FUTURACOLES

Four millions of the best man-power of Europe perished in the Napoleonic conquests. Military conquest is non-creative, while industry is always creative.

In the last ten years one manufacturer—the General Electric Company—has created machines having a man-power forty times as great as that of all the lives lost in the Napoleonic wars. In the years to come, when the college men and women of today are at the helm of industry and of the home, it will be realized more and more that human energy is too valuable to be wasted where electricity can do the work better at lower cost.

And Norwegian Students Are At State

Only five per cent of the 1,200 students now attending State College are over twenty. Twelve years of age, reports for the registrar's office shows. Approximately 770 are twenty or younger. Three per cent are registered without indicating their age while 325 range from twenty-one through twenty-five.

Reports indicate that students show a preference for English, history and modern languages. The numbers of students select a wide range of subjects instead of confining their choice to one or two subjects, outside their regular major and minors.

Delighted with its "Annis Mirabilis" in Three Months, Miss Wallace Says Of Italy

It is impossible to pick out a single experience from a summer which one whole "Annis mirabilis" in three months and say of it, "This was the most interesting thing we did."

We had six weeks as students in the summer session of the American Academy in Rome, a school for American students of the fine arts and of the classics, the city which can affect so much that is distinctive in these branches.

The academy building, beautiful in itself, is a lovely place to be, whether you are reading in its remarkably fine classical library, visiting the studio of a noted sculptor, or looking out from the terrace and overlooking the city from its highest point.

The city of Rome, to begin with, the city of Rome is, as it were, the open-air school with some of its columns still in place, and what is more, supporting the superstructure.

The walls of the fourth century church are some faithful frescoes, telling the life of St. Alexis, another a Madonna in the Byzantine manner. But this is not all, because this church at the base of St. Clement, and at a slightly lower level, is the church of St. Clement, which was discovered in 1904 the former church was destroyed. The church has been dedicated to the Virgin Mary, with its cool green and grey marbles.

Roman history is, as it were, the open-air school with some of its columns still in place, and what is more, supporting the superstructure.

1084 the former church was destroyed. The first monument and the days it represented would lecture to us on the significance of Roman history.

The Girls' Athletic association will hold a roll like the worship of Cybele or Isis. The Persian cult of Mithras was practiced on one side of the room, and what is more, support the superstructure.

'The number is small," said Miss Edith O. Wallace, secretary to the president, the number of foreign born, or of foreign parentage, who are attending State College, has increased this year. Three percent are registered without indicating their age while 325 range from twenty-one through twenty-five.

German club is planned to receive recognition as a college organization. This was decided at a special meeting Tuesday, November 2.
