As the intercollegiate and intramural spring sports season swings into the second half, we’re given to believe that we’ve hit the halfway point of what has happened so far in the sports scene at the end of April. For the baseball team, we predict a better second half than the first. The team’s starting five is set in stone, and we’ve seen them hit the ball hard and often. In their first four matches, they have won three with a possible outside chance for a sweep of RPI in the first of four straight home contests.

The Great Danes have been on a hot streak, winning all but one game of the last five. The only loss was a 2-0 defeat by the Hooper Athletic Club, who suffered a three-run loss against Central Connecticut, Oneonta, and New Paltz, the last being a 6-3 sweep of a 11.

The hitting attack was highlighted by the APA defense, who committed no errors. The APA defense was once again on top with a 3-0 record. BPS has taken advantage of their home field advantage, scoring in the first of four straight home contests.

The Great Danes have been very strong as they committed only one error. Jim “Moose” Wingate added a triple. The APA defense was once again on top with a 3-0 record. BPS has taken advantage of their home field advantage, scoring in the first of four straight home contests.

Tom Egelston has been a much used performer for Albany. He gave up only three hits and no runs, with a .310 batting average.

The EEPs have been hitting well with a .254 batting average. The APA defense was once again on top with a 3-0 record.
Civil Rights Leader
Speaker at Friday's Mattered Eye Talk

George Ross, a prominent figure in the Civil Rights movement, spoke at Friday's Mattered Eye Talk. Ross, known for his powerful speeches and dedication to justice, delivered a compelling address to the audience. His words resonated with the crowd, encouraging them to continue fighting for equality and civil rights. The event was well-attended, with many attendees expressing their gratitude for Ross's visit.

New Naturalist Fraternity Pres.
Views Frat's Campus Feelings

The Naturalist Fraternity president shared his thoughts on the campus environment during a recent interview. He noted that the natural beauty of the campus is a significant draw, with many students appreciating the serene and peaceful atmosphere. He also mentioned the vibrant student life and the strong sense of community that exists on campus.

Second Annual Clearance Sale
All Clearances Must Go.

Don't Wait 'Til Next Year.

All Shapes All Sizes
Buy One Now.

STATE UNIVERSITY CROOKSTORE
Other Things Too
Spring is here, Spring is here. Life and children and birds, trees and flowers. I wish they didn't all go away (but I suppose that's the way it is, right?)

The ASP, which will be held tomorrow at 3:00 PM in the Student Center, will be a forum for discussion and debate. The topic for the discussion will be "The Future of the Planet," and the speakers will be Dr. J. Smith and Dr. K. Jones.

TUESDAY, MAY 9, 1967

Council Invalidates Elections Due To Several 'Irregularities'

In a letter to the editor, William Flanagan, a member of the Student Association, wrote: "I am writing to express my concern about the recent elections held in the Student Association. The elections were conducted in an unfair manner, and I believe that they should be invalidated due to several 'irregularities'."

The letter goes on to describe several incidents that occurred during the elections, such as the use of false information and the manipulation of the voting process.

In response to the letter, the Student Association released a statement saying: "We take these concerns very seriously. The Student Association is committed to conducting fair elections, and we will investigate the allegations and take corrective action if necessary."