Those who took part in the program were: William Retaling, chairman, Lillian Allen, Barbara Allen, Prisilla Simpson, Lucille Armstead, Billy Crawford, Irma Komfort, Christine Adams, Olive Vroman, and Mary York. They sang, danced, and gave readings.

The Milne Junior High basketball team will meet the Albany Academy in a preliminary game at 7 o'clock tonight in Page Hall gym.

There will be leaders for the cheers. The probable line-up is John Hawkins, Martin Creasy, Bob Taft, Erastus Davis, Ed Walker, Ed Harding, Jack Kodecker, Dick Game, and Kingsly Griggs.

Because of illness, Dick Selkirk and Seeley Funk may not play.

HOMEROOM ACTIVITIES

IN SEVENTH GRADES

Homeroom 121 elected David Brandwen chairman of the Christmas box committee. Those who have not yet earned service points will assist him.

Homeroom 127 also elected a Christmas box committee. This committee consists of Harmon Putten, Dorothy Mosher, Helen Reis, and Fred Negan.

Jacquelyn Townsend and John Unser are to collect the bank books for this homeroom on Tuesday.

Ada Snyder has charge of the Christmas box.

EIGHTH GRADES

Homeroom 129 will give a play in assembly. The title of this play has not yet been announced.

Richard Poland was welcomed back after a recent illness.

NINTH GRADES

Homeroom 233 has discovered an interesting fact. The American flag in their room was made for the first Armistice, and 50 stars were made instead of 48.
MILNE JUNIORS DOWN
ST. JOSEPH’S 77-29

Milne Junior High basketball team went out on the floor in Page Hall gym to win their first game from St. Joseph’s to the tune of 77-29 on Saturday, November 4.

From the first sound of the whistle to the last, Milne outplayed its opponents. At the end of the first quarter, the score was 29-2, but St. Joseph’s awakened and fought their way up to 29.

John Hawkins was high scorer with 24 points. Martin Creesy ran a close second with 19 points.

QUESTION BOX

Should assemblies be rehearsed before committees before presentation?

Erastus Davis: Yes, to improve them.

Frances Seygour: No, it involves a lot of extra work.

Marjorie Pond: Yes, often the assemblies are no good and not practiced.

Margaret Charles: No, because they are almost always all right.

Edgar Haring: Yes, because we will be able to know whether to put one or two on at a time.

Wilson Hume: Yes, because we will be sure to have worthwhile assemblies.

CHEERLEADERS SELECTED

The assistant cheerleaders who have been selected are: Ruth Selkirk, Virginia Nichols, Joyce Wurdick. They were selected by Elizabeth Simmons. Let’s co-operate with them at basketball games and give our full spirit to the team.

STUDENT COUNCIL PINS

An inquiry about Student Council pins was made by Peggy Jantz, secretary of the council. Dieges and Clutz is the company from which the pins will be ordered.

The pins will cost either seventy, eighty, or ninety cents, according to the kind of plating used.

The Student Council will decide today which pins to use.

Everyone in the club is working on some definite project, such as knitting, crocheting, or embroidery. Miss Unger and Miss Cunningham are the sponsors of this club.

EIGHTH GRADES BOYS

FOOTBALL LEAGUE

The boys in the eighth-grade home-rooms 129, 130, and 228, are organizing a football league having nothing to do with the school and to be played outside school grounds.

The first game will be played next week between home-rooms 129 and 228, and the winner will play 130.
CAN YOU IMAGINE

1. Ed. Walker without his "delicacy food" (girls)?
2. D. Selkirk in the "tag line" or a party attended by Mr. Charles?
3. Being able to go to lunch by way of Page Hall when it's raining outside.
4. Complete silence in the corridor.
5. A log not entering Millie's strolling down the hall?

BOOK REVIEW

THE SNAKE - BY PAF/EL SABATINI

This is a story of mystery and romance all rolled into one. Mr. Butler, a major in the British army, commits a great crime, while drunk. He is ordered to be shot when taken. Mr. Butler hides in the woods for many days and then goes to his sister, the Major, for assistance. She hides him for a week and takes his husband's secretary, a young man, into her confidence. He promises to help her.

Mrs. O'Moyle's husband is an Adjutant-General in the army. It is his duty to enforce the order to shoot Mr. Butler when he is captured; therefore, she must keep his presence a secret.

The Adjutant-General is very jealous of his secretary, and when a count is mysteriously murdered, he accuses the young man of the crime. The young man is saved by a young lady who loves him, and O'Moyle is found to have murdered the count. General Wellington, of the British troops, frees Mr. Butler when he learns the true circumstances of the case.

CHARACTER SKETCH

BY PROF. LYNAY

This week we take as our noble personage (?) a ninth grader, whom we must cold-heartedly awake from a day knowing (???) slumber.

He (or she) is a very stocky individual with black hair and brown eyes. He comes to school the other day wearing a very flashy blue tie.

He (or she) has learned the art of spinning tacks with great tact.

If you guess this character sketch, write your name, homeroom, and solution on a slip of paper and give it to the person who will come around and collect them during the homeroom period.
