State Proposes DNA Controls

by John D. Brown

The New York State Department of Health has proposed new regulations that would require DNA testing for all new drivers. The regulations are intended to prevent reckless driving and improve road safety. The proposed rules would require new drivers to undergo DNA testing as part of their driving license application process. The results of the DNA testing would be used to determine whether a person is likely to drive recklessly. The proposed rules have been met with mixed reactions by the public and the medical community. Some have expressed concerns about privacy and the accuracy of the DNA testing. Others have praised the proposed rules for their potential to improve road safety.

SASU To Sue Higher Education Corporation

by Thomas Martin

A lawsuit has been filed against the State University of New York (SUNY) by a former student who claims that the university discriminated against him on the basis of his race. The plaintiff, who is a member of the African American student group, claims that he was denied admission to the university's law school because of his race. The plaintiff is seeking $5 million in damages, and the university has been ordered to pay $3 million in legal fees and costs. The university has denied the plaintiff's claims and is appealing the decision.

Backlund, M. (Ap). Rich White sets new state record in the 400-meter hurdles. Rich White, a senior at SUNY Albany, set a new state record in the 400-meter hurdles on Friday. The record-breaking performance came during the university's annual track meet. White's time of 51.2 seconds beat the previous state record, which was held by a SUNY Albany student. The university has announced that White will be honored for his achievement at a special ceremony later this month.

Organized Labor Loses First Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor lost the opening battle in its campaign to get a new labor law passed last year, as the Senate Labor Committee voted down a bill that would have provided more protection for workers who try to organize.

The Senate panel voted 11-7 against the bill, which was sponsored by Sen. Robert Kerr, D-Okla. Kerr said the bill would have been a step forward in protecting workers' rights, but he acknowledged it faced an uphill battle in the Senate. Kerr said he would consider amendments to the bill before bringing it back to the floor.

The bill would have provided workers with more protections, including the right to strike and to vote on union representation. It would also have prohibited employers from interfering with workers' rights to organize.

Minimum Wage to Rise to $2.00 an hour

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate finance committee recommended today that the minimum wage be raised to $2.00 an hour. The committee voted 11-7 in favor of the proposal, which was introduced by Sen. Robert Kerr, D-Okla.

The bill, if passed, would increase the minimum wage from $1.50 to $2.00 an hour, effective July 1. It would also index the wage to inflation, ensuring that it keeps pace with price increases.

The proposal was supported by Kerr and other Democrats, who argued that raising the minimum wage is necessary to help workers and their families. Republicans, however, were opposed, saying the bill would hurt businesses and job creation.

Kerr said he was pleased with the outcome, but he acknowledged that the bill still faces a tough road in the Senate. He said he would continue to work with his colleagues to ensure that the bill becomes law.

Jests to Propose a Permanent Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., and Sen. Richard Shelby, R-Ala., are expected to introduce legislation this week that would permanently extend a tax cut for working families.

The bill, if passed, would extend the current tax cut, which helps to offset the costs of raising children, for another year. The tax cut is expected to save families an average of $500 per year.

The bill is supported by Republicans and Democrats, who argue that extending the tax cut is necessary to help families struggling to make ends meet. It is expected to pass easily in Congress.

Sex Researcher Finds a Forum

In Jennifer Hodge's seminar, Roger Lilliard, a visiting scholar currently engaged in research for SUNYA, is the author of an article entitled "Sex in the Classroom: Sexuality Issues in College Education." He is also the author of "Sexual Behavior of College Students: An Analysis of Attitudes, Practices and Norms." The article, which was written in the fall of 1976, was a result of an investigation conducted by Lilliard at SUNYA in the spring of 1977.

Lilliard's research suggests that college students have a variety of views regarding sexuality. He found that many students believe that sexual activity should be protected and that it is important to be open about one's sexual feelings. However, he also noted that students often feel uncomfortable discussing their sexual experiences with others, particularly with their teachers.

The article concludes with Lilliard's recommendation that further research be conducted to better understand the attitudes and behaviors of college students regarding sexuality. He suggests that this research could be conducted through surveys and interviews with students.

In conclusion, Lilliard's research provides valuable insights into the attitudes and behaviors of college students regarding sexuality. His recommendations for further research are important for those who wish to better understand the complex issues surrounding sexuality in the college setting.

Those Big Wheels Keep On Rolling

by Jeff Neufeld

The majority of Albany Quad students are abysmally ignorant about the SUNY Albany Student Association (SUNYA). This ignorance is reflected in the low turn-out that the general student body has at SUNYA elections. Many students are unaware of the consequences of their indifference. In fact, students are entitled to the same level of representation that other groups receive at SUNYA meetings.

If students vote, SUNYA elections will be run according to the rules of the Student Association code. If students do not vote, SUNYA elections will be run according to the rules of the Student Association code. This is the reason that SUNYA meetings are open to the public.

In conclusion, students must take a serious interest in SUNYA elections. The consequences of their indifference will affect the way SUNYA elections are run. If students want to have a say in the SUNYA elections, they must vote.

The Wildwood School Makes Dreams Come True

By SUSAN E. MILLER

Wildwood is a special place. For over 100 years and their families are especially open, emotional support, guided and love. The Wildwood School for Developmentally Handicapped Children is located in Scovilleburg. It is a program that reaches throughout the entire country. The Wildwood School is a cooperative venture between parents and the professional community to develop a comprehensive educational experience for children with developmentally disabilities. The program was established not only to provide direct service to these children, but also to learn through experience the best ways of helping handicapped children and their families. The parents organizations have continued to incorporate themselves in public school. The hope is that a coalition of families can achieve the goals of the Wildwood School. The program is supported by the President's Committee on Employment of Handicapped Children (now known as the President's Committee on Employment of Handicapped Children). Looking Up At The Rainbow...!

There are four university centers in the SUNY system. Each suffers from recent organizational difficulties, each has a pruse-a-faire moment, and each has its share of apathetic inhabitants. Overall, finding major differences should be a rewarding experience.

SUNY holds a student-telephone each year that makes us unique.

Every year, hundreds of students spend six months preparing for the mammoth annual fund-raiser. And every year, for 24 brief shining days, we forget about budget cuts, ignore academic pressures, and even disguise their apathy.

In order to preserve SUNY's strongest mark of distinction, Telephone must not be taken lightly. Each center has a special name and a series of Telephone come and go should be taken to the novelty of the first: those who have never been part of it should give one of this year's shows a twist. They're looking to build a rainbow. By not treating Telephone as old hat, we can furnish a pot of gold at the end of that rainbow.

...And Beyond

But there's no pot of gold at the end of this rainbow. It may be one of SUNY's best-loved institutions, but much that is traditional needs to be changed.

Highest on the list are the recipients of the Telephone effort. To argue that Wildwood School is not deserving of Telephone's attention would be fruitless. But it is not the only "worthy cause" in the world. Or even in Albany.

Telephone should be something special, a gift of hard work and time and care and money and love from the students of SUNY. It should be an out-of-the-blue-shot of adrenaline for organizations in need of help.

When it comes to the point — that point being the present — where Telephone is virtually supporting Wildwood School, then Telephone becomes less than what it should be. Telephone should not be expected to carry the full weight of the world.

If the students on this campus want to run their own school for handicapped children, fine. There's plenty of room down the road. But not for three days. If they want to pump that money into the community to help those less fortunate, great. But keep Telephone special. By changing more than the slogan every year, it can be so much more beneficial to the students, the people of Albany, and, in the long run, the children of Wildwood.

NEW YORK (AP) — Another big Mark Messier broke the NHL's goal-streak record Sunday night when he scored his 300th career goal.
Messier, who plays for the New York Rangers, broke the record held by Mario Lemieux of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

"It's a great feeling," Messier said.
"I've been working on this for a long while." The goal was the 300th of Messier's career and it came in the Rangers' 4-3 loss to the Washington Capitals.

Messier, who has been with the Rangers since 1988, is the fourth player in NHL history to reach 300 goals. Wayne Gretzky, Brett Hull and Mario Lemieux all had more than 300 goals.

Messier's goal was his third of the season and the 300th of his career. It came on a power play when he deflected a shot by Johansen from in front of the goal. Messier has 300 goals in his career, which is the 28th most in NHL history.
