Day Care Requests
Aid From Council

by Howard Mahler

The University Parents for Day Care, Incorporated requested thirty-two thousand dollars from the Central Council on September 2, 1971 for operating a Day Care Center in the basement of Pioneer Hall on Alumni Quadrangle. The Day Care Center was represented by Peter Pollak, a graduate student in the Educational Foundations Department. The Central Council currently controls an Emergency Spending line of approximately thirty-eight thousand dollars.

The requested expenditures include salaries, food, occupancy and supplies. Staff salaries would be twelve thousand dollars for a Director, ten thousand for a program Director/Registered Teacher, eighty-five hundred for an Infant Supervisor/Nurse, and six thousand for a Secretary/Bookkeeper. Food costs at five dollars per child per week would total twelve thousand dollars. Supplies, equipment, expenses, and insurance total four thousand dollars, resulting in a total of sixty thousand dollars. Pollak said that these salaries were set by the university last year.

The Day Care Center receives twenty-eight thousand dollars from parents. Parent fees are ten dollars per child per week. If appropriated, the thirty-two thousand dollars would cover eighty-eight salaries for thirty-five weeks.

Eric Joss attempted to amend the bill sponsored by Jack Schwartz to furnish the remaining appropriation. However, it was noted that it is difficult to hire a staff for eighteen weeks. Other councilmen proposed salary cuts and higher income fees from parents. Pollak explained at a later interview that he could not afford increased expenses, and insurance total four thousand dollars, resulting in a total of sixty thousand dollars. Pollak said that these salaries were set by the university last year.

If new sources of funds are not found after eighteen weeks, the Day Care Center would cease operations. Pollak, a graduate student in the Educational Foundations Department, was recently appointed by the University Parents for Day Care, Incorporated. The Day Care Center was represented by Peter Pollak, a graduate student in the Educational Foundations Department. Changes Appear Imminent
For S/U Grading System

A mandatory Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory grading system for all freshmen and sophomores was passed two years ago by the University Senate. A facet of the bill called for continuing review of the system. Now, two years later some proposals for change are beginning to take shape.

Last year the Committee on Academic Standing of the Undergraduate Academic Council allowed those in premedical programs an automatic exception to S/U grading upon receipt of a letter of petition. Some medical schools had indicated that without supplementary information to S/U grades, a student's admission might be adversely affected. Last year 225 petitions for A-E grading were approved by the committee. Of the 225 exceptions, 10 were granted for other than premedical reasons.

This summer and fall students under S/U grading were informed by Robert R. Morris, dean of undergraduate studies, that they had the right to petition for grades regardless of whether or not they were premedical students. This action was taken as a result of considerable discussion of the grading policy during the Summer Plenary Conference. During the summer it had originally been announced that no exceptions to S/U grading would be granted. This was the result of a decision reached by the Committee on Academic Standing that spring. However, since "some students planning to enter Albany as freshmen in the fall of 1971 believed that they might be able to receive an A-E grading," they were advised on July 28 and August 27 that they were free to petition the Office of Undergraduate Studies. Richard B. Freedman, assistant dean of undergraduate studies, stated that this action was merely a reaffirmation of the right of every student to petition for grades. On August 21 the Undergraduate Academic Council granted the requests of 108 petitioners for A-E grading for this fall semester. The vast majority of the students petitioning were in premedical training. Students were further informed that all petitions for letter grading had to be submitted for consideration by September 8. The committee had received 387 additional petitions since August 21.

This summer freshman applicants who were granted admission but chose not to attend Albany were sent an 11-point questionnaire. The intent of the survey was to determine why students had chosen not to attend Albany. Of the 2,481 questionnaires sent out, 1,163 or 46.2% were returned. 16.6% of the respondents reported that S/U grading was a factor in their decision not to come to Albany.

Albany presently has a mandatory S/U grading system for all freshmen and sophomores with some exceptions. Alternatives to this arrangement are being explored. One possibility is the establishment of an Office of Evaluation which would offer a student credit by examination. This office would also be able to reduce graders' loads. Plans are currently in the early stages and would allow all undergraduate students at Albany to be graded on an S/U basis under stipulated conditions. The proposal was approved by the Academic Council and is currently in other committees. Several proposals to allow all undergraduate students at Albany to be graded on an S/U basis under stipulated conditions.
Indian Quad Kitchen Opens Despite Multitude of Problems

Indian Quad's kitchen staff worked nearly four days before school opened to ensure the facility would be ready. This was the first time in five years that the kitchen was open for business.

For the two weeks prior to classes, the kitchen staff worked long hours to prepare meals for the students. The kitchen was expected to serve three meals a day, but due to the staff's dedication, it was able to serve four meals a day.

The kitchen staff faced several challenges, including a lack of equipment and ingredients. The staff had to purchase equipment and ingredients from the local market to ensure the quality of the food served.

Despite these challenges, the kitchen staff was able to provide a variety of meals to the students. The kitchen was equipped with a large oven, stove, and refrigerator, allowing the staff to prepare a variety of dishes.

The kitchen was located in the basement of Pierce Hall, and it was expected to serve 3,000 students per day.

Drum Corps to Entertain at Halftime

The University of Albany will host a drum corps exhibition on September 23rd. The exhibition will feature several drum corps from the region, including the Albany High School Drum Corps, the University of Albany Drum Corps, and the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Drum Corps.

The exhibition will begin at 2:00 p.m. and will be held in the University of Albany's Field House. The exhibition will be open to the public, and admission will be free.

The drum corps will perform a variety of routines, including precision movements and drumming displays. The exhibition will be a great opportunity for students and the community to enjoy the talent of these talented drum corps.

Day Care Seeks Aid

The University of Albany's Day Care Center is in need of additional funding to continue operations. The center provides care for children of university students and staff.

The center is currently funded through a combination of state and federal grants, as well as donations from the community. However, the center is in need of additional funds to cover the cost of operating the center.

The University of Albany is currently seeking donations to support the Day Care Center. Contributions can be made through the University's online donation portal or by mailing a check to the University of Albany's Development Department.

It's been said that "everyone talks about the weather, yet no one does anything about it." This Student Newspaper handles that a lot like the weather; students curse the baldness and the food and the services much the same way as they do the weather. After a few comments, communications, communications, communications communications will come to mind, and you can't change them or fix them, you can only hope they'll be improved in time. After all, that's why you're here, isn't it? You're here to make things better, aren't you?

This season, students have been three changes in the Albany Student Press this semester. Some have been visible to the eye, like the new headline styles. Others are more subtle, like staff changes, layout changes, and the addition of a twice-weekly publication.

These changes are part of a trend that has been happening for the past few years. The decision to start a twice-weekly publication was made in response to student demand. The reason for the attempted closing is to improve the quality of the publication. The reason for the closure is to allow the publication to grow and thrive.

In the future, we hope to continue to make improvements to the Albany Student Press. We welcome any suggestions or ideas for how we can improve the publication. Let us know what you think, and we'll do our best to incorporate your ideas into the publication.

wants some place to outlet his people than that. But there is a lot more to the creative capacity of young people than that. We're looking for the poet who wants some place to outlet his energy without having to wait till May legacy to run his brush with the powers. We're looking for the creative photographer, or one who needs to expose a part of himself. This requires both love and honesty. We simply had to keep up with things, and the only answer was the establishment. It used to be easy to define what "all greased up and ready to kick ass" meant. Sha-Na-Na albums were available, and the audience was ready to accept them. But now we have the problem of defining what "all greased up and ready to kick ass" means. It used to be easy to define what the creative capacity of young people was, and we had a clear idea of what it was. But now we have the problem of defining what the creative capacity of young people is, and we have to do it with a clear idea of what it is. And we have to do it with a clear idea of what it is, because we have to do it with a clear idea of what it is.

Personnel Problems Plague Danes
Bobbs, Flanagan, hurt; Vido dismissed

The loss of several key players has thrown a monkey wrench into the personnel preparations of the State University at Albany football team this season. Bobbs, the top running back for the 1970 Danes, injured his shoulder in the season opener against Utica. Without Bobbs, who had rushed for 1,113 yards and scored 12 times in 1970, the Danes have had to turn to other backs to fill the gap. Flanagan, a first string quarter­back prospect has left school. The move leaves the quarterback position in doubt as the Danes prepare to face Colgate as guests. Six games are scheduled after this week's opener against Utica. Without Bobbs, the Danes will have to rely on other backs on the team, with either Winslow or Muller. The Danes are also without Bobbs on the defensive side of the ball. The Danes will play Williams, while Bobbs is working on his record. Bobbs was a three-year varsity player, and was named first team all-conference in 1970. Bobbs also was the Danes' leading rusher in 1970, with 1,113 yards and 12 touchdowns. Without Bobbs, the Danes will have to rely on other backs in the game to fill the gap.
