COSE WITH THE WIND
BY MARGARET MITCHELL

The book Gone With the Wind shows the southern viewpoint towards the Civil War. The author makes one symp-tathy for the south and not only surprise but also a feeling of shame because of the damage the north did, unnecessarily, to the south.

It is the story of Scarlett O' Hara, the belle of three counties. She has three husbands and finds love too late.

The story of the south; its sureness of our cowardice— which turns later to doubt and then to grudging admiration for our bravery; its courage and unflinching hope which grows stronger in the face of certain defeat; the hardships they suffered, lack of food, clothing and necessities of life—those they had were the worst of their kind; the burning of the beloved homes and land; their flight from town to town in front of the northern soldiers; their offers of the youth of the south, then the younger boys until the only man who weren't fighting were those who were unable to move, for even the very old went; the women had no protection and their courage equaled if not exceeded that of the men; the way is a bright flag of courage, bravery and strength of a broken and defeated people.

After the War comes the rebuilding of a nation which brings horrors worse than the War. The formation of the Ku Klux Klan to protect their women from the outrageous attacks of the negroes.

The book Gone With the Wind is a vivid story of the destruction and rehabilitation of a strong, brave and glorious nation.

NICE GOING, BOYS

The Milne varsity basketball team has showed us what a team can do with the proper support. The other games the team played were away with the exception of one. At the away games the home team had the advantage in more ways than one. They were playing on their own court and had more support than did our team.

The boys have proved they are the best team by only losing by one point away and winning by twenty-two points on their own court. If you all sincerely want your team to win come out to the games and cheer as loud as you can. The boys need your cheering and when they know everyone is behind them they will fight for you.
Proverbs opened the meeting of January 11. Members voted on the girls who the society will ask to join it.

THETA NU:

At the regular business meeting, the members of Theta Nu decided to send Roger Orton, who is ill, a card.

The club passed a motion that any boy interested in swimming may join the swimming club, if he sees Mr. Schaler and is approved by the rest of the society.

This club is sponsored by Theta Nu.

The taking of new members was discussed.

SIGMA

Because of the voting upon of girls eligible for entering the society, the business meeting was disregarded.

ADELEPHI:

Adlephoi is going to hold a banquet Feb. 5 at Jack’s Restaurant.

Mr. Carvill gave an interesting talk on the book "The Valley of The Silent Men".

The hero of this story is named Kent and is shot by a half-breed. He recovers, but the search for the half-breed is very exciting.

SUBSTITUTE FOR ANTIQUES PLANNED

Last Friday, in the Girls Athletic Club meeting, Miss Hitchcock spoke to the members about what would be held this year in place of Annual Antics. It is tentatively decided to have two basketball games, a girls’ championship game and a boys’ inter-society game. A committee was appointed by Barbara Knox to think of other suggestions.

FRENCH CLUB PLANS PLAY

As the French Club did not have much business to take care of at their meeting on Monday, Miss Browning explained a game which the club then played. The game was played entirely in French. The characters of the play which will be given in assembly have been chosen, they are Frances Seymour, Barbara Soper, Hazel Roberts and Edward Walker.

Hello everyone—everywhere. Auntie Lucy is greeting you with another batch of witty exchanges.

From The Boulder we get this bright remark:

- Forester: You notice the insects have defoliated the trees.
- Betty: Yes, and they have eaten all the leaves, too.

From the Mur-Mur-ette Hit Witz, this witty piece of literature was taken:

F. Sipperly: (Reading a Joke) Look at this, Bill! Some dumb fool here thinks that a football coach has four wheels.

Bill:—How! How! And how many wheels has it?

Lizzy S. What is the difference between an automobile, a sigh, and a monkey?

Ed. W. I don’t know. What is it?

E. S. An automobile is too dear, a sigh is so dear, and a monkey is you dear.

From the Harvester we find that:

The Way To Get:
Trouble is to go looking for it.
Into office is to promise the impossible.
Respect is to live as if you expected it.

Lady at Jewel counter. "Who attends to the nuts?"

Clerk: "Be patient, I’ll be with you in a minute."

A little of History B enters here as we hear—

Mr. Hastings: "Miss Shultz, can you tell me the three classifications in which men are divided?"

Betty J.: "Rich, poor, and good looking."

"Hum," said Little Virginia. "If there are any men up in Heaven, why is it that we never see any angels with whiskers."

"Well," replied her mother, thoughtfully, "I guess it’s because most men get there only by a close shave."

Well, another dry passes, and I again resume my deep concentration on the finals.

COMMITEE WORKS ON PLAY

Monday at the joint meeting of the groups of the dramatic club, they decided to give a three-act play probably some time in April. The president appointed a committee of Frances Livitz, Barbara Knox and Virginia Kelsey to find a suitable play.
THRU THE KEYHOLE

By Hido and Sook

...We're in again, trying to attempt what is practically the impossible, and that is, to tell you Milnites something you don't already know. As your various teachers try to find out the extent of your knowledge through questions, why, we'll do the same. To start with--

What Junior boys, prominent on the basket-ball team, rushed a pretty little eighth grader at our last basket-ball game?

Wonder how Jim Bremer feels being a divorcee? We know we wouldn't mind—not if we collected the alimony she did.

Why are Lowell and Barbara always together? Well, we wouldn't know either. But, they should be more careful—even if it is after school hours. We never knew that the Page Hall steps had that "certain atmosphere"—did you?

Why is it that Bud Davis doesn't seem to realize what a really swell kid Lois Nesbitt is? Before he knows it he is going to find himself out in the cold—if he isn't already.

Although it's r ther in the past—How did Jen Ambler like her New Year's Eve date from Princeton? Was he blond?

Look out for "Flash" Carvill and Janet Cole at the party tonight. They will be there (together) unless we're gravely mistaken.

Late nights seem to suit our basket-ball players or does the Witt Clinic to sooth their nerves? At any rate 8 of our boys were there last Friday night and were two certain Junior girls mad!

Verna knoaks for admittance to Karen's bat. Or is it vice-versa? Anyway, still, darce, and handsome men and cows, blond, girl do look next together.

Why, Fran Seymour! You're not getting to be chiseler, are you? You'd better keep off Pond's territory or she will kick hay.

Shall we send a committee to read Jimmy's and Margaret Charles' correspondence? Or shall we just let them peacefully go their way?

Is that rumor 'bout the invincible Bob Taft really true? Or—Torenone he and Cindy McDermott together at Wagner's last big take site?

Hello—what's your answer? We hope that your mark isn't very good. Then we can hope that you enjoyed this column.

Happy New Year is right! 1937 gave us a grand start last Saturday night when our "Crimson Five" triumphed over Bethlehem Central High '40-18. "Ace" Bippulray led the field with 18 points, making some of them from the middle of the floor. He did a grand job shooting the ball like a bullet right through the old basket.

Did you notice that this victory gave us a picture on the front page of both of Albany's sport pages? This is exactly what we needed and the boys deserve the credit.

With a new spirit in Milne, we look forward to this Saturday night when we play host to Rensselaer High and show them how we really play. You remember they took us the last time by one point, but we're going to make them sing "You Turned the Tables on Me" by repeating the Delmar game.

We couldn't look about the crowd at the Delmar game, it certainly was the real support the team needed.

Oh, yes, I almost forgot our Junior Varsity. They lost to Delmar 18-11, but don't let that fool you because in proportion they've done better than theVarsity. Milne doesn't have to worry about team for the next one or two years because this J. V. team will take hold soon. Let the Varsity graduates.

GIRLS TRAVEL TO DELMAR FOR BASKETBALL PLAYDAY

The Milne girls' varsity attended the Bethlehem Central High School Playday last Saturday from 10:15 to 4. They played five games with Delmar, Cobleskill, the teachers, Mount Pleasant, and Cambridge.

The girls ate their dinner in the school cafeteria where they sang songs, and had a real get together. The Principal made a speech, and had some of the coaches. Favors were small basket balls with the schools' colors, designating where the members of each team were to sit.

After lunch there were more games, and then the entertainment which was presented by the various schools. This was followed by dancing to the music of the Rhythm Rangers.

The girls who went are Virginia Tripp, Elizabeth Simons, L. J. Newton, Margaret Charles, Marion Kossob, Lillian Kelsohmyer, Norma Knapvich, Virginia Seper, Bette Potter, Carolyn Hausmann, Berta Knox, and Frances Levitz.
