Distortion of Evaluation Charged

by M. M. Moe

An editorial evaluation of the sports performance of the Penn State athletic program was completely unexecuted, the task Force on Penn State Athletics, according to one of its members, University of California, Professor Barry S. Cooker. In 1970, this task Force recommended placing sport evaluation, and to that extent, according to the report, the "most recent internal investigation indicated that the continued existence of the existing programs would require a reevaluation of the criteria, executive leadership and organization of the athletic department...".

WCBB Plans Trial AM Broadcasting
by Bob Blumenstyk
WCBB FM has long held the unenviable record as the area's most talked about FM station. After all, the station has only been on the air over one year. General Manager Paul Rosenthal said he hopes trial broadcasts on the AM station will cause a number of curious listeners to tune in to WCBB-FM again.

The station's broadcasting license was re-issued by the Federal Communications Commission, the first renewal granted on the FM station since its debut Jan. 1.

The trial broadcasting will also give him a better idea of the audience's possibility in the area and give listeners an opportunity to experience some of the WCBB-FM broadcast personnel and equipment normally heard on the FM station.

"When the station started one month ago, it was a really long shot. The FCC gave us a permit to start the station and said we had to prove that the AM audience was the same people who listen to our FM station," Rosenthal said. "So that's what we're really trying to prove, and we'll be on the air in a couple of weeks.

"We're going to keep a careful eye on the audience. We'll monitor the audience and make a permanent decision later on in the year or so after the trial," the station's manager said.

EMERGENCY STEPS TAKEN AS UWU Rejects Contract
Many workers are expected to return to their jobs at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee on Tuesday after the faculty and administration signed a contract. The faculty vote last week was a necessary step to bring the university into regular operation.

The faculty voted on a three-year contract for the faculty that includes a 7 percent salary increase, 20-day sick leave, and 15-day personal leave for each faculty member. The contract also includes a two-year extension for the faculty agreement.

The contract was signed by the Wisconsin State University Association, which represents the faculty, and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, which represents the administration.

Emergency steps were taken because the faculty had not signed the contract by the end of the semester. The faculty had until Friday to vote on the contract, and if they did not sign, the university would have been forced to close.

The contract includes language that protects the university's ability to make decisions during the contract negotiations. The university has the right to make decisions during the negotiations that are not covered by the contract.

The blast occurred at a factory that makes explosives for the mining industry. The factory has a history of accidents and has been the target of protests in recent years.

The cause of the blast is under investigation, but it is believed to be an accidental explosion. The factory has been closed since the blast, and the investigation is ongoing.

Flu Virus Outbreak Stalls SUNY Albany
by Mike Pfitzman
An outbreak of a type of flu virus that has been in circulation in the Albany area has caused a large number of students to be absent from school. According to SUNY Albany President Donald J. Francis, the virus has been spreading rapidly in the area.

The flu virus has been identified as a new strain that is more virulent than previous strains. The virus is characterized by severe symptoms, including fever, coughing, and fatigue.

"We have been seeing a significant number of students and faculty members who have been diagnosed with the flu," said President Francis. "We are taking this situation very seriously and are working closely with public health officials to control the outbreak.

"In the meantime, we are urging all members of the SUNY Albany community to take steps to prevent the spread of the flu, including washing their hands frequently, avoiding close contact with people who are sick, and getting vaccinated if possible."

SA Supreme Court and Central Council Conflict
by Peter Noyd
The legislative and judicial branches of the SUNY Albany central council have been at odds over the issue of central council control.

In a recent court ruling, the SUNY Albany central council was ordered to move forward with the implementation of a new policy that would give the central council more control over the university's budget and financial affairs.

The council has been unable to agree on the new policy, and the dispute is likely to continue.

Neither party has been willing to compromise, and the conflict is likely to remain unresolved.

Judicial Committee Hears Academic Cheating Cases
by Bill Rollie
After hearing claims of academic cheating, the SUNY Albany judicial committee is considering the testimony of witnesses.

The committee is hearing testimony from students who have been accused of cheating, and the testimony is likely to be heard by the SUNY Albany central council.

The committee has the power to recommend disciplinary action against students who are found guilty of cheating.

The students are likely to face hearings, and the outcome of the hearings is likely to be determined by the SUNY Albany central council.

"We need to take this issue seriously," said one committee member. "We must ensure that academic integrity is maintained at SUNY Albany, and we will do our best to ensure that the students are held accountable."

Pete Fornatale’s Message On the Media

By RICHIE MERHEMLSTEN

A young man called NWEW-
FM and told the disc jockey that his girlfriend was going to make her entrance at a talent show and that he play something to please her. The disc jockey asked her to stand on the air and then played her song by Janis Ian.

The story is brought up not too long ago that the girl still did not know to show the person of the little talking box found in more than 65 per cent of all the homes in America. The caller solicited the disc jockey’s help in getting her song played on radio. She wasn’t sure if it had failed. Finally, with a light that was not too late, she replied that she would not tell the people on the phone, but not the radio.

This was part of Pete Fornatale’s message which he spoke in the ballroom Friday night. Although he was in the receiving end of the phone call, he did not choose to include this story in his presentation. He talked about the power of the mind. He aged his own radio show through an entertaining mixture of his personal experiences, movies, records, streaming radio, even television. (In America spends more than 37,000 hours or 4,700 days or 19 years of his life watching television.)

Fornatale, who has logged more than 11,000 hours with NWEW, has developed a unique presentation incorporating his personal anecdotes regarding radio with his own observations as an air long media.

And, though he has been one of his regular disc jockeys for perhaps the most widely acclaimed station in the country, he presents his ideas with an understanding of the radio stations as they are on the radio.

He was a popular and relatable personality to the viewers and the audience.

Beating the clock.

Fornatale started out, but even though he was one of the best disc jockeys, the audience had always been a personal contact with the group, they have been managed to affect our lives dramatically. Their stories, sometimes, the media.

The show, which was the brainstorm of Fornatale and fellow disc jockey Don Schenck, was followed by an extensive question and answer session, whereas Fornatale — unlike almost every SUNY alumna who was the same age and opening the floor to questions on a number of topics, not necessarily pertaining to his pet topic. The openness-mindedness and lack of possessiveness Fornatale’s display helped the lengthy presentation breeze. It seemed like a long and enjoyable conversation, then would be unable to turn to the stage, the police were there who opened his time talking and playing records on the little box each day.

It May Be Rock
But It Ain’t Punk

By ROBERT ORIEN

T here have been a lot of controversy as to what counts as ‘punk rock’. Some critics of rock music claim that rock music is a form of new rock music whose influence is most apparent in the world of popular music and to some extent in the world of popular music.

Punk Rock has an existence that continues, as do other forms of music. Though it is not a form of rock, in the world of popular music, it is a form of rock music.

Punk Rock is a style and musical phenomenon that has its origins between Spain and the northern tip of Africa. Gitar rock is another way of saying that the Spanish are a form of the group.

While there are many forms of rock music, the same type of rock music can be associated with a person who is not a rock musician. While there are many different forms of rock music, the same type of rock music can be associated with a person who is not a rock musician.

Kids Don't Write Good Weak character

The editors of the paper have been at a loss to understand why some students write poorly. Our recent survey of students who handed in poorly written essays found that many had difficulty expressing their ideas clearly and coherently. Our research suggests that students who struggle with writing might benefit from additional support, such as writing workshops or tutoring. We encourage all students to take advantage of these resources to improve their writing skills and succeed in their academic endeavors.

We've Got Committees

It's Wednesday night, and most of us are wondering what to cook for dinner. My solution is to make some delicious stir-fry with whatever ingredients I have on hand. I usually start with some stir-fried vegetables, like bell peppers and onions, and then add some protein, like chicken or tofu. To make it a little extra special, I like to add some sesame oil and soy sauce. It's a simple dish, but it's always a hit! Do you have a favorite recipe for a quick and easy dinner? I'd love to hear about it. happydinner nightnight

Into The Public Light

Recently, a number of stories have surfaced concerning inequity in SUNY's handling of evaluations of tenured and academic departments. These stories tell of action taken several years ago and may not be of primary concern to students now attending this university, they do have relevance to SUNY and its future. As the university's college to college diversity and change, the academic community must consider the equity of these processes.

Unfortunately, this seems to be the case at SUNY. The only reason why stories of improper handling of evaluations such as Comparisons of Literature and Speech Pathology have come out several years later is because of the secrecy of those proceedings.

Had these proceedings been open to public examination, perhaps there would have been different results. If a department is being reviewed, the students within that department have a right to know how those proceedings are progressing. If a bias is being evaluated and the outcome of that evaluation affects the morale of professors within that department that evaluation and its processes should be open to the public.

By opening these evaluations to the university community, perhaps politics and personalities won't play as large a role as they apparently already have. And perhaps there won't be stories emerging a few years from now about how these factors affected the determination of a program and about how it's too late to do anything about it.

TAP-ing Carey's Budget

In his 78/79 Executive Budget, Governor Carey has recommended an 8% increase in TAP (Tuition Assistance Program) aid to public college students. As a current student at SUNY, I believe that this proposal, which would benefit only those attending private colleges, is a slap in the face to SUNY students.

The Governor's plan claims that the board in TAP awards for all eligible students recognize the fact that economic hardships are experienced by students of both public and private schools. However, the Governor's proposal is not equitable.

Now that an education related trust such as TAP has merit an increase in state funding in this election year it is imperative that SUNY students be recognized.

The Albany State women's gymnastics team brought home a second-place finish at the NCAA meet with 192.90 points, which was enough to edge out the University of Colorado Boulder, which scored 192.85.

The game was marked by an intense rivalry between the two teams, with Lillard and Anthony engaging in a back-and-forth battle throughout the game.

Danes Defeat Brockport And Osweego; Look For Fifth Straight Win Tonight

by Eddie Ermann

The Albany State University men’s basketball team ended a short but automatic three-game road trip on Wednesday with a convincing 74-52 victory over Brockport. It was the Danes’ fifth straight win.

In their first four straight games, eight nights out of the last ten, the Danes improved their overall record to 13-1. Their only loss came at home against Fairfield.

On Wednesday, the Danes shot 57.9% from the floor, but struggled with 3-point shooting until late in the game. They finished with 17 points on 5-of-10 from beyond the arc.

Danes head coach Alton Bell praised his team’s overall effort.

"It was a great game for us," Bell said. "We’ve been struggling with 3-point shooting all season, but tonight we finally found our range."

After the game, Bell discussed the team’s next road trip. The Danes will face a tough challenge in their upcoming games.

"We’re looking forward to the next few games," Bell said. "We’ve got some tough opponents coming up, but I think we can handle it."

The Danes will travel to Utica College for their next game on Saturday. The game will be played at 7:30pm.

Grapplers Outclassed In Tourney

by Ron Kuss

The Albany State University wrestling team lost all three of its matches in the first round of the NCAA Regional Tournament this weekend. The Danes lost to Cortland, 42-13, then lost to Clarkson, 39-16, and finished with a loss to Ithaca, 35-13.

The Danes finished the season with a 1-2 record in conference play and a 2-2 record overall. Nine of the team’s 10 starters were seniors.

According to head coach Dave Stothers, the team’s performance was disappointing but not surprising.

"We knew it was going to be a tough tournament," Stothers said. "The teams we faced were tough and we didn’t have the experience to match them."

Stothers said the team will use this experience to improve next season.

"We’ve got a lot of work to do," Stothers said. "We need to focus on conditioning and technique."

The Danes will have another chance to compete in the NCAA Regional Tournament next year.

Council Gets Evaluation Copy

by Steve Beckwith

The Albany State University football team has received a copy of an original agreement for president of the university, according to the university spokesperson.

"We’re excited to receive the original agreement," the spokesperson said. "It’s an important part of our university’s history."

The original agreement was signed in 1962 by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and the board of regents of the University of the State of New York.

The agreement granted the university autonomy and the ability to operate as a separate institution.

"It was a significant moment in our university’s history," the spokesperson said. "We’re proud to have this agreement as a part of our history."

The copy of the original agreement will be included in the university’s archives.

Survey Reveals High Flu Rate

by Mike Pavurek

A survey conducted at five area high schools and one middle school found that approximately 30% of the students surveyed had flu-like symptoms.

According to the deputy director of the state Health Services, Dr. Janet Goulet, the high flu rate is concerning.

"We urge all students to stay home if they exhibit flu-like symptoms," Goulet said. "It’s important to prevent the spread of the flu."

The survey was conducted by the state Health Services and the state Education Department.

It was found that 30% of the students surveyed had flu-like symptoms.

"This is a significant number," Goulet said. "We need to take steps to prevent the spread of the flu."

The state Health Services and the state Education Department will work together to ensure that all students have access to flu vaccinations.

May Stop Funding Club Trips

by Steve Davis

The Albany State University has put on hold plans to increase its funding of club sports, according to the university spokesperson.

"We’ve been working on increasing the funding for club sports," the spokesperson said. "But we’ve decided to put that on hold for the time being."

The university has been working to increase the funding for club sports for several years.

"We’ve been working hard to increase the funding," the spokesperson said. "But we’ve had to make some tough decisions."

The university will continue to work on increasing the funding for club sports, but it will not be in the near future.

"We’re going to take a step back and reassess our priorities," the spokesperson said. "But we will continue to work on increasing the funding for club sports."
