure." "Well! ! ! ! ! ! !

Sally Hunt, Milne's gift to the Nursing World, received nation-wide acclaim upon the patenting of her formula for brighter eyes. Her formula calls for a great deal of happiness, but personally we think it's due to her "bobbing" around.

Barbara Rosenthal's dramatic ability has reached its highest peak. She is currently starring in her own production, "Silence Is Not Golden." Her artistic ability has brought from Broadway its thanks to Milne for its gift.

With a ready smile, sparkling eyes, and a wink for all the girls, Fred Detwiler is now touring the country leading "Detwiler's Dancing Dames." Fred says, "It all began in Milne," but what about those country girls?

Bob Kohn, The New York Herald Tribune's chief correspondent just returned from Hawaii. Bob may be quoted as saying those Hawaiian girls sure know how to sway, but personally we take those Milne girls any day.

Dr. Hartley's able assistant of a few years back, George Perkins, is now heading his own audio-visual department at the Sorbonne in Paris. We always knew he'd end up in France for he seems to have a natural flair for certain French girls.

Bill Leng, Milne's own "If I doed it I get a whipping, I doed it," boy is now well on the way to success and the star on with his singing and imitations. We always knew Bill would achieve fame, for who can forget his daily performances in English class.

Farming, a necessary occupation in today's world, has just given acclaim to Kirk Leaning, Loudonville's own product of the soil. Kirk hasn't forgotten his old Alma-Mater for he'll be back to leave his mark in establishing a course in agriculture for girls. We know he'll succeed because of his experience in "playing the field."

Looking around Methodist Hospital the other day we saw a cute little piece of white starched linen; on second glance whom should it be but Milne's own piece of vivaciousness, Gretchen Phillips. We noticed that she was particularly hopping around her patient, George.
Stanley Ball has a nice soft job. He sits back of college classrooms, and when the professors get stuck they look at Stanley. He then nods his head yes or no. In this manner the classes run very smoothly, but Stanley is very bored.

Don Foucault is working for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as a composer of popular music. Soon, however, Don will appear on the screen in “The Life of Eddy Duchin” in the title role, “tickling the ivories” even better than Duchin used to. When you play one of his recordings and close your eyes, it seems almost as though you’re back in Page Hall at one of those noon-time jam sessions. Remember?

Charlie Golding is now an important Senator in Washington. We always knew he’d get a chance to help run the government. Bernie, too, is a senator. As usual, people can’t tell the two boys apart. So, when either one gets tired while filibustering, the other gets up and continues and nobody knows the difference. Clever, isn’t it?

Walt Griggs is one of Broadway’s most successful young directors. His specialty is musical comedies. “Griggsie’s” latest hit is “Sally, Eileen, and Mary” with a certain blonde cutie in one of the title roles.

John Jansing (Milne’s own Red Skelton), who wanted to be a horticulturist and mess around with flowers and plants, is now a farmer. Here’s how it happened. Johnny went out to a farm one day to study something for one of his courses, but instead, he married the farmer’s daughter. Well, at least he’s raising one flower. He and his wife have a daughter named Rose.

Paul Kelly and Walter Austin were always very quiet in Milne, but they must have been planning what they would do when they were out of school. Paul and Walter have become two of America’s foremost inventors. Their latest brainchild is a boon to Milne students. It consists of several buzzers and wires. The purpose of this contraption is to warn the students when a supervisor is coming, so that they won’t be too shocked—we mean the students, of course.

Charles Kosbob, who always favored the Republican Party, is now at the head of its Nominating Committee. If you ask him to what he attributes his success, he always says, “I have a patent system which I’m not going to tell.”

Bob Lass, who always used to whistle, is now a bird trainer. He teaches the birds everything from Brahms to Boogie-Woogie. His latest accomplishment is teaching a pair of canaries to whistle “Minnie the Moocher” in two-part harmony.

Bobby Silverstein is the owner of “Silverstein’s Swanky Swap Shop”. The merchandise consists of all the little odds and ends of machinery that he used to cart around with him in Milne. Bobby was always so machinary-minded. Just the other day he nearly drove his wife crazy when he fixed the doorbell so that it started the washing machine when anyone rang. Maybe he’s out of practice.

Leila Sontz, whose hobby used to be writing parodies to songs, was, until recently, employed by the Western Union to write singing telegrams. Now Leila’s dream has come true; she’s married to a man with an accent like Charles Boyer’s. She’s now taking French lessons so she can understand him.

The owner of the “Steins Streamlined Sedans and Limousines Made to Order” factory is, none other than Sidney, himself. Sid says he went into the automobile manufacturing business so that he could have a different car for every day in the year. Evidently, three were not enough.
Fred Stutz is now a special investigator for the government. He won fame by uncovering a nest of Nazi spies in South America. Fred states, “I knew so much about the Nazis that it was very easy to detect them.” We Milinites remember, Fred.

Bob Rinn was always very interested in fishing. He is now known as the “Fisherman’s Friend” because of an aid to fishing that he invented. This is a miniature phonograph which is attached to the fishing line. It plays tunes like “By The Sea” and “Three Little Fishes” to lure the fish to the bait.

Gerald Plunkett, who acted in Milne’s Christmas Plays almost every year, has not let this experience go to waste. He is still acting at Christmas time: only now it is in the role of Santa Claus in a well-known store in New York. “Burpee” tried for months to convince a certain director that he would be perfect in “Charley’s Aunt”—as Charley’s aunt. The director didn’t agree, so now Burpee is smiling at chorus girls and is asking them if they want a mink coat or a diamond bracelet for Christmas.

We found out from our spies that the mysterious saxophonist in Benny Goodman’s band, who calls himself “Mr. J.” is,—of all people—Walt Fredenburgh. “Hep cats” all over will be glad to know who their idol is. What we’re wondering about is why, out of the twenty-six letters in the alphabet, he picked J. Can someone help us out?

Marcia Schifferdecker, Milne’s own Sweater Girl, recently established an exclusive New York store with the name “Schiffy’s Sweater Shop.” Schiffy, as always, specializes in pink sweaters. We hope she’s doing as well with them now as she did back in Milne.

John Poole is now president of a college here in the East. If we remember correctly, John is the boy who won a scholarship to Brown. John says every time he has to bawl a student out, he gets a guilty conscience because it reminds him of the “good old days” back in Milne.

Walt Grace is now a leader of a famous orchestra. He and his guitar have established quite a name for themselves in Hawaii as well as the States. The Hawaiian girls succumb to Walt’s charms even more readily than the girls in Milne used to. Walt says that he’s received so many leis (you know—those rings of flowers) from them, that he won’t have to buy any more corsages for his dates.

Glenna and Priscilla, the two famous Smith girls of Milne, are now well-known models in New York. When asked who was responsible for their newly-acquired stardom, the girls exclaimed, “Why no one in particular!”

Oh, by the way, though we’re sure there’s no connection, their agents are Bill Wiley and L. Cranell.

Joe Hunting, Milne’s own Errol Flynn, is now a famous movie actor, and needless to say, the fair sex are Joe’s most popular fans. Joe’s latest film is “My Way With Women” or “Why Do They Love Me Like They Do, Do?” But we’re afraid there are going to be a lot of broken hearts, for Joe plans to please just one.

Marilyn Potter has exchanged her way with a paint brush for that of a broom and has settled down to being a perfect housewife and mother. Mar says it really is a problem for when one of Mar’s offspring start to cry, she gives them a jar of paint to play with, from force of habit.
Joyce Hoopes is now a famous designer of women’s clothes and the proprietor of her own fashion shop in New York. Joyce says business is rather slow, because most of the fair sex are now in uniform, and that if this keeps up, she’ll have to start a new branch in the Army. Combining business with pleasure, Joyce?

Sanford Golden is now in a circus as head Barker just as we knew he always would be. From all appearances he’s doing very well. One of his favorite calls is “Step this way folks, Don’t be slow pokes, Only a dime, We’ve plenty of time.”

Eleanor Gutterson and Margaret Keck have perfected their own formula for keeping red hair. They say it contains Vitamins A, B, C, and D. Eleanor is partial to the A’s as was proven by her grades back in the good old days when there was the ’42 class in Milne.

Robert Eckel is a bookie at a race track. (One where they haven’t been banned). Milnites place their bets with Bob because his winners seldom “luce”.

Lois Wilson and Lillian Simmons are busily engaged in defense work. Of course, the girls like all of their work but their favorite job is serving coffee to the soldiers and sailors. They have worked out a system so that Lillian pours the coffee, Lois puts in the cream, Lillian stirs it, and so on until the soldiers get acquainted with the girls and after that, the soldiers wouldn’t want to leave anyway. Nice work, if you can get it.

Phil Snare is spending all his spare time thinking up a shorter route from Chatham Center to Albany. Phil’s ambition is to devise a way where he can wake up, press a little button, and go back to sleep. Then when he awakes again, he is walking to his first class in Milne. Phil has been very successful with his system but there’s only one fault—!!! The darn thing doesn’t tie his shoes.

Bob Ball is now the manager of a famous basketball team called Bob Ball’s Blond Bombers. Bob’s job is a very successful one and his secret is that the team is composed of his own five sons—whenever the team has a good intake at the box office, Bob hands little no Ball, eight Ball, cue Ball, meat Ball, and black Ball a dime a piece for an ice cream cone. We wondered where the profits went to.

Robert Weis has just had his first book published. The name of Bob’s initial volume is “Why Do We Or Do We Don’t?” Mr. Weis says that the book fully answers this question, but “meanies” disagree.

Remember when we were kids, how we used to count: Rich man, Poor man, Beggerman, Thief, Doctor, Lawyer, Merchant, Chief, on the buttons of our dresses to find out what kind of a man we would marry; and how Blanche Packer’s always came out to Doctor. (Incidentally, was that on purpose, Blanche?) Well, she did marry a doctor. She didn’t give up her piano playing though. In the waiting room of the office of her husband, Blanche performs on a piano to soothe the patients before they go in to see the doctor.

We passed Bob George on the street yesterday and on second glance discovered he had a brush haircut. At last he’s taken all those hints from Milnites. How does it feel to be able to see out, Bob?
