I don't know whether it was my wishing things for knowledge, or my writing them down, or, a last weekend that brought me to the State Library, but there I was. I jacketed like a country duck at the rising stream and the 56 pigeon pillars, I never realized that the future was dark and ominous. As I entered the Grand Central Station, I threw a snowball at the State Library and went home.

In his speech to the legislature recently, Governor Macnamara named as two main goals of his program aid to youth and education. The Governor advocates the teachers' salaries which would raise the current momentum in New York State. The Legislature has been making a move toward this goal, and as a result, many teachers in the state have been given raises. The Governor also emphasized the importance of education, particularly for the underprivileged. A proposed bill which would provide funds for extra-curricular activities and programs has been introduced. These changes are expected to benefit students and teachers alike. A successful year is expected for the 1956-1957 school year.

If the State College faculty and students want an immediate opportunity for a senior to be a member of the faculty, it will be in the 1963 and 1964 classes. A study of the reported classes shows that the opinion of the majority of students is that a senior will be in the class in 1963.
