Fiscal Woes Prompt SUNY Hikes

by Andrea Herzberg

New York State's financial crisis will result in hikes on SUNY in the form of tuition and rent hikes for all state-operated campuses and the elimination of 88 positions across SUNY, if Governor Hugh L. Carey's newly proposed state budget is adopted by the legislature.

A section entitled "Message of the Governor" from the executive budget, which was released last Thursday, reads, "The University Board of Trustees is considering a tuition increase of at least $100 a year to avoid underfunding and slightly larger amounts for graduate and professional students and non-residents, in addition to raising dormitory rents $100 a year or more.

Another portion of the budget directed specifically to SUNYA recommends the reduction of 27 faculty, 26 faculty support, and 13 other positions in the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Voted reactions to the proposed budget were immediate. SUNY Chancellor Ernest E. Biever expressed his concern at the announcement of the cuts, saying, "The proposed 1976-77 Budget will severely hurt SUNYA. . . Proposed reductions must be reached. Final decisions as to what will be eliminated belong to Governor Carey's."

The newly-drafted members of the task force will hold their first meeting with Fields this afternoon at 3 p.m. Faculty members include: John Spacht, vacant, who will act as chairman; Jack Germain, Economics; Arthur Hitchcock, Counseling and Personnel Service; William Holstein, Dean, School of Business; Kathleen Kendell, Rhetoric and Communication; Henry Kusula, Chemistry; Ricardo Nunez, Mathematics; Vincent O'Leary, Criminal Justice; Frank Pogge, African and Afro-American Studies; John Ravenbach, Educational Psychology and Statistics; Richard Wilkinson, Anthropology. Appointed administrators include: John Hartigan, Assistant Vice President and Controller and Phillip Rios Gana, Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Two undergraduates serving on the committee are Ira Birnbaum and Henry Kuivila, Chemistry; Ricardo Nunez, Mathematics; Vincent O'Leary, Criminal Justice; Frank Pogge, African and Afro-American Studies; John Ravenbach, Educational Psychology and Statistics; Richard Wilkinson, Anthropology. WSUA-FM Draws Nearer As FCC Gets Application

U.S.P. Members Dissatisfied; Claim New Patent Policy Will Limit Their Freedom

Academic Freedom: United University Professors (UUP) is still unhappy with the revised patent policy which they say prevents instructors from sharing research findings with students.

The red tag is a form of a form of a cease-fire holding which was agreed to by both the Palestinian guerrillas and the Christians. The agreement calls for the return of the Palestinian guerrillas into Lebanon from Syria this week.

The U.S. and Spain have agreed to a defense treaty. This is the first defense treaty between the two countries. The treaty is intended to strengthen their military cooperation.

The Supreme Court has recommended the death penalty for the convicted murderer. The decision was made after a prolonged trial.

WSUA-FM, the campus radio station at SUNY Albany, is getting closer to receiving its own FM license. The FCC has approved the station's application.

ERA Failure Causes Many Women to Wrestle With Rights in NOW Split

by Carolyn DeCrow

"The existence of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) — in forty states of final ratification — has already prompted many opponents of women's rights to launch the most vocal and organized attack on the cause of women's liberation through the Supreme Court," Carolyn DeCrow said in a recent speech to the Inter-Sorority Council at SUNY Albany.

DeCrow, a member of the Majority Caucus of NOW, has been critical of NOW's goals and methods in the past.

"Many of the strategies used by NOW in the past have been ineffective," DeCrow said. "We need a new strategy that focuses on building support for women's rights at the local level."}

"Large scale cheating is not unique at Stanford University," said one student who was quoted in a recent article in the Stanford Daily. "It's all over the place, and it's easy to get away with." Many students at Stanford have reported seeing examples of cheating in both academic and extracurricular activities.

According to a recent survey conducted by the American Association of University Professors, 40% of college students have cheated on at least one test or exam. This figure is consistent with previous surveys, which have found that cheating is widespread across all levels of education.

The reasons for cheating vary, but they often include a desire to achieve better grades, pressure from peers, and the belief that cheating is a common practice. Many students feel that cheating is necessary to compete with their peers and achieve their desired level of success.

At Stanford, the administration has implemented stricter policies to combat cheating. In the past year, the university has increased the number of proctors and monitoring staff during exams, and has implemented more rigorous policies for academic misconduct.

"We need to be more proactive in addressing this issue," said Stanford President Jane Green. "We cannot continue to ignore the problem and hope that it will go away on its own."

Office of the editor

The Editor's Note

The book's author, a Chicago native, says the book is a work of fiction. He says he wrote the book because he wanted to tell a story about what happens when a young man becomes a journalist.

In his book, the author writes about how difficult it is to find a job in journalism and how much money he spends on his phone bill. He also talks about how many people he meets who are trying to get into journalism.

The author says he hopes that his book will inspire others to pursue a career in journalism.

The last part of the trip was the normal walking through. Closest of between two, a very busy and time-consuming. More information about the trip is on the next page. For the last time, I can only say the trip was a wonderful experience. The time in the Hippodrome was very pleasant. We had dinner there.

Fiction

Would someone please help me? I'm a student at The State to change my schedule around a bit, well, to be truthful, I wanted just one more.)

I must back up to the start of all this, but, instead, found my own adventure (the one who wasn't sick.)
We were up together, earliest, and I had no documents or the meat in her. I found her to be the tallest of my profession.

I found my own adventure, and to tell the truth, the junior for the Campus Center was very helpful, in telling me of someone else who could help me. I found myself wandering inside the Colonial Club beneath the Chief dishwasher who was to tell me where to go next.

Now, I finally did think the head librarian at Building 3 is the General Electric Complex was a little off on some book, but, nonetheless, I put it aside. It was, the idea of looking the Colonial Club
beneath the Chief dishwasher who was to tell me where to go next.

Poetry

The distant sound of flowers;
the warmth of the sun's embrace;
the caring of the uncondemned;
your love was never.

Your words and turns
at the turns,
for the first time in your life,
someone black;
the sound of your name...

I have imagined meeting you in a velvet easy chair
sitting nonchalantly in the throes of some dark dream you moan and turn between cool sheets.
Hindenburg: A Bomb

By Allen Fields

Universe’s tremendous push for The Hinden­burg during the Christmas season resulted in a big new character, a rather unique and intriguing character, Scott. Scott, Breeder, William Parents, was given, native, definite role. His on-screen presence, despite his newness, was immediately apparent. The character of Scott, Breeder, was played by the versatile actor, Scott, Breeder. He brought a unique quality to the role, and his performance was highly praised. The Hindenburg, which was played by the popular character, The Hindenburg, was also well received. Overall, the film was a success, and the characters of Scott, Breeder, and The Hindenburg were well received by audiences.

Mahavishnu Disbands

by Ralph Cook

The Mahavishnu Orchestra has disbanded, bringing an end to a group that was one of the most innovative and influential in the world of jazz and rock. The group was founded in 1969 by John McLaughlin, who was later joined by other key musicians such as Bob Brozman, Larry Coryell, and Jean-Luc Ponty.

The group's music was characterized by its use of Indian rhythms and instrumentation, as well as its innovative approach to electric guitar playing. The Mahavishnu Orchestra was known for its complex and virtuosic improvisations, which were often performed in real-time during live concerts.

Despite the group's success and influence, McLaughlin announced in January 1976 that the Mahavishnu Orchestra would be disbanding. The group's final concert took place on January 26, 1976 at the Fillmore East in New York City.

Although the Mahavishnu Orchestra disbanded, the individual members went on to pursue successful careers in their own right. John McLaughlin continued to perform and record as a solo artist, while other members such as Bob Brozman and Larry Coryell continued to work together in various projects.

Venusian Summer

Former Mahavishnu Leader John McLaughlin

McLaughlin's future is now secure, with albums out next month, two electric jazz albums in the future, and something coming from his new group, which hasn't been named yet. The album's name is entitled "Venusian Summer," and it is Mahavishnu without strings and horns. There is a general pop music that makes the group sound more like a rock or pop band. The group's sound is a mix of electric jazz and rock, with a strong influence from McLaughlin's previous projects.

Recently, McLaughlin has been working on a new album that is due out in the spring. The album is entitled "Venusian Summer," and it is a departure from the Mahavishnu Orchestra's previous work. The group is now more focused on a more accessible sound, with less emphasis on the complex arrangements and improvisations of the Mahavishnu era.

McLaughlin is also planning to perform with his band in Europe later this year. The group is scheduled to play shows in Germany, France, and Spain, and is expected to stay in Europe for several months. The group's future plans include a world tour in the summer of 1976, with stops in Asia, Africa, and South America.
The Wit And Wisdom Of The Spartans

The Spartan Chiron, one of"Seven Sages"

The Spartan system was not to use this manner of speaking even in the foreign relations. When Philip of Macedon appeared before the Spartans, he was not permitted to see the city at all. "Gentlemen, when a slave wants to go to the bath in a slave's manor, he must first be dressed up to the mark. When a Spartan, however, had a slave treated as a slave, he said, 'That is just what I would do.'" The Speaker's answer was that the slave was not a slave but was a child of the master.

Greek maxims, "Know Thyself."

The Classical Forum

"The famous King of Thebes, Alexander, was walking through a market place when a man came up to him and said, "Gentlemen, I say, when a slave wants to go to the bath in a slave's manor, he must first be dressed up to the mark. When a Spartan, however, had a slave treated as a slave, he said, 'That is just what I would do.'" The Speaker's answer was that the slave was not a slave but was a child of the master.

food for thought

To the Editor:

"Chicken or Swedish meatball?"

"Well, I'm not sure," I replied. "What would you like?"

"I want the girl behind the counter."

"Chicken and beans without the potatoes," I heard myself saying.

Since it was a busy day I increased the menu by adding a chicken and vegetables plate. When the customer was finished with the dish I asked my friend, "Don't you think you should have asked for more?"

"But it was enough as it was," he replied. "What's so important about the food?"

I smiled, knowing that I had made a good decision.

Students complete about the food, but do they ever think of us who have to cook every day? I wonder how many people actually enjoy our food. It is served, and even though it is not always enjoyed, it is still food and so much more than just a meal.

To the Editor:

"Lending support to the theme, we could have done "Uncle Ben's Converted" which promised to be a hit with the student body.

"But it was a flop," I responded.

"What a waste! Even though the food isn't of the highest quality it is still food and so much more than just a meal.

"The potatoes out." The girl replies, "Well, just take the plate and throw the potatoes out."

I agreed and the customer was happy.

"Are we actually too busy to care, or do we simply not care?"

The theme of the day is "Food and Hunger."

"Inherent in the "new weapon" is friendship. It is a symbol of a people taking their fate into their own hands. It is a symbol of the power of the people."

Alumni Hoop Contest~

Saturday, January 31, all the special moments for students and faculty of the University of Albany will be on the line.

The tournament will also be a fundraiser for the Albany-Prudential family activities.

The tournament will feature two teams of former Great Dane players. Following the regular season, there will be a reception sponsored by the Basketball Booster Club, in the third floor lounge of the physical education building.

AMIA Turnovers Set

All persons interested in participating in the AMIA, 1985 Program for the 1985-1986 academic year are required to attend the AMIA registration meeting at the University at Albany, NY (place and time to be announced).

Coach Dick Sauer and members of the AMIA organization of the exception, who is open to the public, will be on hand to answer questions and staff the university.

Great Danes Remain Undefeated

While the victory has been a 5-1 defeat, the game was decided in the first round of the Manhattan tournament, but without any doubt. The Manhattan team is the best team in the country, and the Danes have been beaten twice in the season.

With Corning winning the tournament and playing well, the Danes are playing well. The Danes have won 10 games in a row.

The Pups are having an exciting year, which will continue as they make their way through the tournament.

Alumni Hoop Contest~

Saturday, January 31, all the special moments for students and faculty of the University of Albany will be on the line.

The tournament will also be a fundraiser for the Albany-Prudential family activities.

The tournament will feature two teams of former Great Dane players. Following the regular season, there will be a reception sponsored by the Basketball Booster Club, in the third floor lounge of the physical education building.

AMIA Turnovers Set

All persons interested in participating in the AMIA, 1985 Program for the 1985-1986 academic year are required to attend the AMIA registration meeting at the University at Albany, NY (place and time to be announced).

Coach Dick Sauer and members of the AMIA organization of the exception, who is open to the public, will be on hand to answer questions and staff the university.

Great Danes Remain Undefeated

While the victory has been a 5-1 defeat, the game was decided in the first round of the Manhattan tournament, but without any doubt. The Manhattan team is the best team in the country, and the Danes have been beaten twice in the season.

With Corning winning the tournament and playing well, the Danes are playing well. The Danes have won 10 games in a row.

The Pups are having an exciting year, which will continue as they make their way through the tournament.

Aquamen Bow To RPI

Brian Barker and Grady Charles go for their jammyenny versus Palm.

The Aquamen, a swim and dive team at SUNY at Albany, competed against RPI in a meet earlier this season. The Aquamen won the meet, 99-69, in what has now become a annual event between the two teams.

Danes Drop First SUNYAC Contest, 69-62; Fall One Back of Oneonta

The Albany varsity basketball team ended its unusual season on Wednesday, when the first Danes basketball team met the Oneonta men for the SUNYAC championship and the NCAAs held in Albany.

Oneonta won Saturday, 87-66, as what has been a season of ups and downs for the Danes. The Red Dragons fell to 1-13 in the SUNYAC, and defeated but still shocked their opponents.

The Oneonta men were upset by the SUNYAC's leading scorer, Mike Suprunowicz, who had a game-high 25 points. The Danes, on the other hand, were surprised by their own shooting, as they hit 11 of 25 shots from the field and 10 of 19 shots from the free throw line.

Fields Hints At Further Position Cuts As SUNYA Tightens Its Belt

“Although there has been no official statement, many team members are concerned that the school’s athletic budget is being cut. The administration has not yet announced any specific cuts, but there are rumors that some sports might be discontinued.”

Fields hinted that the school’s athletic budget might be further reduced. The administration has not yet announced any specific cuts, but there are rumors that some sports might be discontinued.

One of the sports that is most likely to be cut is the Danes women’s basketball team. The team has had a successful season so far, winning five of its first seven games. However, the administration has been quiet about its future.

The Danes women’s basketball team is one of the top teams in the SUNYAC, and has a strong record of success. The team has won the SUNYAC championship three times in the past four years, and is currently ranked second in the conference.

Albany State's Women's Basketball team faced their first game of the season Thursday, 7-3 Siena, and went on to win with ease.

The game was held in the Convocation Center at SUNY at Albany. The women were led by guard Mary Ann Cox, who scored 22 points on 9-of-11 shooting. Cox was named the tournament’s Most Outstanding Player.

The Danes were able to outscore the Saints in every quarter, with scores of 26-10, 21-11, 23-13, and 24-10. The Danes made 29 of 58 shots (50%) for the game, compared to 17 of 45 (38%) for Siena.

The Danes’ coaching staff was pleased with the team’s performance.

“The girls played well together,” said Coach John Knoche. “They worked hard and played with determination.”

The Danes are currently 4-0 on the season and will continue their home schedule when they host St. Bonaventure on Saturday, 11-10.
