ART CONTEST

SEE PAGES 14
Hello Folks,

I'm here again! How is everything going? Well, I've come to talk about that old subject, "The Annex." Most of you seem to have a swell time at lunch time, but some of you are a bit careless about leaving papers and bottles around. In the annex there is a man that was appointed to see that you have no rough-housing, have no papers around, put all bottles away and keep your voices lowered. How about that, do you think this is too much to ask of you? I don't, I think every student can and should help that man out a little. What about it? I'm really serious, you can do it, will you? Think it over. It's really not hard. Well, so long, folks.

SPORTS

The ninth grade athletic club has elected its officers. They are:

President                      John Dyer
Vice-president                 Robert Mosch

They want to play football outside or basketball in the gym.

ARTWORK

We have just skipped from October into November. All the Halloween fun is over, and now we must settle down to cloudy November. This thought made me gloomy until I took a look of dreamy poetry and settled in a nice big chair before a friendly fire. Why don't you try it, too?

Last week I found quite a few books of poetry in the library display. Some were, Come Hither by Walter De L0 Mare, Chaucer's Canterbury Tales by Frank Ernest Hill, and Rainbow Gold by Sarah Teasdale. By the way, did you notice the caption over the poetry display last week? It read "Rosé words in their best order. Poetry—the best words in their best order." How does this strike you?

Puzzle for the week:

"John had great big waterproof boots on;
John had a great big waterproof hat;
John had a great big waterproof mackintosh;
And that (said John) is that!"

I wondered just why John didn't care if it did rain. Perhaps he had a nice book of poetry to read and nice warm friendly fire, too. So you can find out why John didn't care about the weather, you might look for your answer in...

Homecoming 12A was Exclusive

A rule has been made that no one outside Homecoming 12A can enter it before 5:00 in the morning. A committee headed by Rita Pogarsky decided that there was too much confusion in the room before school.

Homecoming 320 had their Halloween party on Monday. They had older and other refreshments.

STORIES

The ninth grade athletic club has elected its officers. They are:

President                      John Dyer

If someone came to you and said, "What are the newest sleeves called," would you know what to answer? I don't think very many of you know. That is why I've picked sleeves to talk on. They are the broclet length sleeves are most popular now. However, there does not mean that you have to wear them. There are other length sleeves including elbow, full, three-quarters, and those above the elbow. Some of the styles are cæse, puffed, fitted, and fitted at the wrist and puffed the rest of the way up. What about those coat sleeves? Do you like them? I think it's a matter of taste.

Have you seen the metallic cloth creations? Personally I think the blouses, or evening dress made of this material are reviving, but when it comes to coat dresses, that's out.

Next week we are going to have a questionnaire, so you had better read up on your fashions!

NEW GIFTS

A new series of critical history paintings has just been received from the Bausch and Lomb Optical Company of Rochester, New York. The distinguished New York artist, Harold Arneson was commissioned to reproduce on canvases such scientific characters in history as Alhazen, the Dutchman Huygens; and the Bavarian, Fraunhofer. According to Miss Falmer, they will be hung in the main rooms.

Richly colored, the picture of Alhazen, who was born 965 A.D., shows this Arabian mathematician demonstrating to some friends his theory of the refraction of light by means of a stick thrust into a pool of water.

No less interesting is that of Christian Huygens, in which the Dutch astronomer and physicist explains to Louis XIV and members of the French Academy his wave theory of light.

Fraunhofer is represented as an enthusiastic young man explaining to a sceptical friend his method of reading and measuring the dark lines of the spectrum by means of spectroscope, an instrument which he invented.

All of these are very valuable, to math classes which are studying the history of measurement.
