DoD

Yes, the Department of Defense really does sponsor research right here on the Albany State University campus. All too often, however, the importance of this fact is not recognized by students, faculty, or the general public. The Department of Defense supports research projects that are relevant to national security and defense, and these projects are conducted on the Albany State University campus.

We urge students, faculty, and other members of the Albany State University community to be aware of the Department of Defense's presence on campus and to take advantage of the opportunities that this relationship provides. The Department of Defense is committed to supporting research that is important to national security, and we encourage students and faculty to participate in this work.

We also encourage the Albany State University administration to make the Department of Defense's research more visible to the public. This will help ensure that the Department of Defense's work is supported by the community and that the benefits of this work are realized.

We believe that the Department of Defense's presence on the Albany State University campus is an important resource for the university and its students.

On to Washington! Court decision in favor of buses

By Tom Clark

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled in favor of the New York State Department of Transportation's (NYSDOT) proposal to implement a bus system in New York City. The court's decision was a victory for NYSDOT and for the people of New York City, who have been calling for a bus system for many years.

The court's decision was based on a review of the proposal and the evidence presented to the court. The court found that NYSDOT had presented a strong case for the bus system, and that the benefits of the system would outweigh the costs.

The court also noted that NYSDOT had taken steps to ensure that the bus system would be as beneficial as possible to the people of New York City. The court praised NYSDOT for its efforts to make the bus system as efficient and convenient as possible.

We believe that the court's decision is a positive step forward for the people of New York City, and we encourage NYSDOT to continue to work towards implementing the bus system as quickly and efficiently as possible.
ROYAL Hunt of the Sun

Inca god-king Atahuallpa, played by Peter Hasler, and the cultures in the mid-1530's, is the spiritual defeat of their leader, Pizarro's relationship with the Inca. His delusions are shattered; the music moments of terror and misery continue tolling, and the music of a people in his play, THE ROYAL HUNT OF THE SUN, includes: Mitchell Angel, Joel Eurinirios. The play is about a lonely Russian clerk (Reynolds) who lends catharsis to DIONNE's melancholy treatment of a Women's Champion. Miss Warwick. Reprinted in the Albany Student Press on November 16, 1969.

Dionne's style was aided especially by her impressive pianist, whose 45 minutes she actually sang. This captivating rendition of "Don't Make Me "College audiences are very receptive," said Miss Warwick. Over" sold over a million copies.

SUPREME COURT DECISION ON BUSES

Student Association

Decisions on the Bus Appropriation to Washington D.C.

Under consideration is the constitutionality of CC 6869-119 drafted in a referendum of the Student Association and presented to the Board of Trustees on October 13, 1969. This motion passed by 279 to 69.

Central Council has the power to delegate monies for the purchase of a fleet of buses to be sent from Albany to Washington on November 15, 1969. This motion is supported by 620 to 278.

The Board of Trustees met on October 12, 1969 to consider the constitutionality of the motion passed by the Student Association. The motion states: "The Student Association requests the Board of Trustees to approve the purchase of a fleet of buses to be sent from Albany to Washington on November 15, 1969."

The Board of Trustees, after due consideration, ruled that the motion is constitutional and that Central Council has the power to delegate monies for the purchase of a fleet of buses to be sent from Albany to Washington on November 15, 1969.

Central Council has become a duly constituted body of the University, in accordance with the provisions of Section II, Standing states: "It is usual in deliberative assemblies, to have all preliminary work in the preparation of matter for their action done by means of committees. The committee may be considered as an auxiliary of the whole' consisting of the entire assembly."

The Court's jurisdiction "shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under the Constitution, Artice 1, Central Council, Resolution 302.14 does not state in the Constitution, Artice 1, Central Council, Section 3, part 1, note: "The Central Council shall have the power to delegate money to students or groups in order to facilitate this, Women's Liberation Movement will be held a charter, as well as obtaining facilities for their meeting place."

The next meeting will be on Thursday, November 3rd, at 3:00 p.m. in the Albany Film-Making Society.

Communication demonstration good news

To the Editors:

I have been involved in student demonstration for some time. I have found that young people have a natural instinct for protest and change, and I believe that this instinct is a positive force for good. I want to share some of my thoughts on this topic.

First, I believe that demonstration is a powerful tool for expressing social and political beliefs. When students stand together to demand change, they can create a sense of community and solidarity. This can be especially powerful in a time of crisis or conflict.

Second, I believe that demonstration can be an effective way of bringing attention to important issues. When people come together to protest, they can make a powerful statement and force leaders to take notice.

Third, I believe that demonstration can be a way of promoting education and critical thinking. When students engage in discussion and debate, they can develop a deeper understanding of the issues at hand.

In conclusion, I believe that demonstration is a valuable tool for promoting social and political change. I encourage all students to consider participating in demonstration, as it can be a powerful way of expressing your beliefs and making a difference in the world.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]
