NY legislators seek South African divestment

By James Thomas

The end of public funds being invested in South Africa, long a priority for the Student Association for South Africa (SASU), may become a reality with legislation recently introduced into the legislature.

"We feel that the time has come for South Africa, said Andrew Chin, a SASU intern, adding, "SASU feels that there is a need to divest from South Africa, according to Jerry Goetz. "He seems to be looking at the South African question as a whole.

Lecture schedule

Tuesday, March 5

"I'm thrilled that the week has been a success," said Farrell.

\"You can't put a price on the support of the students,\" he said.

According to Wray, there are three subsidiaries of the university that are involved in the divestment movement, which are the University, The University Choir, and the University Choir's Thespian Society.

The most visible event of World Week is the Ethnic Block Party which will be held Tuesday from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Campus Center.

The week will be brought to a close with a performance by the University Choir on Thursday, March 7 at 9:00 p.m.

The University Choir will also perform in the Jewish Lounge (CC 375) at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 7.

"We are convinced that our visit will play a positive role for the development of friendship between the two parliaments," said the Chinese delegation leader.

Feminist Alliance is reborn with more clearly defined objectives

By Pam Conner

After a period of disorganization, the Feminist Alliance has regrouped and adopted a new statement of purpose in an effort to more effectively address issues of concern to women students at SUNYA.

According to FA's co-chair, Shank Mathews, and according to the new statement of purpose, the main objectives of the group are to encourage the development of a women's consciousness, to organize a technical operations program, and to return the new system to the educational department.

As a result of the development of relations between black women and members of the new system, it was felt that the group would function more effectively as a women's organization. The purpose of the new system is to promote the development of a women's consciousness, to organize the group, and to encourage young women to participate in technical operations programs.

Solution sought to graduation guessing game

By Kathy Mehl

With the admission decision day now behind us, many students are looking towards the future with hope. As the process continues, a new system is being developed to help students make better guesses about their chances of being accepted.

This new system, developed by the Educational Counseling Center (ECC), is designed to help students make better guesses about their chances of being accepted. The system is based on a number of factors, including the student's GPA, their standardized test scores, and their extracurricular activities.

According to the ECC, the new system is more accurate than the old system, which relied on a complex algorithm. The new system is expected to be more reliable, as it takes into account a wider range of factors.

Panelists scrutinize many facets of arms race

By Charles Coon

A panel of experts met at the Educational Communications Center (ECC) to discuss the technical aspects of the operation of the new 'dishes.' The panelists, who included the technical operations supervisor for the Educational Communications Center (ECC) and the communications center (ECC) communications manager, were joined by other experts from various fields.

The panelists discussed the technical aspects of the operation of the new 'dishes,' including the installation of three new telecoms, the technical aspects of the operation of the new 'dishes,' and the future of arms control.

Frosh going back to basics with remedial courses

By EC

The University has decided to require all Frosh to take remedial courses in order to ensure that all students have a solid foundation in mathematics and science.

The decision to require all Frosh to take remedial courses has been met with mixed reactions. Some students are happy to have the opportunity to strengthen their skills, while others are concerned about the impact on their schedule.

Liberal arts grads market skills for small firms

"It's hard for a liberal arts graduate to find a job," said Nancy Wolters, a senior at Michigan State University who plans to take her first job at a small firm. "Many companies are looking for people with technical or oral skills, both written and oral," she added. Wolters, who is a liberal arts graduate, said that the number of firms looking for liberal arts graduates has increased substantially over last year.

Through her contacts, Wolters was interviewed by about 10 corporations. "I'd like to believe that people can operate in the business world, instead of their own subject," she said. Wolters was, after all, an English major.

"I said 'Do you realize that I'm not from a business background?'" she said. "But they all said they wished they had been a liberal arts graduate." Wolters, who will go to work for a small firm after graduation this spring, was, in fact, interviewed by many large corporations.

"I thought for a moment, college placement of liberal arts graduates market skills for small firms, but now I realize that the number of firms looking for liberal arts graduates is no larger than for their majors." Wolters said.

John Lindquist, a senior at the University of Michigan, also agreed. "It's hard for a liberal arts graduate to find a job," he said. Community service to remain intact

By Donor Clark

Although the recent move of SUNY's Community Service Division to Albany may be an unfortunate change to those who work with them, no changes in the program are to be expected, Clark said.

SUNY Chancellor Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., has plans to increase community service programs at SUNY campuses across the state.

A significant aspect of the Bronze Age, according to Paul Wallace, is the period that covers the late Bronze Age, which includes the late 10th to 15th centuries. This period is important because it was a time of intensive surveying and the location of archaic classical art was found. Explorers were sure of this period, and there has been an increase in that area,

The expeditionary crew also identified the discovery as a Bronze Age settlement. This area in northern Cyprus, which was previously surveyed by a great many people, was also an expert on the Persian war and the 1974 Turkish invasion. Outta the garage

The Vipers. New York City's "Diving Bar" punk rockers, are still at the top of their game Friday, March 1, at Parkside, 113 W. 10th St. They are the latest manifestation of the New York garage scene, an ever-growing explosion of original music. The Vipers are a group that has been around since the late '60s, when they were known as the "Trash Can Band." Their music is a raw, unpolished mix of garage rock and punk, with a strong influence from the early days of rock and roll. Their sound is characterized by a fast, aggressive tempo and a raw, uninhibited energy.

The Vipers are also known for their energetic live shows. Their performances are filled with a sense of raw, unfiltered energy that is sure to get you up off your chair and dancing the night away. They are a band that is not afraid to let loose and have a good time, and they are sure to bring the same level of excitement to the Parkside stage on Friday night. So come out to Parkside and experience the high-energy excitement of the Vipers live on stage.

The Smiths

The Smiths are a British indie rock band from the late 1980s. The band was formed in 1982 and consisted of Morrissey (vocals), Johnny Marr (guitar), Andy Rourke (bass), and Mike Joyce (drums). They were known for their dark, introspective lyrics and their distinctive sound.

One of their most popular songs is "Measles," which is a song about a child who gets sick and has to stay home from school. It is a simple, yet powerful song that perfectly captures the essence of Morrissey's style.

Another great song from The Smiths is "This Charming Man," which is a song about a man who is being used by a woman. The song is a commentary on the ways in which men are often manipulated by women.

The Smiths are known for their unique sound and their powerful lyrics. They were one of the first bands to gain popularity in the UK indie scene, and they have had a lasting influence on the genre.

Lecture Center transformation

The lecture center transformation was a major renovation project completed in 2018. The center was completely updated and modernized, with new technology and facilities. The project included the installation of new lecture halls, the creation of new study spaces, and the addition of new technology for the delivery of lectures.

The lecture center is now one of the most modern facilities on campus, with state-of-the-art technology and comfortable seating. It is a great place for students to attend lectures and study, and it is sure to be an asset to the University for years to come.

Shyster tricks

Four to six hundred women will probably have the Albany area to get abortions this year.

In fact, health department studies show that many women are too poor or too ashamed to get abortions than any other comparable city in the state.

Currently, an abortion in the Albany area costs nearly $100 less than it does in New York City. But the Catholic Church doesn't think so.

The Albany Roman Catholic Diocese has put the Health Department in court in an attempt to stop the opening of an abortion clinic on Lark Street. The church officials claim they aren't fulfilling the constitutional guarantees that women have the right to an abortion.

The Health Department hasn't properly informed the public of its intention to open.

Actually, they've taught the Health Department on a procedural technicality. They maintain that the health department failed to follow proper internal procedures in running Planned Parenthood's request for a permit.

So, while the church fights our an ideological dispute with the government under the guise of a concern for proper procedure, the Catholic Church is willing to have the poor women of the Albany area forced to get abortions.

Others will abort abortions on their own, and will not only be less safe, but will also cause a decrease in the number of women who chose their lives. And others will only have access to abortion clinics if they are forced to.

The position of the Catholic Church is one of shortsightedness to the children, who are less than fully formed, and to women, who are more likely to be in harm's way.

The church's position may not always be the position that is best for women, but it is the only position that ever matters.

In this case, the church is wrong.

The health department has proven the need for a low cost, accessible, abortion clinic in Albany.

We should support the Health Department in its efforts to save lives.

Election reform: Now

Since its creation dozens years ago as a nation-based University of New York, SUNY-UB has actively supported many causes and movements that are in line with the university's mission.

One such cause is the reform of the political system.

The Student Association of the State University of New York (SUNY) has been active in this cause, and has been working to improve the accessibility and efficiency of the voting process.

Recently, SUNY-UB has launched a new initiative to help students register to vote and improve their understanding of the political process.

The initiative aims to create a more inclusive and accessible voting system, where students can easily register and vote.

At SUNY-UB, we believe that every student has the right to vote, and that every vote counts.

With the help of our students, we are working to ensure that everyone can participate in our democracy and have their voices heard.

SUNY-UB will continue to work towards this goal, and we encourage all students to get involved and make their voices heard.

Readers are encouraged to visit our website at https://www.albany.edu/sunyub for more information on how to register to vote and get involved in our democracy.

Community help

To the Editor:

Throughout the year, members of our university community have been actively involved with the local community. This is a great opportunity to show students how to contribute to the community.

One such initiative is the Community Action Project (CAP), which provides a program to help students explore their community service.

In New York State, our student and community members are very active in CAP, and are currently working on 24 different community service projects.

The projects focus on various issues, such as environmental conservation, education, and health care.

We are also excited to announce that we have received a grant from the National Center for Education and the Arts to support our efforts.

Thank you for your support and for helping us make a positive impact in our community.

Sincerely,

Lack of integrity

To the Editor:

It seems that the Albany Roman Catholic Diocese has been using its resources to try to restrict women's access to abortion.

This is unacceptable, and it goes against the principles of academic integrity.

To the Editor:

The ability of citizens to register and vote is hindered by laws and regulations that are designed to make it difficult for people to vote.

In 1984, the number of registered voters in the United States was 100 million. Of these, 60 million were female voters.

It is estimated that only 50 million of these women actually voted in the election.

According to the Center for the Study of Public Administration, the main obstacle to voting is the complexity of the registration process.

For many women, the process of registering to vote is a frustrating and time-consuming experience.

To combat this, the university has developed a new system for registering voters, which is designed to be simple and easy to use.

The system allows women to register to vote in the privacy of their homes, and to have their registration forms processed and mailed to them.

This system has been successful in increasing voter turnout, and has been praised by both the university and the voters.

We encourage all women to make use of this system, and to vote in the upcoming election.

Sincerely,

Faculty members of the Albany Rotary Club have secured a special April 18th, to be held at the University at Albany, for this year's career day event. This half-day career event will take students off the campus and into the community where they will spend the morning observing, interviewing and interacting with a local professional.

A wide range of occupations will be represented including:
1. Advertising
2. Banking
3. Business
4. Communications
5. Education
6. Insurance

Men's swim team captures seventh in States

By Donna Allen

The Albany State men's swim team finished the season with a splash, taking seventh place in the state competition this weekend in Potsdam.

"It was a really good season and a great season for the team," said coach John DeMeo. "We had an outstanding team and we have a lot of potential for next year." The team included four-time SUNYAC champion Mike Feldman, who broke six records during the season.

Chris Varley also scored in the 5(KX), outdistancing the field in a time of 18:50.7, and knowing what’s expected of them during the week ahead, he shot to Worcester. “Orville, shoot the ball.” So a man took Bailey out of the game for a main bomb.

Captains were outshined by the heroics of Mike Decillis who scored 17 points the night they scored 13 points, he did not. The Nazareth momentum continued as Bill Blacklock and Pete Simcone as well as Tira Lowe, froch off the bench, played a better ball game. Nazareth led for one event.

Donna is one hundred percent healthy to this year, but could only hit 5 of 12 against their back pockets, but a clever pickpocket Mike Decillis played all of his roles at least once. Ursprung missed both his free throws. Offense was non-existent as Tira Lowe, frch off the bench, played a better ball game. Nazareth led for one event.

WPI’s Orville Bailey outduels Dane backcourt

By John Chang

It wasn’t supposed to happen. It wasn’t supposed to happen the way it happened. But there it was, the ugly truth. This year, WPI dashed Anita Heath’s postseason dreams. Not only did WPI defeat Heath and her teammates 15-12, but the Engineers clinched the match by two points, 15-13.

The fact that WPI had managed to defeat the Albany team in three straight matches this season had stoked the Engineers’ hopes of pulling off another upset. But the Engineers took the first lead of the game by outscoring Albany 9-0 in a three-minute spree. At the buzzer, Dan Croutier ended a brilliant career in a disappointing fashion against WPI.

According to Saunders, the key play in the game was Albany’s ability to close with players on defense. "We converted on the offensive end, which was the key to the victory," said Dan Croutier.

The Danes were now playing a jump and run style of defense. "We converted on the offensive end, which was the key to the victory," said Dan Croutier.

As Kim Kosalek sank two free throws, the game was even. As the game wound down, the Eagles were down and then we could have slowed the game down and keep them on their toes. The Danes were now playing a jump and run style of defense. "We converted on the offensive end, which was the key to the victory," said Dan Croutier.

Seras is NCAA champ

But grapplers place distant 13th

By Cathy Feng

It's a familiar story at SUNY Albany.
Eleven hours of practice, years of sacrifice, and an incredible amount of self-discipline paid off for the SUNY Albany wrestling team.

Last Saturday night, the Albany State House took the title that had eluded them for 10 years, winning the NCAA Division III women's wrestling national championship. The victory was the first for SUNY Albany in the NCAA, and it was the culmination of a season that had been years in the making.

"It's a great moment for our team," said coach John M. Doherty. "We've been working hard for this, and it's nice to see it pay off."

The team's success was due in part to the dedication of its members. "I've been wrestling for five years, and I've never missed a practice," said senior captain Emily Seras. "I've given everything I have to this team, and it's nice to see it pay off."

The team's victory was also a testament to the support of its fans. "We had a lot of support from the fans," said Doherty. "They were there every step of the way, and it made a huge difference."

The women's wrestling team's success has set a new standard for SUNY Albany's athletic programs. "We hope to build on this success," said Doherty. "We want to continue to be a strong team, and we'll work hard to make that happen."

Danes ousted by WPI

OT loss ends Final Four dream

By Jerry Camplone

Saturday night, the Albany State House took on the WPI Engineers in the Final Four of the NCAA Division III men's basketball tournament. The Danes were looking to advance to the championship game for the first time in school history.

But the Engineers proved to be too much for the Danes, as they held a 15-point lead at halftime and never looked back. The Danes were able to cut the lead to nine in the second half, but WPI was able to maintain its lead and secure a 75-65 victory.

"It was a tough game," said Danes' head coach Ken Kaufman. "WPI was a tough team to beat, and they played a great game."

The Danes' season was not without its highlights, however. They advanced to the Round of 16 of the NCAA tournament, which was a significant accomplishment for the team.

"We had a great season," said Kaufman. "We worked hard and played well, and we accomplished a lot. But we just fell short in the end."

The Danes' loss to WPI ended their hopes of reaching the championship game. But they still have a lot to be proud of, and they'll be looking forward to next season.

"We'll be back," said Kaufman. "We'll work hard this summer and come back stronger next year. We'll be ready for the challenge."

History of quads belies stigmas

By Michelle Scharf

The SUNY Albany campus is home to four quads, each with its own unique character and history.

The Old Quad, located in the center of campus, is the oldest quad on the SUNY Albany campus. It was the original quad when the university was founded in 1874.

"The Old Quad is a symbol of the university's rich history," said SUNY Albany President Mark Zingarelli. "It's a place where students have gathered for generations to study, socialize, and engage in campus life."

The Old Quad is also the site of many events and celebrations throughout the year, from commencements and convocations to student rallies and protests.

The Old Quad's history is a testament to the university's commitment to education and community engagement. "The Old Quad is a place of learning and growth," said Zingarelli. "It's a place where students can come together to share their ideas and experiences, and to work towards a better future."

The Old Quad is just one of four quads on the SUNY Albany campus. The other three are the New Quad, the West Quad, and the East Quad.

Each quad has its own unique character and history, and they all contribute to the vibrant and diverse campus life at SUNY Albany.
