The Evolution of The Cinema

by Tom Quigley

The combination of the actor with the art of film has been long recognized. The greatest excitement of the actor in the world of film may be said to have been five. Critics have dug into their texts of their youth with the objectives to resolve the routine existence. In the course of reality of fleeting excitement and find that the past is every minute FACES, follows the exploits of other two experimental films; the tensions may seem narrow, banal, the nature of the actor as a actor and writer. His latest film absurdity that link all human ly interpersonal themes.

HUSBANDS

by Jeff Burger

LOVINGLY (1971) is directed by Don Siegel and written by Michael Glatzer. This is a far different story of love than that of "Love and Death," and than the much darker and much more violent story of "arya's Blaue Blume". The actors are excellent, and the production values are high. The film is set in a remote mountain area, and the characters are well developed. The story is about a man and woman who fall in love and then decide to live together. The man is a hunter, and the woman is a writer. They are both independent people, and they share a strong bond. The film is beautifully shot, and the music is powerful. The film is a

Album Reviews In Brief...

by Gary M. Reitman

Albums: The "Cold Day Express" and "The Measure Taken" were the double title that obtained the 1970-71 SUNYA Theatre season.
University Tunnels Useful For Travel and Exploration

Many rumors exist about Albany State's famed tunnels. The best way to find out is to explore. But the University does not encourage this since the tunnels are used for storage. Although these tunnels are often referred to as "the school basements," there is not the vast wasteland you might think. These tunnels are the veins of the campus, and they serve a vital function.

Albany State has a network of tunnels that connect most of the school buildings. These tunnels are not publically accessible; however, they are used by maintenance personnel and students. The tunnels are well maintained, and there are several exits throughout the campus. They provide a convenient route for students to travel from one building to another, especially during inclement weather.

The tunnels are divided into several sections, each serving a specific purpose. For example, some sections are used for storage, while others are used for utilities. There are also several emergency exits located throughout the tunnel system. These exits are typically marked with signs indicating their location and purpose.

Despite their usefulness, the tunnels are not without their challenges. Maintenance workers are sometimes faced with difficult conditions, such as extreme temperatures and humidity. In addition, the tunnels can be cluttered with debris, making it difficult to navigate.

Overall, the tunnels are a vital part of the campus infrastructure. While they may not be as glamorous as other parts of the campus, they play an important role in ensuring smooth operations. The tunnels are a testament to the dedication and hard work of the maintenance staff, who work tirelessly to keep the campus running smoothly.
Editorial Comment

Communication—Your Right

The value of a student newspaper lies largely in that it is a medium of expression. In a democracy, the right to express one's opinions and to be heard is a fundamental principle. Without this freedom of speech, democracy cannot exist. The Student Association is concerned with maintaining this freedom of speech for all students at the university. This is important because a student newspaper can be a powerful tool for conveying ideas and opinions to a wide audience.

The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper. This includes the right to write articles, to participate in the editorial process, and to contribute to the publication. The Student Association does not censor or limit the content of the student newspaper, and it is committed to ensuring that all students have the opportunity to express their opinions.

The Student Association recognizes that the student newspaper is not only a means of communication among students, but also a means of communication with the larger community. The Student Association believes that the student newspaper should be a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

Albany Student Press

The Albany Student Press is a weekly student newspaper of the State University of New York at Albany. The Student Press is published every Tuesday and Friday during the academic year (except during recesses) by the Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany. The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a registered student organization of the State University of New York at Albany.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany owns, publishes, and distributes the Albany Student Press. The Student Association is responsible for all content in the Albany Student Press.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is committed to the principles of free speech and the rights of students to express their opinions. We believe that the student newspaper should be a place where students can come together to discuss important issues and to voice their opinions. The Student Association supports the right of students to express their opinions in the student newspaper, and we are committed to ensuring that this right is upheld.

The Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany is a member of the College of Communications at the University of Alabama. The Student Association is committed to providing a quality student newspaper that is reflective of the diversity of the student body. The Student Association is committed to ensuring that the student newspaper provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and for the expression of diverse perspectives.
ALBANY STATE 1971

ASP photos by JOHN CHOW
Co-op Offers Low Price Albums

by Tony Houck

Editor’s Note: The following ad was originated in the March 26, 1971 edition of the Albany Student Press. It is reprinted here with the permission of the original publishers.

The Dove Street Co-op is proudly announcing its sixth month of operation. The Co-op purchases and sells many records to its members at an average of $1.55 per album. The Co-op offers many albums for less than a dollar.

The Co-op operates from the sixth floor of Anthony Hall from 8:30 to 4:30 daily. All Co-op members are welcome to stop by and check out the Co-op!

LAFAYETTE RADIO
“Everything In Electronics”

Stereo Components
Tape Recorders
Electronic Parts
AM-FM Radios
Tapes & Records
CB Equipment

5 convenient locations at —

ALBANY
79 College Avenue
462-9251

Schenectady
141 Fourth Avenue
346-6161

Glen Falls
707 Upper Boulevard
702-1992

Pittsburgh
422 Fourth Street
490-1620

The State University Bookstore offers a complete line of:

Athletic Equipment
Camera Supplies
Cassette Tapes
Cigarettes
Class Rings
Cosmetics
Gift Items
Greeting Cards
Jackets

Summer Hours
8:30 - 4:30 daily

Jewelry
Magazines
Paperback Books
Personal Items
Records
Reference Books
School Supplies
Stationery
Stereo Tapes
Sports at Albany State

Albany State University's basketball team has enjoyed a string of very good seasons and hopes to continue them this year.

Albany State's basketball team...
The State Capitol Building, home of the New York Legislature, in the heart of downtown Albany.

Despite recent controversy (including Grand Jury investigation), the South Mall Project is still under construction, with an anticipated completion now set for 1975 (8 years late). It is the largest and most expensive construction project in the world.

The area between the Capitol and Washington Park houses many people attempting to keep up these houses as private homes rather than as apartments.

Busses are the major method of transportation to and from Albany. Every student rides them at one stage or another in his or her college career; in Albany, the worst part of the journey is the hike from the bus station to the dormitories.

A tranquil winter spot in Albany's Washington Park, near Draper Hall. The park is used primarily by college students living in nearby apartments, older people, and some children. The snow is also a constant sight.