Election of officers of the freshman class will be necessary because the halls were elected in the freshman club. The freshmen are responsible for furnishing running water, electricity, and heat. Legal, it was announced yesterday. According to the decision of the student council. The only office which will require re-vote is Men's athletic manager. The halls voted for this officer were legal and George Taylor was deposed elected. Student council is very much distressed over this affair, said Bertha Zaida, 22, president of student association. Measures will be taken to prevent another such occurrence!

Held the voting been legal, re-votes could have been necessary for virtually every office. Louise Worlitz and Elizabeth Kehl were high in the freshman court, "said Mrs. Eaton said.

The freshman violators have been re-voted upon Friday and will be announced soon, according to Mildred A. Wilson, '27, the club president.

FOR TAx DODGERS

Will Eradicate Old "No's" A careful check-up on ticket collection was brought nearer this week following moves:

"The NEWS is doing a valuable service in aiding students in their work..." said Guy Maier and Lee Paterson will present a joint recital for two pianos at Christie's Hall, Thursday evening, at 8:40 o'clock, under the auspices of the Music Association. Students who have written their recital list will be admitted free only on presentation of their tax receipt. Following the recital, a reception will be held in the College of Agriculture, the on-campus office of the college. After the program the London Times said: "They are not only their technical but their spiritual abundance; a more perfect identity of thought between two pianos could not be imagined."

"GOVERNOR'S QUERY CALLED DISHONEST" however, to blame an entire class for what may have been the work of only a few irresponsible and unrepresentative members. Certainly the ballot boxes were stuffed; certainly freshmen stuffed them, therefore the election result; certainly freshmen should have foreseen the guilty ones and condemned them to the general contempt which their action deserves.

The freshman class as a whole will be rightly insignificant at the shadow cast upon its record by the illegal election. It will not deal lightly with the offenders. They should not be dealt with lightly. Cleverly handles in examination at State College. Voting in any other form has been equally as true. The present unquestionable occurrence demands nothing wholesale damnation of a class, nor wrangling of widespread corruption in that it brought investigation and severe punishment for the guilty.

O'NEILL WRITES HIS MASTERPIECE--MORE OF DUNSEY AND GALSWORTHY

The Great God Brown, the Fountain, the Moon of the Carpathians, Days of the Sea, and now, O'Neill's latest, $59.38 ps. New York: Boni and Liveright. Plays, Sixth Series. By John Galsworthy. $25.90. New York: Boni and Liveright. Alexander and Three Small Plays. By Lord Dunsany. 199 pp. $1.50. New York: Boni and Liveright. Play with a Prologue. By Mary Larrimer. $1.14. New York: Boni and Liveright. O'Neill has generated more deeply and more powerfully into the hidden reserves of human emotion in "The Great God Brown" than he has in any previous play--and that in our opinion is the greatest approval that can be given to any play. The Great God Brown is a masterpiece. The "Fountain" is a great work in its own right and an excellent program has been arranged. The "Moon of the Carpathians" is a modern miracle play, set not in the real world of 1914 and thereafter, for it takes us back to Belgium. We cannot but agree with O'Neill's "desire" that "The Great God Brown" will measure up against "Desire Under the Elysian Fields," or "Strife," of "Justice," or probably the "Fountain." 4. The "Fountain," in our opinion is the greatest approval that can be given to any play.--"The Great God Brown." O'Neill's masterpiece.

Messrs. Boni and Liveright have been generous in this fifth O'Neill's collected works. Among these last are two new and one revised play, "Where the Cross is Crowned," and "When the Cross is Crowned," which plays need no introduction to lovers of O'Neill. Lord Dunsany's plays, four of which are included in his latest volume, are marked, as have been his previous volumes, by the luxury of his words, the imagination of his metaphors, and the beauty of his work. Lord Dunsany's plays are a solace in the modern world. "The Moon of the Carpathians" has now been given a modern setting and the words are even more sacrosanct than ever. The "Moon of the Carpathians" is a modern miracle play, set not in the real world of 1914 and thereafter, for it takes us back to Belgium. We cannot but agree with O'Neill's "desire" that "The Great God Brown" will measure up against "Desire Under the Elysian Fields," or "Strife," of "Justice," or probably the "Fountain." 4. The "Fountain," in our opinion is the greatest approval that can be given to any play.--"The Great God Brown." O'Neill's masterpiece.

TEN YEARS AGO IN STATE COLLEGE

From the files of the News for Nov. 1, 1910

"On account of the late opening of the College this fall the Thanksgiving vacation will extend only over the Thanksgiving Day. All other vacations will be given as scheduled.

"The annual senior reception will be held on Friday evening, October 27, at 7:30. Zeta's orchestra will furnish the music, and an excellent program has been arranged. Dancing will be enjoyed.

"All who can sing or think they can sing should join in the festivities at once and arrange to get into their chorus singing. All classes, as in former years, will give an opera. Rehearsals will be held every Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9:10."
