Office Effects

New Tardiness Excuse Plans

A new system of handling student tardiness went into effect on Wednesday, January 19.

Under the new system, students who are late to school must report to the Guidance Office as usual. This is done in order that the Guidance Office may keep a record of all students late to first period classes, and remove their names from the absence list.

Any student tardy for a class other than his first one, should go directly to that class rather than report to the Guidance Office. It is a student's responsibility to secure a written excuse from any teacher or supervisor who causes him to be late to a class. Students who are excessively tardy without an excuse will be sent to the supervisor of that subject.

All regulations governing absence excuses from classes remain unchanged:

Council Revives Ballgame Dance

Milne's Student Council has instituted dancing after basketball games upon receiving permission from various faculty members and investigating the students' opinions.

The council hopes that many of the students will remain for the dancing.

The 1947 Senior Class presented the school with money to be used, over a period of years, for purchasing dance records. A group of council members including Lois Tewell, Nancy Shaw, and Terry Stokes were appointed by president Arthur Walker to buy records suitable for the dancing club or dancing after games. Miss Murray's suggestion of having some music dancing records included in the purchases, is being heeded.

Milne traveled on its longest jaunt of the season to Plattsburg for a scheduled contest with the High School quintet and came out on the long end of a 48-40 score for its fourth triumph of the season.

The Red Raiders jumped into a quick 4-0 lead at the outset and the home team fought back to a 14-14 deadlock at the end of the first quarter. However, Milne spurted to a quick 4-0 lead at the outset and won its fourth triumph of the season.

High School quintet and came out jaunt of the season to Plattsburg of Lew Carr who tallied nine points. Ron LaValley were never headed, although the victors midway in the third quarter largely due to the good shooting of Lew Carr who tallied nine points. Dick Spelman was high for the losers on seven field goals for 14 points. Ed Lux was high for the Crimson and White clad in Two; Drop Two Milne encountered New Lebanon on the Page Hall court and returned to the win column after three successive defeats by downing the visitors, 49-30.

Milne started quickly to lead at the end of the first quarter by the score of 8-0. The halftime score was 30-11.

From the foul stripe, Milne hit four out of 17 attempts while Plattsburg converted four out of 11 tries. Win Streak Continues

Plattsburg's undefeated jaegers edged the Milne juniors 23-22 after the Highlanders held a 21-11 margin midway in the third quarter.

Win Streak Continue

Busload Enjoys Long Journey; Calls Highlight

By DICK BAUER

The cream of the crop of varsity and junior varsity players, managers, and coaches, departed from Plattsburg at about 12:30 on January 15, to play Plattsburg High School at Plattsburg.

We made our first break in the journey at Lake George Village. Our next stop was at "The Southern," a restaurant, which is four miles south of Plattsburg. We ate a big dinner there. When we reached Plattsburg, we were directed to Hotel C.B.A. and checked our belongings.

Accident Creates Confusion

A lot of action took place in the last few minutes after we moved into our rooms. It seems that the one and only elevator happened to be on the third floor and just by accident, of course, Jim Clark leaned against the door, and it wouldn't go any further. About five minutes later, a couple of bellhops were seen with crowbars trying to pry the door open. They finally succeeded.

George DeMoss seemed to be quite busy with the private telephone in his room. First, he called room service and complained that there were no towels in the room. Then he called long distance. At 7 p.m. we went to the high school for the main event of the evening. At the conclusion of the second game we were served with sandwiches, ice cream and soda by the Plattsburg Varsity Club and cheerleaders. After this snack, we went back to the gym and danced.

Association

Upon returning to our quarters, some joker made a telephone call to Albany. Purely by accident, 10 girls happened to be at Janet Kilby's house when the phone rang. (What a telephone bill!!) After we chatted with the girls from Albany, we took a sightseeing tour around the town with the exception of getting back to the hotel about 12:30.

No one was tired, so a couple of old fashioned grab sessions commenced. The one in Room 306 must have been quite lively because it lasted until six o'clock. After that, everyone left the room the occupants went to bed.

Journey Homeward

Frances Moran, '53 for their wonderful scores of 136 and 149, respectively.

Basketball Starting

Mr. High basketball intramurals will begin on Friday, January 21, and will continue for six weeks. In order to receive credit you must be present at least five of the six times.

The time will be from 3:30 to 4:30.

Sr. High basketball won't begin until March 9. It will be held every Wednesday in February and March from 3:30 to 4:30. To get credit, you must attend at least five of the seven nights it is to be played.

Sr. High trapline intramurals will start Wednesday, January 19, and continue for six weeks. Five players on each team will be selected by the M.G.A.A.

Mural To Be Completed

Marge Norton, '49, has started work on the mural she is doing for Miss Murray's office. When completed, it will have the names of the M.C.AA. Council members for last year and this year and space for names of the members in future years.

It was so exciting to wade through ankle-deep water to get to our lockers last week. The trouble has been that we are working on the water main. All the dusty fumes from their drilling have made things a bit uncomfortable for Miss Murray's office. Nothing like fresh air is there, Miss Murray?
Slumber Parties: Topics for Talk

_By "CASEY"

"Help, I'm being suffocated!"

Who invented this slumber party idea? It’s been around for many, many years ago. A young girl lost her head temporarily and invited about a half dozen others to spend the night at her abode. And what a night! Somehow, the event picked up steam and became one of the party's which is very misleading, for sleep is unheard of, idiotic, and impossible.

The kids arrive right after dinner, which they never eat before one of these shindigs, since eating is what they'll be doing most of the night.

The hostess, or the one who's always yelling, "Don't get mustard on the furniture," usually has her kitchen well stocked with such delicate foods as hot dogs, hamburgers, peanuts, crispy chips, popcorn, coke, marshmallows, fruit, pickles, and coffee. (There might be many more things. I forget sometimes.)

Pajamas Madeleine

One of many reasons why a girl attends a slumber party, is to show off her soft silken pajamas. Usually a twist in ordinary flannels, and if they're new, all the fuzz comes off on the furniture. Two or more girls are turned in Japanese pajamas, tights, or midriffs which consist of a boloero and bottoms that can resemble anything from diapers and clamps to dad's shorts.

The radio and phonograph are playing at the same time, and all the gifted girls are displaying their talents in forms like The Dance of the Seven Veils. "With My Mouth Full of Marshmallows Song." Others try foot-stool aerobics, or juggling acts.

Sleep Attempted

When the parents retire to attempt sleep, the girls spread their blankets all over the living room floor, while the lucky ones grab the sofa or an easy chair. Then someone is selected to read aloud in a chosen bit from a best seller which is very misleading, for sleep is unheard of, idiotic, and impossible.

As you can see anything can happen at a slumber party. The important thing to remember is "Don't let anybody fall asleep. She'll miss all the fun!"

Loudonville Canteen To Give Jail Dance

Come and swing your pardner, at the "Sing Sing Swing Dance" January 23, from 8:00 p.m. to 12:00, at the Loudonville Community Hall.

The Loudonville Canteen is sponsoring a special dance for all who are interested in seeing a jail party. Many objects, together with black and white striped decorations, will be placed throughout the hall.

Police Will Wander

Costume dressed policemen will be on the look-out for criminal offenders who, upon committing a crime, will be placed in a jail cell. Members of the opposite sex will have to bail the criminals out.

Upon the return of the couple they will be "married" by a Justice of the Peace and the girl will receive a wedding ring.

Prize Awarded

A prize will be awarded at the close of the dance to the girl with the greatest number of wedding rings.

Decorations for this dance are being procured by Edith Cross, Janet Hicks, Barbara Leete, Jack Payne, and Marion Siegel.

During the evening, coke, hot dogs, ice cream, doughnuts, and candy will be sold in the basement of the hall.

Admission of 60c for non-members and 43c for members may be paid at the door.

State Administrators Tests to Seniors

Entrance tests for New York State Colleges were taken by various Milne seniors on November 20. These tests were conducted from 9:30 to 4:00 at New York State Teachers College.

These are psychological, scholastic, interest and aptitude tests and were administered by representatives of Oneonta State Teachers College.

A few of the class of 1949 who took the tests were Carol Dobbs, Shirley Weinberg, Dick Bauer, Ed Segel, Joan Mosher, Helen Bigley, Barbara White, Caroline Gede, Marilyn Lynk, Alice Cohen and Nancy Schonbrun.

DON'T FORGET THE THETA NU FOLLIES!

Apologies are due to Doris Metzner, who wrote the poem in the last edition about the basketball game and it was mislabeled. Doris also wrote the following poem:

Here I am with paper and pen
Figuring out the "what, where, and when"
'Cause the story I'm beginning to write
Is for the Crimson and White

They said to pyramid the news
And all the facts, to use
But right now, I shall first
Quench your thirsts with this mind
Here I am with paper, coke, and pen
Ready to begin again.

I'm not sure how long it should be,
But ten lines seems okay to me.

"On Friday, at ten to eight..."
Oh, oh, that's the wrong date.
Well, anyway, I'll guess I'll do
But go, now, I'm hungry, too.
Here I am with paper, pen, and pen
Ready once more to go ahead
I hope I'll succeed in this try
And guess I'll start with "Milne's/Loose and High"

Ho, hum, twelve o'clock is getting near
So I better leave the story here
Besides, for tonight, I've had enough
Of this darn reporting stuff.

Zeta Sigma, Quinn Install Members

Quintillian Literary Society held its annual banquet December 4, at 12:30 at Kessler's Restaurant, for the installation of new members. Following the dinner, at which ham or chicken was served, the new members entertained.

A skit starring Ricky Berns and Donald Metzner plier a quintette composed of Barbara Sandburg, Judy Traver, Elaine Stein, Doris Axelson and Betty Shadle highlighted the entertainment.

Poems concerning Quin officers were presented by Shala Scott, Joan Payne, Sue Lavin, Kathleen Kelly, and Altha Funk.

President Anne Carluhge installed the new members with the usual ceremony and afterwards read the constitution of the Society.

The Zeta Sigma Literary Society also held its annual installation banquet at Jack's Restaurant on December 4. Entertainment was provided by each prospective member after the dinner, at which ham or chicken was served, the new members entertained.

Accompanied by their sisters, the 26 new members went forward to be officially received into the society by President Janet Kilby. Because there was only one, and one, because there's only one, and we are lucky that he came to us in '47!

Ed could hardly catch his breath in Milne before he was swept into things, especially things called SPORTS! Some of these sports were varsity basketball, junior and senior years, baseball, 19th, 11th, and 12th, and Ed's favorite, football, in which he has participated last and this year.

Also in the interest of sports Ed has been a representative on the M.B.A.A., and is in the Varsity Club. The Hi-Y has also claimed our "Luxie" for three years.

Enjoy Music

Next to sports, Ed likes music, and as any senior can tell you he's always singing, humming or whistling a tune. He's one of our basses in the Male Ensemble and the choir this year.

Thinking about people is one of "Soapy's" favorite pastimes; he likes school (really!) and is very fond of singing in the bathtub, and riding in fast boats, (not in the tub).
