ORIGIHAL POEM BOOK PUBLISHED BY CLASS

The eighth grade English class which meets at twelve o'clock is making a book of original poetry. There will be about fifty pages in it, and the members of the class have contributed to pay the expenses. Charlotte Kornit will make the design for the cover.

COMMITTEE DECIDES ON PHILCO RADIO

It has been decided that if a radio is purchased for Milne, it will be a Philco table model, as there are no electrical outlets on the first floor, the radio will probably be placed on the second floor. The committee for the purchase of the radio is Miss Wheeling, Miss Conlin, Miss Crooks, Miss Halter, Prof. Seylors, and Mr. Moos.

MODEL STAGE MADE BY ENGLISH 9 CLASS

Wilson Hume and Robert Wilke, of the English 9 class which meets at one o'clock, have built a miniature stage. It is three feet long and two feet wide. Some of its special features are footlights, doors, and real lighting effects.

Betty Douglas and Mary Lou Dappert had charge of making the curtains. The front curtains are dark blue and the side curtains are cream color. Hazel Roberts, Patricila Gibson, Virginia Frigg, and Elizabeth Simmons formed the committee to furnish the stage with furniture.

The stage has been on exhibit in Room 6 of Richardson Hall.

LOST AND FOUND

Miss Nicos requests that the people who have lost articles claim them as soon as possible. There are keys, pencils, pins, mirrors, key books, and pocketbooks.
SPORTSMANSHIP

To be fair and honorable in all sports is the definition the dictionary gives of sportmanship.

In other words it means to "play square" and display your fine character in the greatest game of all which is the game of life.

When a game is completed the players depart for home with a sense of victory. The winning team has won, but long after the game is over the memory of the losing team's gallant spirit will remain; even after the memory of the scoring team is forgotten.

A gracious winner and a gallant loser conquers all, with sportsmanship.

WITWIT'S MISSENSE

Please note: All the characters in this story are entirely fictitious.

This is the story of Hazel and Bill. They stopped at their favorite restaurant for a cooling drink.

"Cocktails for two?" Bill asked.

"I'd rather have cider," Hazel answered.

"Okay, ma'am," said Bill, and as he drank his cider he added "Take as sweet as you are." This remark may have been directed at Hazel or at the elder.

While they were trying to dumb College Rhythm, Bill whispered, "Let's try climbing Observatory Hill. Would you like to climb it tonight?" It's so warm out you would think it was June in January.

When they reached the top of the hill, one could tell from the conversation that it had been a flirtation walk.

Bill said, "With Every Breath I Take I Dream of You" "Better be careful or Pop goes Your Heart."

"I guess love is just around the corner. May I have one little kiss?"

"No, but a delicious time no," was Mary's reply.

"I thought that I could say Mr. and Mrs. is the name, but now I say, Never had a chance!"

"Let's give three cheers for love and hope that at their next meeting we will find love in bloom."

Dr. Scruloose

WITWITISM

Teacher: We breathe oxygen every day, what do we breathe at night?

Betty: Nitrogen.

Teacher: How did you get that block out?

Virginia: I was out looking for trouble last night, and this eye was the first to find it.

Shirley: So they did the early birds get all the worms?

Pop: I understand they do.

Shirley: Well, the early apples got some to.

GILLIAN RICHARDS

This week we had a ninth grade sound sleep (except for one girl who was a nymphomaniac after we throughout the Junior class. It was almost like a drunken horse.

If anyone guesses this, put your name and the name of the person described and your homeroom number on a slip of paper and hand it to the person who collects them.
