Looking To The Future

October 6, 1941 found a war-torn Europe entering a third year of struggle with a stubborn Germany triumphant on all fighting fronts attempting to strike a final blow which would end the configuration victorious. That date found a reviewing army United States of America, the only nation to keep itself out of armed conflict, preparing to select a president, maneuvering in the midst of uncertainty and opportunity.

The NEWS, like the student body, is war conscious, decreasing in numbers as multitudinous as the creatures of the earth and increasing in numbers as the stars of the firmament. It stands now at the threshold of a new era and looks back to the years between the two wars to determine what the students have done, and what the students might do.

Under such conditions was the NEWS born and under such conditions, and the NEWS celebrates its silver anniversary tomorrow—seventy-five years after the appearance of the first issue. Once again we find a student body war conscious, maneuvering in the midst of uncertainty and opportunity, and dissolved by a war-torn Europe.

The growth of the NEWS reflects the growth of the student body through those years. We weathered the storm of depression years, expanded during boom times, tided over criticism through those years. It came to a student population whose interests were diversified between classroom and athletic field. Naturally the NEWS became one of the few organized, completely student run publications.

The paper was read by a State College student body which looked to the future with honest optimism and a willingness to accept the responsibilities of the present.

And the NEWS must distinguish between privileges and rights and must accept the responsibilities of the present. It must be a voice for those who would be better informed in the midst of uncertainty and opportunity. It must distinguish between the rights and must accept the responsibilities of the present. It must be a voice for those who would be better informed in the midst of uncertainty and opportunity. It must distinguish between the rights and must accept the responsibilities of the present. It must be a voice for those who would be better informed in the midst of uncertainty and opportunity. It must distinguish between the rights and must accept the responsibilities of the present. It must be a voice for those who would be better informed in the midst of uncertainty and opportunity.

to make. After a hard day's work, the bird watchers turned their backs on the market square and went to the Zocalo, a large plaza in the center of Mexico City. Here, they set up their tents and began their work.

Dr. Sutton, a distinguished bird artist, painted a bird each day. He devoted much of his time to obtaining specimens, and in addition, pursued a project of his own. His aim was to make a natural color motion picture record of rare birds which have never been filmed. Complementary footage of other birds was included in the film. A record of the trip was also made, and the party returned to the United States with a wealth of information.

Each member of the expedition helped in the general collection and preparation of bird specimens, and in addition, pursued a project of their own. The ornithologists used this method of transportation in their work and worked on his semi-popular book on Mexican birds. This stop was made in the market square of tiny Gomez Farias.
Frosh Co-ed's First Week Is One Big Whirl

Indiana State Teachers College at Terre Haute chose Lorajean Doup as "typical freshman" then photographed her through the many steps connected with her first campus enrollment this fall. Lorajean learned that getting into college is not so easy, let alone getting through to graduation in an average of four years. Follow her through the maze of freshman week routine and activity in this unusual series of candid pictures.

Lorajean called at the Registrar's office in good season to make out her class program, but she learned that there had been many ahead of her. Lots of the favorite professors already had full classes.

During a psychology examination Lorajean tries to brush from her mind all the confusion of what seems the biggest and most exciting day of her life long enough to solve brain teasing problems.

After a complete physical examination she gets a "passport photograph" and a number to go on the activities card which will admit her to campus events throughout the term.

Midway in orientation week the whirl of sorority rush activities began. Lorajean had "rushes" from three of the eight sororities at the outset, by week's end was on virtually all the lists.

There still remained the formality of getting into college. After signing her name to nearly a score of blanks and filling out repetitious data for nearly an hour, Lorajean stands in line with others of the 500 new students.

Blind dates are part and parcel of the first week on campus. There she was apostate at the door of the Women's Residence Hall which will be her home for some time.

Lorajean decided that she would like to be studied to the oldest sorority on the campus, Alpha. When she found she had been accepted she made merry in the favorite campus hangout with her future sisters.

The "typical freshman" will be a science student for she wants to become a laboratory technician. Dr. G. David Koch of the Science department checks her enrollment. She's cleared all the first hurdles of college life in addition to making the sorority of her choice so Lorajean is pretty happy as she sets out for her first class. From now on it's study.

Workin' Behind the Curtain

All the world's a stage, and collegians are acting and acuerdo in acts. These scenes, taken during final rehearsal time for the premiere of George Washington Slept Here, at Syracuse University's Civic Theater, show typical activity which will be found in dramatic circles on every campus this fall — for fall is truly show time.

Woman, thy characteristic is vanity. Jane Cutting, ingenue of the show, makes up between scenes. This training in makeup technique should prove invaluable in later life.

Traffic it quite a problem on rehearsal days. Crossings and recrossings have to be figured out so that bump and direct hits are not made by the actors. At this point in the play droves of expected and unexpected weekend guests are arriving so the timing of entries must be perfect. It's all hard work but every actor loves it.
