DEAN METZLER TALK IN ASSEMBLY

Student Assembly, Friday, October 12, was a very special occasion, in part because so many alumni were present. After the singing of the Alma Mater by Dr. Brubacher welcomed 25 and then introduced Dr. Chester A. Moore who spoke very briefly but forcefully.

"We are here, in college," he said, "not for the sake of subjects and facts but to learn how to work efficiently with the least amount of energy and in the shortest time. From the standpoint of analogy if we go from a light room to a dark room, it is a test we cannot see. Likewise, when we return to the light room our new habits and we are inclined to close them. Thus when a new idea comes to us we find our mental eye closed to close and we think we have the whole idea, whereas it is only a part. Therefore, we should form the habit of keeping our mental eye open or, in other words, we should open an open mind. One of the greatest faults today is the setting up of a partial truth for a whole, therefore, we should look at everything.

"Let us now take a look at the world of education. We have the privilege of talking with Mr. Vines Brewster, headmaster of the State Normal School. Mr. Vines Brewster had a "suppressed desire" for psychoanalysis but he ably and surpassing all his previous records.

THRU THE KEYHOLE

Professor Kirkland will teach freshmen to think, he said, when he took over a section of English 1A. Perhaps the wise old saying about a horse to water.

Secrets showed when true thinkers were ability in the air at two-thirty o'clock that morning.

But then, who’s got the button?” The sophomores are asking why it’s rapidly approaching. Are they not going to be as bad as the ones they now would. “At least they can’t be any worse,” say the freshmen.

STUDY HOURS STARTED FOR NEWMAN CLUB
An interesting feature on the Newman Calendar is the Study Hour. The hours for study are from 7 o'clock until 9 at 741 Madison Avenue every Wednesday. All Newman freshmen are invited to Newman Hall to get assistance in any subject that troubles them. Efficient upperclassmen are in charge of the different departments. Already, through the efforts of Father Dunney, a library of all the books needed in the Freshman year has been collected. Although the new project has been tried only two evenings, a large gathering of interested and puzzled Frosh has been present and we hope to see more of the class of '27.
