Iowa State Inaugurates System for Financing Students Who Return to College to Complete Post-war Work

The University of Iowa has inaugurated a system for financing students who return to college to complete post-war work. This system, known as the "Return to College Program," is designed to provide financial aid to students who have taken a break from college during the war years and are now returning to complete their studies.

The program is open to students who have served in the armed forces or who have otherwise been unable to continue their studies during the war. Students must have completed at least two years of college work before leaving for service and must have been away from college for at least one year.

Under the program, students will be eligible for grants, scholarships, and loans to help defray the costs of tuition, room and board, and other expenses. The amount of aid will be determined based on each student's financial need.

The program is administered by the Office of Financial Aid at the University of Iowa, and interested students are encouraged to contact the office for more information on how to apply.

Modern Job Paul Jarvis Is Milk, Hamburgers Here

The milk and hamburgers here both belong to Paul Jarvis, a modern job. He not only works for a company that makes milk, but he also eats hamburgers. Jarvis, a third-year student at the University of Wisconsin, works for the University's cafeteria, where he is responsible for preparing and serving food.

Jarvis has been working in the cafeteria for three years and has developed a passion for cooking. He says that he enjoys the challenge of creating new dishes and experimenting with different ingredients. He is particularly proud of his chili recipe, which has won him several awards.

Jarvis believes that his job at the cafeteria is a great way to get hands-on experience in the food service industry. He says that he hopes to use this experience to land a job in the restaurant business after graduation. He is also considering going to culinary school to learn more about cooking.

Council Schedules Various Debates

The Student Council has scheduled a number of debates and discussions for the coming weeks. The topics include the university's budget, the student union, and the future of the university. The council is also planning a series of town hall meetings to discuss issues of concern to students.

The debates and discussions are open to all students and will be held in the student center. The dates and times for the events will be announced shortly.

Bedien, Curtis to Direct Student Plays Tuesday

David Bedien, a junior at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, will direct "The Great Gatsby," a play directed by a student at a nearby college. The play will be performed on Tuesday evening in the college's auditorium.

Bedien is a member of the college's drama club and has directed several plays in the past. He says that he is excited to direct a play that has not been performed on campus before.

Bedien says that he and his team are working hard to put on a great performance. He says that he hopes the audience will enjoy the play and will leave with a better understanding of the book.

Increase Seen In Teaching Jobs, Reports Bureau

There is a growing demand for teaching jobs, according to a recent report from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The report predicts that the number of teaching jobs will increase by 20% over the next decade.

The report attributes the increase to the growing population and the increasing number of students who are pursuing higher education. The report also notes that there is a shortage of qualified teachers, particularly in certain subject areas.

The report recommends that states increase their funding for education and that schools hire more teachers from underrepresented groups. It also suggests that schools provide more support for teachers, such as professional development opportunities.

Saysle's to Attend Cornell Meeting

Girard Saysle, a senior at the University of Wisconsin, will attend a meeting of the Student Association of the State of Wisconsin. The meeting is scheduled for next week and will be held at Cornell College in Iowa City.

Saysle is a member of the student association and is excited to attend the meeting. He says that he hopes to learn more about the organization and to meet other students who share his interests.

Saysle says that he is looking forward to attending the meeting and to discussing issues of concern to students. He says that he hopes the meeting will be successful in addressing these issues.

Canadian Soldiers to Get Post-war College Fees

Montreal, Canada, April 25 — Canadian soldiers who served during World War II will receive college fees after the war. The government announced the plan today, saying that it is in recognition of the sacrifices made by the soldiers.

The plan, known as the "Post-war College Fee Plan," will provide up to $2,000 in tuition fees for soldiers who served in the armed forces. The government says that it is a way to help soldiers who wish to continue their education.

The plan is expected to benefit thousands of soldiers who served during the war. The government estimates that there are approximately 400,000 soldiers who qualify for the plan.
Tell It To The Marines

Recently, all newspapers in the country, large and small, received a call for the purchase of "Code of Wartime Practices" by the War Department. This page was printed at the request of many who wished "an outline of newspaper and magazine practices which the Government feels are desirable for the effective prosecution of the war." It is extremely significant that this outline was voluntarily requested by the newspapers, for their desire has been to serve the interests of the American government and the War Department.

The following section is reproduced, in full, relating to regulations which should be avoided in publications:

"No mention shall be made of enemy plane, warship, or troop movements, or of any other military information, especially what we are not sure about." (This does not apply to general war maps showing V郾C areas.)

"A request by the newspapers for their own use, because it is extremely significant that this outline was voluntarily requested by the newspapers, for their desire has been to serve the interests of the American government and the War Department.

Censorship, a pamphlet entitled "Code of Wartime Practices," was recently issued by the Weather Bureau.

Recently, all newspapers in the country, large and small, received a call for the purchase of "Code of Wartime Practices" by the War Department. This page was printed at the request of many who wished "an outline of newspaper and magazine practices which the Government feels are desirable for the effective prosecution of the war." It is extremely significant that this outline was voluntarily requested by the newspapers, for their desire has been to serve the interests of the American government and the War Department.

The following section is reproduced, in full, relating to regulations which should be avoided in publications:

"No mention shall be made of enemy plane, warship, or troop movements, or of any other military information, especially what we are not sure about." (This does not apply to general war maps showing V郾C areas.)

"A request by the newspapers for their own use, because it is extremely significant that this outline was voluntarily requested by the newspapers, for their desire has been to serve the interests of the American government and the War Department.

Censorship, a pamphlet entitled "Code of Wartime Practices," was recently issued by the Weather Bureau.
Closing of Library Troubles Students; Will Suffer Scholastically, Socially

Though Neglected, Hallway "ministry" a challenge

Theological Seminary and was or­ ted to, or in favor of the new

Shay

Sad are the hearts of many State

In last week's NEWS

Nagengast

and

EMIL J. NAGENGAST

Correction is to be made in story as it appears in this issue of NEWS.

A special Lenten program is slated

State to Go Irish At Harp's Riot

State Summer Session Will Begin July 56

State Council Schedules March Debates

SEB Lists Result Of Job Survey Throughout U.S.

Can They Bomb America?—See Albany Exhibit

Cheng-Ching Will Hear

Rev. McNulty of Soochow. All students

The following Wednesday, March

Promotion of Myskania Slaughter

Though Neglected, Hartley

at

Students Neglectful Of Vending Machines

State Alumni Branch Plans Annual Dance

GOP Press Association Convention. At

AD to Close Season Of One Act Plays

Dr. Morris and Miss

and Betty

State Career Council Schedules Spring Conference

Schafer, Plan Narrowing of Study

State College News

State Vegetable "Ministry" To Be Closed

Dr. Hartley has been vilely throughout the State University System of New York. The survey was conducted by the SEB.

The lowest salary for inexperi­

The sun is intense, even though it is

Dr. Sayles assures

Dr. Sayles assures

The following Wednesday, March

The first play, a tragedy directed

Clearance of Text Book Machines

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News

State College News