Dave Blabey

In general there are two major qualifications needed in a candidate for the job of Student council president: experience and an active interest in Milne.

Experience is the best teacher by far. In the running of our council experience is a must. The president must know how the council is run and what it is doing. Dave Blabey has been a member of the Junior and Senior Student council for five years, during which time he was president of the Junior Student council. Dave has probably had more experience with our student government than any other person in his class. He served as president of his class in both seventh and eighth grades.

The second important qualification for the person running for the presidency is an active interest in Milne and its activities. By being a member of Adelphi, Hi-Y, and vice-president of the junior class, Dave knows how the Milne students think and what they want.

In addition Dave has a wide range of interests which broaden his point of view. He was a delegate to the Mock United Nations Security council and is treasurer of his youth fellowship. He is Milne contributor to the Times-Union Youth page as well as an honor roll student. In the extra-curricular activities Dave has efficiently performed as manager of the Junior varsity basketball team and as co-president of the Outdoor Lunch club.

Let each become all his is capable of being. Please remember this quotation when you go to pull the voting lever. Dave is qualified and capable.

Sandy Berman

1960, has been and will continue to be a year in which many important decisions must be faced in Milne. If the student body is to be adequately represented, they must choose the person who is best qualified, and who will do his utmost to serve them when elected to the office of Senior Student council president. In my opinion, the person who is best suited for the job is Sandy Berman.

Al Smith once said, "Let's look at the record," and Sandy has quite a record. Sandy has a deep rooted concern for the welfare of the individual Milne student; throughout his years in Milne he has worked for the actual realization of this goal.

Sandy, one of Milne's fast developing sports stars, has helped bring our Junior varsity basketball and baseball teams to many a victory. He is the cartoonist for our school newspaper the "Crimson and White" and has been an active Adelphi member for two years.

In addition to his work on the "Crimson and White," Sandy is a member for two years. He has been treasurer of the class of '61 and he was a representative on the Student council. He has served as vice-president and treasurer of the class of '61 and he was a representative on the Student council. He has served as vice-president and treasurer of the class of '61 and he was a representative on the Student council.

These outstanding qualifications alone should prove that Sandy is the best man for the presidency of the Senior Student council. But when you consider that along with these he has been president of his home-room for three years and president of the freshman and junior classes, I know you will agree with me when I say that any intelligent student could vote for none other than SANDY BERMAN FOR PRESIDENT OF THE SENIOR STUDENT COUNCIL.

Tim Hamilton

Along with the 18th century, our country was blessed with a fine statesman, Alexander Hamilton. When he died, America had to wait a whole century until a Hamilton of equal vision and leadership came into being. This latter gentleman, Tim Hamilton, is anxiously waiting to show his ability as the vice-president of the Milne Senior Student council.

Along with his saddle shoes, (he complains his feet are saddle sore) Tim has brought with him from East Lansing, Michigan, a genuine enthusiasm for student government. His extensive experience on student council, coupled with many new ideas and plans should prove beneficial to Milne. Specifically Tim worked with the East Lansing student organization for four years. He was also co-editor of the school newspaper. Tim planned an organized program to put the student in the student council, and hopes to do the same for Milne.

The office of vice-president is no longer a place for inactivity and therefore, an active person like Tim fills the bill.

Tim has shown his versatility as a student by achieving marks befitting a council vice-president, as an athlete by winning the title of mid-western ice skating champion, and as a real friend by gaining the respect of those who know him.

The students of Milne should realize the fine potential in Tim Hamilton as an active leader in student government affairs. This is an opportunity for you, the students, to benefit Milne by electing Tim Hamilton vice-president of the Senior Student council.

Stu Horn

Many people are of the opinion that the sole duty of the Senior Student council vice-president is that of assuming the leadership of the council while the president is absent or unable to participate. This is far from the truth. Milne's Senior Student council vice-president has the all-important task of arranging the unique Career Series program and is in charge of the Assembly committee, the body that plans auditorium programs.

Your candidate and mine, Richard Horn, is well qualified to take over these important tasks. His engaging personality is such that he will have little trouble in obtaining the best speakers and community leaders to participate in the Career series.

Stu will be of immeasurable aid to the Assembly committee in that he will bring fresh ideas and new pep to this important group. To back up this previous statement a very good illustration is Stu's participation in the Hi-Y Youth and Government program. In cooperation with another Milne student, Stu won a cash prize from the New York State Car Dealers association for the best suggested Motor Vehicle legislation to promote safe driving. Other qualifications Stu has are: He has served as vice-president and treasurer of the class of '61 and he was a representative on the Student council. He has been treasurer of Milne's Hi-Y club for two years, is treasurer of the Albany Rensselaer Hi-Y council, and he is a member of the New York State Hi-Y Council Legislative committee.

STUDENT ELECTIONS TODAY

Secretary

Joan Kallenbach

Joan Kallenbach, as you know, is one of the most able and likable girls in the entire junior class. Consequently, she has been nominated for the office of secretary of the Senior Student council.

Joanie has served two years on the council, is treasurer of the M.G.A.A. council, is vice-president of Tri-Hi-Y, is former president and secretary of her Girl Scout troop, and is ex-secretary of her homeroom. She is an active member of Quin and G.A.A., was on the refreshments committee of the Alumni ball, and was a regional representative to the statewide Hi-Y Bills assembly.

This is an impressive record, indeed, but Joan has an equally impressive academic record. She can also type well and has excellent handwriting, two qualifications absolutely essential to the office of secretary.

Just as important as Joan's excellent background for the job are her characteristics which have made her numerous accomplishments possible. Joanie is one of those rare energetic people who is constantly on the go, running from one activity to the next, but always remembering that her first responsibility is to her studies. In the course of contributing to these activities, Joan has gained the admiration and respect of many for her reliability, deep sense of responsibility, and perseverance. Just as important, Joan has drawn people to her by her outstanding quality of kindliness which proves her earnestness and sincerity in everything she undertakes.

Just weigh the qualifications. Joan has experience in the office she is running for; she has held positions in many prominent area organizations. She is skilled typing and writing. All these plus an academic record to be proud of comprise a list of qualities hard to surpass in any election.

Cast your vote for a girl who can fulfill her task, Joan Kallenbach.

Margie Childers

The duties of the secretary are vital for the proper functioning of the Student council. It is the secretary who writes the minutes and handles the correspondence of the council. Without someone to manage these duties, the council would be ineffective and removed from those it represents.

This responsible office requires someone who can express herself concisely and correctly and who can judge between what is essential and what is unnecessary to put in the minutes. As the secretary is a voting member of the council, she also needs the spirit and clear thinking required of all council members.

Margie Childers fulfills these exacting requirements. Her enthusiasm and interest in Milne are actively expressed through the many offices she holds. Margie was co-chairman of the "Out-Reach" program of her church, she is on the student-faculty committee, she is a council member of the Milne Girls' Athletic association, and she is president of her homeroom. Margie has a straight "A" average.

These facts are convincing proof that Margie should be secretary of the Senior Student council. In addition to all this, Margie's strongest asset has yet to be mentioned. This asset is Margie's actual secretarial experience. In this year alone, Margie holds three secretarial positions. She is secretary of the junior class, secretary of her church Youth group, and secretary of Sigma. With all this experience, Margie not only meets the requirements for secretary—she exceeds them.

As has been said, Margie maintains a straight "A" average in her work. So let's all "VOTE FOR STRAIGHT "A" ALL THE WAY."

Treasurer

Al Markowitz

In September of 1955, Milne opened its doors to a frightened, little seventh grader. By the time he entered his freshman year he was successfully handling the funds for the Junior Student council as treasurer. Advancing from grade to grade and picking up his letters in baseball and golf, he became head of the financial matters of the Junior class, vice-president of the Hams dramatic organization, president of the Bowling league and a member of the C&W staff.

The office of treasurer of the Senior Student council requires a weighty responsibility, as the financial affairs of the senior high are placed in his hands. Besides this, he is in charge of the student-faculty committee, an organization consisting of the faculty and representatives of the student body, planning activities and solving problems concerning the two. Al has an excellent scholastic record and has been very active in Milne's activities, as mentioned previously. His all-around ability makes him more than adequate for this important position.

What is the most element in the work of a treasurer? Why, it is MATH, of course. The treasurer's task is actually a practical application of mathematics. Allen Markowitz is outstanding in this field. He is now taking a senior year math course in his junior year. Even so, he maintains fine marks in this difficult subject. One can see that Al is extremely qualified for the position of treasurer.

Who is most qualified for the position of a treasurer? A person who is a treasurer! How can someone be? And just who has been acting as treasurer for the class of '61 for too many years to remember? Allen, that's who. It has become a regular habit with him. Now, you wouldn't want to deprive him of all the fun of being treasurer again, would you?

Let Allen handle your money. You will not only do yourself a favor, but him too.

Joe Allison

Joe Allison is a most qualified candidate for the office of treasurer. Joe took office when the Hi-Y was a weak club of six members, as all the other members had graduated the year before. Through hard work and good programs, Joe built the membership up to 22 members. His reputation in Milne Hi-Y spread to the Albany-Rensselaer Hi-Y council, the local council of area Hi-Y clubs, and Joe was elected vice-president, a post which he presently holds.

Joe also achieved success in other Milne activities. He is editor for the C&W and is vice-president-treasurer of Home Room 129. Joe also represents this home-room on the Student council. These past two experiences have given Joe the necessary "know-how" for handling the treasurer's job.

With his demonstrated ability and executive leadership, there is no question that Joe can help Milne's Student council greatly.

Joe has several goals which he hopes to attain as treasurer. There are:

1. A fairer and more equitable budget, that will take into consideration the activities of all extra-curricular organizations.

2. More democratic representation of all groups in the preparation of the budget.

3. A better understanding by the student body of the student-faculty committee. Joe has found that very few students know the committee's functions and therefore, it isn't as successful as it should be.

4. More student representation on the student-faculty committee. At present one delegate from each grade is selected. This year several other students showed an interest in the committee but weren't allowed to serve on it. Joe feels that anyone who shows an interest in this and all the council's committees should be allowed to serve on them.
