Dr. William S. French Traces Development Of State College
For nearly twenty years this was the only institution in the state which was established with all the funds so that it could train the leaders of tomorrow. The State of New York, Dr. Brubacher said, contributed $25,000 to this institution, which was then known as the New York State Normal School.

The influence of this school, he continued, must be traced back to its earliest beginnings, and the story of its development must be told. The institution was founded in 1857 by the State of New York, and the funds were used to train the leaders of tomorrow. The institution was then known as the New York State Normal School.

First State Normal School Marks Ninetieth Anniversary December 18

Tuesday, December 18, marks the ninetieth anniversary of the New York State College for Teachers, which was founded as the State Normal School in 1844. It was the first normal school in the state and the fourth in the United States.

On May 7, 1844, the New York State Legislature passed an Act for the establishment of a state normal school in the county of Albany, which Governor DeWitt Clinton had made in 1825 in his annual message to the Legislature. The Act provided for the appropriation of money necessary for its support and placed the entire supervision of the school in the hands of the superintendent of common schools and the Regents of the university.

Throughout the Honorable Clinton Hawley, a member of the organization committee, the Mohawk and Hudson railroa construction the credit is due to him. The Hon. Christian Franklin, the first principal, and Dr. William L. Milne, a member of the organization committee which Governor Clinton had appointed, were among the earliest of the Regents of the school. When the building committee appointed by Governor Clinton had purchased and these buildings were ready for habitation. Dr. William L. Milne was appointed first principal and served seven years.

During the early years, when the school was operated as a public school, the students were permitted to receive one dollar a week, and female students one dollar a week, for their room rent, the legislature passing such an Act. Consequently, on December 13, 1843, the school opened for the first term under most favorable conditions. The first building, which was completed in June, 1844, numbered 74. All of the graduates in this class had some teaching experience, ranging from one-half to forty-seven years.

From 1849 on, the problem was one of building facilities, curriculum, and name. An additional College building was erected at a cost of $3,000, to the first building of its own. From 1848 to 1880, the events of importance were the changes that occurred in the principal's office. The building for students of the Civil war was begun in 1862. A total number of 170 students entered and served in the war, four joining the Confederate army. A tablet in memory of the normal school students who gave their lives during the Civil war has been placed in the rotunda of Draper hall.

In 1882, Dr. Edward P. Waterbury, who succeeded Dr. Joseph Adams as principal, was instrumental in securing a new site for the erection of the school. When the old building was deemed unsafe for habitation, Dr. Waterbury was appointed in 1889.

Freshmen To Open Basketball Season With College House

The freshman basketball team will open its season tonight against College House in the preliminary game in Page hall gymnasium. The squad, coached by George Barnett, '38, has been invited to display their skill since the basketball men were called. The freshmen were to have opened their season Saturday at Amsterdam but the conflict with the varsity game necessitated its cancellation.

The men composing the freshman team and who will probably see action tonight are: Neil Krasner, John O'Neill, Frank Hildebrand, Lyce Lawton, Paul Schmitz, John Murray, and Peter Rodgers. The tentative schedule as announced by Edward Reynolds, manager, is:

- January 18, Wabash
- February 3, Ithaca College
- February 23, Buffalo College
- March 21, Normal School
- March 28, Sagamore

HOME, JAMES! For Christmas Holidays

Congratulations, students! You need no longer fear that your college - in an unguarded moment — will pawn your extra pair of pants or lock your jewelry to raise the fare necessary to go home Christmas. Greyhound's excursion rates eliminate that danger.

This Christmas you can make the trip home in a modern, comfortably-heated coach, piloted by one of the finest drivers on American highways. Join in the good fellowship or recline your deeply cushioned chair to the most comfortable angle and let the miles fly by unheeded.

Greyhound's frequent schedules enable you to leave almost as soon as your last class is over — and stay until the last possible moment before you return.
