Picture this: a huge press gathering has assembled in the Wildcat Stadium for the most important press conference in the history of the Wildcat Athletics Department. After all the publicity that the Wildcat basketball team has received, the media was more excited about this press conference than any other event in recent memory.

Dr. Neil Goldstein, the new head coach, stepped to the podium and gave his opening remarks. "Thanks for coming out today," he said eagerly. "I have a lot to say, and I hope you're all ready to listen." The reporters leaned forward, eager to hear what the new coach had to say.

"I'm excited about this team," Dr. Goldstein continued. "We have a lot of talent, and I believe we can make a real run at the league championship this year." The reporters nodded in agreement, eager to write up the story.

The press conference lasted for over an hour, with Dr. Goldstein answering questions from reporters about the team's strengths, weaknesses, and plans for the season. The reporters took notes, eager to write up the story.

"I believe in this team," Dr. Goldstein said to conclude the press conference. "I believe we can make a real run at the league championship this year." The reporters nodded in agreement, eager to write up the story.

The press conference ended with Dr. Goldstein thanking the reporters for coming out and promising to keep them updated on the team's progress throughout the season.
Judicial Conference Discusses Procedures, Jurisdictions

A Judicial Conference involving 55 representatives from America, Canada, and California, was held in Brubacher Hall on February 4th. The purpose of the conference was to discuss judicial procedures and set up jurisdictional lines for the new court system.

The conference began with a keynote address by the Honorable Jerry Leazier, President of the American Bar Association. He spoke on the importance of a strong judicial system and the need for clear jurisdictional lines.

The conference continued with a series of presentations from judges and legal experts from various jurisdictions. They discussed the history of the area from its founding until the present day, and considered how the evolution of the legal system has shaped the present day system.

The conference ended with a panel discussion on the future of the judicial system in America. Participants discussed the challenges facing the court system, and considered ways to improve its effectiveness.

Throughout the conference, participants also discussed the importance of education for law students. They considered how to ensure that law students receive the best possible education, and how to ensure that the legal system remains accessible to all.
To any kid who'd like to leave home:

We'll pay half your fare.

The idea's not as crazy as it may seem. Anytime you take a jet up, there are almost always leftover seats. So it occurred to us that we might be able to fill a few of them, if we gave the young people a break on the fare, and a chance to see the country.

The American Youth Plan

We call it the American Youth Plan, and what it means is this: American will pay half the jet coach fare for anybody 12 through 23. It's that simple. All you have to do is prove your age (a birth certificate or any other legal document will do) and buy a $3 identification card.

We will stamp the card, and this entitles you to a half-fare ticket at any American Airlines counter.

The only catch is that you might have to wait before you get aboard; the fare is on a standby basis. "Standing by" simply means that the passengers with reservations and the stewardesses get on before you do.

Then the plane leaves. The American Youth Plan is good year round except for a few days before and after the Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas rush.

If you can't think of any place you'd like to go aboard, you might see a travel agent for a few suggestions. We can't add anything else. Other than that, it's a marvelous opportunity to just take off.

Complete this coupon—include your $3, please.

Who Decides?

Football has been much discussed on these pages. Now information has become available.

As of right now, the Athletic Advisory Board still does not have a full contingent of faculty members. Up until this year there was only one faculty member ever appointed by President Collins. Last year the AAB asked that a group be set up to formulate the long range goals of the University's athletic program. President Collins ignored the request for months, offering to set up a board only very late in the year. The condition for setting up a board to establish tentative long range goals was that the members of the Athletic Advisory Board accept a fully modern role of handling only procedural tasks.

His alternatives was that he would give the overall goals and give up any further powers over the operations of the athletic program. Virtually every student who has surived the boycott in recent years has come up with the same answer. President Collins is standing in the way of football at this campus is President Collins.

If President Collins provides funds for the program that the state does, we would be able to accept the dictatorial role of President Collins.

Since every cent of the program comes directly from the hips of the students and the state and because that these taxes must be "voluntarily imposed students," we feel that the students should have a lot more to say about the running of the program.

President Collins has stated that we are dealing with a "minor" issue. A minor issue is not an issue that is offended by the current procedure. A change is needed.

Bus Service

To the Editor:

The end of the semester brings special pressures to the commuter students. Many of us find ourselves using the bus on a daily basis.

I would like to suggest that the bus service be expanded to meet the needs of the commuter students. There are several changes that could be made to improve the service:

1. Increase the frequency of buses during peak hours to reduce waiting times.
2. Provide real-time updates on bus schedules and locations.
3. Consider adding more bus stops to provide easier access to the campus for students living off-campus.

I believe that these changes would greatly enhance the overall commuting experience for students and would be a worthwhile investment for the University.

Sincerely,

Bluesy Baldwin Emphasizes Sense of Individual Sorrow

by Mr. John Ballery

The blues express misery, and while Sonny plays, his in other, the audience is immediately drawn to him. The blues is a music that is deeply personal and emotional.

The first point requires the guerilla to think of the enemy as a human being, and try to understand his situation. This is not an easy task, as the enemy is often seen as a faceless mass.

The second point requires the guerilla to adopt a guerrilla warfare strategy, one which is least understood and most difficult to defend. This requires the guerilla to use small portions of fighting and propaganda to defeat the enemy.

The third point is that the guerilla must act, and not simply plan. This requires the guerilla to take action and not just wait for the enemy to act.

The fourth point is that the guerilla must be prepared to die. This requires the guerilla to be ready to make the ultimate sacrifice in order to defeat the enemy.

In devising a strategy for the guerilla, it is important to consider the enemy's strengths and weaknesses. This will help the guerilla to develop a plan that is most likely to succeed.

The Viet Cong have appealed to the masses, and have used this appeal to gain support for their cause. This requires the guerilla to be aware of the enemy's tactics and to be prepared to counter them.

The Viet Cong have attacked the Saigon regime. The Viet Cong promote a sense of solidarity and unity among the Vietnamese people.

The fourth point is probably the most important. The guerilla must be prepared to die.

In conclusion, the guerilla must be prepared to fight for his cause. This requires the guerilla to be prepared to make the ultimate sacrifice in order to defeat the enemy.
The Albany State Great Dane basketball team, winner of the last match out of an otherwise disappointing season, will play in the Capital City Christmas Tournament, to be held in a 90-record this weekend when the team visitest State tonight and Thrones College tomorrow night in several contests. In the last two months the Indians have come home to State, the University, Central, and Brooklyn College, while facing only to Central Connecticut and Portland.

In the game against the Capital City Tourney, played on December 31, the Danes easily defeated New Paltz, 94-72. The Danes lost in the first game of the Capital City Tourney, played on December 31, the Dane easily defeated New Paltz, 94-72.
