On Friday evening, November 22, the seniors gave a party in the college gymnasium. The party took the form of a barn dance, and everyone came dressed to stir the occasion. The fellows wore overalls, and the girls wore sun-bonnets and long-sleeved blouses. The gymnasium was very prettily trimmed with cornstalks and pumpkins. The electric lights were covered with hay, and confetti in paper bags which were the color of autumn leaves, added much to the effect produced by the corn and pumpkins. The 1920 banner and the 1922 banner were also used as decorations.

Waste Miller, president of the Sophomore Class, gave a short talk in which he reviewed the semester. The first part of the evening was given up to the Virginia Reel and Paul Jones. Then some of the sophomore girls gave a stunt. Sally Palm and Mabel White represented 1921. Some other girls dressed as Indians, came out and danced. They did this to comfort 1920 who was lonely. They sang a song composed in honor of the Senior Class, after they had finished, the entire Sophomore Class joined in singing. The rest of the evening was given up to modern dances, with the exception of the time taken up in serving refreshments and in taking a flashpicture of the group. The refreshments were provided by 1920, and Dorothy Pinn was chairman of all the committees.

THANKSGIVING

When we think of the word Thanksgiving, we usually think of the harvest and the turkey. These are certainly worth celebrating, but the true meaning of Thanksgiving is much more than just giving thanks for the bountiful harvest.

The word Thanksgiving comes from the Latin word "gratitude," which means "to be grateful." It is a time to think about all the good things that we have in our lives, and to express our gratitude for them.

Thanksgiving is not just about the food and the turkey, but about the spirit of giving and sharing. It is a time to come together with family and friends, to share a meal, and to spend time with those we love.

Thanksgiving is also a time to reflect on our blessings and to think about how we can give back to others. It is a time to remember those who are less fortunate than we are, and to think about how we can help them.

So this Thanksgiving, let's not just think about the turkey and the food, but about the true meaning of Thanksgiving. Let's give thanks for all the good things in our lives, and let's also think about how we can give back to others.

Happy Thanksgiving!
Her sister, Mac Cronin, 20, had changed her mind. She accepted Albany on her way from Washington, D.C. to her home in Northampton, Mass. Marion Hasson, 20; Ethel Hogan, 20; Florence Begum, 19, and Klara Sethlow, 19, spent the Thanksgiving vacation with Mary Larnay, 21, in her home in Middletown, N. Y.

Don't forget that classes will be resumed next Monday morning, December 1, at 8:30 a.m.

SPANISH CLUB

Spanish Club was honored at its last meeting, on Wednesday, November 14. The club meets at 8:30 p.m. in room 102 of the Administration Building.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Queene Homan, 23, gave a talk on "The Wildest of the Wild Mikes" Friday, November 21. She told the members of the club some of the experiences she had in the summer, when she was teaching in a small village in the Philippines.

ON COLLEGE CORNER
All He Asked

They were standing outside the front door having a final chat after their evening call.

He was leaning against the doorpost, talking in low, direct tones. She was listening and nodding up capitatively into his eyes.

Suddenly she turned around. The door had opened; and there, just inside, stood her father chauving in a dresscontemptible.

"My dear father," she asked, "what is the matter?"

Her dear father ignored her question.

"John," he said, addressing the young man, "you know I've never complained about your staying late, and I'm not going to complain now; but, for goodness' sake, stop leaning against the self-post. Other people want some sleep, even if you don't."

Often On His Knees

When Rev. N., left a Boston post office for a church in Idaho, the Rev. N. took his place. Six months later a visitor to Boston asked Mrs. Blank, department:

"How do you like your new pastor?"

"Well," replied the church worker, "Brother N. is pleasant, and he preaches good sermons, but—and here came a sigh—he doesn't hold me the way Brother G. used to!"

What He Really Wanted

A small boy went inside a store that displayed a sign, "Boy Wanted."

"What kind of a boy does your father want?" he asked.

"Why, a decent boy," said the merchant. "One who is quiet, doesn't swear, smoke cigarettes, whine around old maids— oh, say no more— what do you want?"

"Oh say, Boss," interrupted the boy, "You don't want no boy; you want a girl."

"But, sir, to kiss A miss is sweet, you see."

"I do not kiss Atilla, if you please."

"What's a good thing to clean jergy with?" he asked."

"Try a shovel."

She—"Have you seen Service?"

He—"No, but I have read his poems."

Perhaps some jokes are odd, And should be on the shelf; But if you know some better ones, Send in a few yourself.

Passing the Hat

I once attended an old fashioned church service down in Georgia.

After an invigorating sermon on the advantages of living straight and keeping away from your neighbor's chicken coop, the venerable pastor passed the hat for the regular Sunday morning collection. He had no ushers for this purpose, probably having made up his mind that this particular office, like the preachial, could hardly be trusted on other hands.

After the hat had made the rounds of the congregation and was returned to the pulpit, he gazed into its depths and finding nothing in the way of a collection, raised his eyes heavenward and said, "Oh, Jesus, thank ye for your many munificences, but most of all, Oh Jesus, we are thankful for the return of that hat."
